New Buildings.

The Gazette of the 7th inst. contained a tolerably full description of the Pulp Mill Co.'s buildings in this village; and, lest outsiders should imagine that if it were not for that company and the canal our industrial classes would be suffering from lack of employment, we now briefly notice the stores, dwellings, &c., being put up by private indi-

On the west side of Colborne street and south of the McArthur block, Mr. Wm. Jordan is creeting two fine new stores, 46x75 feet and 28 feet high. The back and south end are stone and the front is red brick, faced with white. On the north they join the building recently purchased by Mr. Jordan from Mr. St. Michel, and to this an addition 20x25 feet has been built, in order to make it correspond in depth with the others. The contract price for the new block, which is being erected by Mr. Edward Haw, is $2,000.

. Mr. Joseph McArthur, our enterprising reeve, who is said by all his tenants to be a model landlord, is spending a little fortune on improvements on his hotel property. Not long ago he built a large addition to his stores; then he added a billiard room to the MeArthur House; and now he is not only putting up a stone stable, 40x100 feet and 18 feet high, but is inclosing over half an acre behind the hotel with a stone wall two feet thick and eight feet high, and. when that is finished, will put up new sheds in place of the old ones and cover the most used portion of the yard with a thick layer of broken stone. The stable alone, which looks as if it will stand a thousand years, will cost at least $1. 400; but how much what Mr. Mantilini would call the "dem'd total" will amount to Mr. McArthur doesn't know

Messrs. Barker & Broad have the contract for the bricklaying and plastering, and Mr. Thos. Littleton for the carpenter work.

The cost of the whole will be $1,800. On the north side of Francis street east Mr. Edwards, livery stable proprieproperty purchased by him a few weeks ago from Mr. Ingram. The building 17x48 feet at the rear end of the lot has been turned into a stable for ten horses, and in front of it is erected a substantial driving shed, 35x45 feet and 13 feet high at the eaves, with a floored with two-inch plank, and the space at each side is being filled up to the level of the flooring with broken stone from the canal, topped off with gravel. The house is 26x33 fect, two stories high, with a c ttage roof, and the kitchen is 17 feet square and a story and a half high, all on a solid stone foundation, with a cellar the whole size of the kitchen. It is a wooden building, but is to be veneer ed with brick, and when finished will have a handsome appearance. As an The artificial propagation of fish, additional protection against cold, all ter acre lot he lately purchased from being done by Mr. John Craig, and Mr. Inkpin will do the plastering. The cost advocate so sweeping a measure. It is of the house will be about $800, and it can be let at a paying rent the moment

The above buildings are all north of the Fenelon river, and are the only new if possible, how far that system is right ones we know of this side of the stream except those belonging to the Pulp Mill two of the hatcheries might be allowed Co, and they have already been noticed.

South of the river, On Lindsay street, Mr. Wm. Routly is building a stone wall, two feet thick and eight feet high, running west 85 feet from the north-west corner of his hotel and then south 23 feet to the stable. About 25 feet of the length will be occupied by a summer kitchen, etc., and the remaining 60 feet will form a driving shed. Messrs. Wise and Puddycomb are doing the masonry; the carpenter work has not yet been com-

On Helen street Mr. Alexander Mc-Leod has a nice little frame dwelling house nearly finished. It is 21x26 feet, a story and a half high, with kitchen 14x20 feet. Mr. Inkpin is doing the plastering, and the doors and window sash were bought ready made; but al the other work was done by Mr. Mc-Leod himself and done well too, altho' he was never for a day under a carpenter's instructions in the handling of tools. Mr. McLeod was not at the building when we went to look at it and neither his father nor Mr. Inkpin could tell us the probable cost.

On an acre lot not far from Mr. Mc Leod's a small but comfortable dwelling is about to be built for Mr. Charles Harling. It will be 20x24 feet, a story and a balf high, with a stone founda tion and cellar. Mr. Thomas Littleton has the carpenter work, and the masonry and plastering will probably be done by Messrs Barker & Broad. The cost is estimated at $450.

The above is sufficient to show that building operations are not by any means at a standstill in Fenelon Falls. Next season Mr. McArthur's pork packery will be erected, and very likely another store or two and some houses, for the population of the village is increasing, and we believe there is not at the present moment an empty habitable building in the place.

A PULL-BACK -Last Tuesday evening one of the canal horses was pulled backward by a cart-load of stone which was about to be dumped on Mr. McArthur's lot on Francis street, and fell or rolled to the foot of the embankment on which it was working. The distance, four or five feet, was not great; but the poor animal's descent was over an in clined plane of broken and jagged rock, and it was covered with scratches, some of considerable depth. It was held down by the shafts of the cart for several minutes, during which period it groaned repeatedly, but was able to go to work again as soon as it was on its feet A REFRIGERATOR .- Last Tuesday Messrs. McDougall & Brandon Bros. received from Toronto and set up in their grocery a Withrow & Hillock's patent Arctic Refrigerator, which cost, including freight, very nearly one hundred dollars. Being quite a handsome article, it is an additional attraction to the establishment, but it was for use, not ornament, that it was purchased, and the customers of the enterprising firm will no longer suffer the annoyance, in hot weather, of receiving their butter in a half melted condition, as it will be kept just below the freezing point in the refrigerator, which is large enough to contain a very considerable quantity of such articles as require to be kept at a cool temperature; and we understand that McDougall & Brandon Bros. are making arrangements to secure a constant supply of fresh fish, now that they have the means of preserving it.

The Corrupt Practices Bill.

NEW YORK, July 15 .- The Tribune's

London special says :- The Corrupt Practices Bill, which passed thro' Com mittee yesterday, has occupied the at tention of the Commons during the past three weeks. The bill is intended to protect the electors, not only from temptations of bribery, but from every species of undue influence. It is made a penal offence to offer a voter meat, drink or entertainment with a view to obtaining his vote. The proposed law also seeks to shield him from every other influence which may warp his judgment The question of spiritual intimidation has been debated with considerable en ergy, and has caused another rent in the Liberal ranks. Arthur Arnold and other philosophical Radicals believe that spiritual intimidation, not involving physical injury and loss, is beyond the jurisdiction of the law. They argue that if a priest or minister thinks that either party is pursuing a course which is absolutely wicked, he is bound to denounce that party. He may feel it his duty to oppose a caudidate supporting such a line of conduct. Suppose, they say, a priest threatens to excommunicate his flock from the communion. may be his duty from his point of view to do so, and all that should be denounce ed and rendered penal is the unprincipled use of such influence. But how can such a question be tried. There is obviously no Court capable of entering into the point of view from which, in the mind of the minister or ecclesitie, action may be right or wrong. Consequently, they argue, the only proper course is to exclude spiritual influence from the operation of the bill. The Use Lardine Machine Oil for bill, as now amended, contains serious
