Mr. Fauquier Disqualified.

In our last issue we briefly noted the fact that the Muskoka election trial had resulted, so far, in the unseating of Mr. Fauquier; and the question as to his disqualification has since been settled in the affirmative by Justices Patterson and Ferguson, who on Monday last, at Osgoode Hall, rendered their judgment in full, which occupies three columns of the daily Globe. The respondent was disqualified because he was shown by his own evidence, as well as by that of other witnesses, to have violated those sections of the Election Act which forbid a candidate or any person on his behalf to treat or otherwise entertain the electors, and this Mr. Fauquier continued to do, although warned by a personal friend but political opponent that he was acting illegally. Clauses 161 and 162 of the Act, which formed what might be called the "text" of the judgment, are as follows:

161. When it is found by the report of the judges upon an election petition that any corrupt practice has been committed by or with the actual knowledge or consent of any candidate at an election, in addition to his election, if he has been elected, being void, he shall during the eight years next after the date of his being so found guilty be incapable of being elected to and of sitting in the Legislative Assembly, and of being entered in any voters' list as a voter and of voting at any election, and of holding any office at the nomination of the Crown or of the Lieutenant-Governor in Ontario or any municipal office. 36 V. c. 2. s. 3 (2).

162. It appears to the Court, or the judges trying an election petition, that an act constituting in law a corrupt practice was committed by a candidate, or with his knowledge and consent, but without any corrupt intent and in an ignorance which was involuntary and excusable, and that the evidence showed the candidate to have honestly desired, and in good faith endeavored, as far as he could, to have the election conducted according to law, the candidate shall not be subject to the penalties and disabilities which he would but for this section incur under the next preceding section. 36 V. c. 10, s. 35.

The first fixes the very serious penalties to be inflicted on any candidate personally convicted of corrupt practices during his canvass; and the other provides that if, in the opinion of the judges, the acts were committed through ignorance and without corrupt intent, the penalties shall not be inflicted. In Mr. Fauquier's case the commission of numerous illegal acts was clearly proved; and the judges plainly intimated, not only by their decision but by the language in which it was conveyed, that the respondent was perfectly aware of the illegality of his own acts and of those of his chief supporters. There is not a shadow of doubt that the election law, from the day it was passed until now, has never been half so flagrantly violated as it was in Muskoka, and Mr. Fauquier, who is the first person disqualified since the amendments of a few years ago, must bear the consequences as he best can. The Mail, which in Tuesday's issue admitted that it had no word to say against the judgment that disqualified him, had a great many words to say against it next day, and advised that the talked of appeal should be entered; but the case is one of those which the more they are agitated the more offensive to the olfactories they become, and we feel quite sure that Mr. Fauquier will let it drop. He has only got his deserts, and we sincerely hope that every candidate, whether Conservative or Reformer, who acts as he did, may share his fate. It was predicted some time before the election in Muskoka that the constituency was to be bribed and corrupted on an unprecedented scale, and the event fully justifies the prediction. After the delivery of the judgment Mr. Bethune, Q. C., renewed his application for the issue of summonses against John Shields, Kaddy Pringle, "Big Bush" Wilkinson, and others, including, we hope, Mr. Anderson, who made himself so conspicuous in North Victoria, not only by the coat from which some one conferred on him the sobriquet of "Squirrel Skin," but it is believed by a course of action similar to that of which he is said to have been guilty in Muskoka.

Assailing the Sabbath.

Painful as it is to a vast majority of the professors of the christian religion, and prone as some of them are to deny it, there can be no doubt that there is a greater tendency to disregard the observance of the Sabbath than there was some few years ago; and this tendency ought to be opposed because—even if no higher reason existed—there never was a time since the one day's rest out of seven was instituted, when it was as much needed as it is now. The excuse urged for working on Sundays is that the rest of the week does not afford sufficient time for the transaction of business; but a moment's thought will convince any man, even if he is of such east iron constitution that his feelings do not, that the harder he is driven from Monday morning until Saturday night, the greater is the need, if he value mental and physical health, for him to spend twenty-four hours in rest, recreation, and religious observances. We are quite aware that a great many of our readers will object to the word "recreation"; and we shall not find fault with them if they object on the only reasonable ground that it is extremely difficult to draw the line between what are and what are not pleasures and amusements that may be innocently indulged in on Sundays, and if any be permitted it is impossible to say how far the admission may be stretched. This point, on which there are many different and widely divergent opinions, we have no wish to discuss; but all who do not desire the total abolition of the Sabbath agree that with rare exceptions no ordinary avocations ought to be engaged in on that day. Consequently if, as alleged, our village hotel keepers sell liquors, and if, as appears to be the case, the proprietors of the Mary Louise intend to run excursions on Sundays, the former must expect such action as has very properly been taken (see council proceedings) by our resident clergymen, and the latter will chill the welcome the people of Fenelon Falls were prepared to extend to them. When ministers of the Gospel differ, as we know they do, as to what is lawful on the Sabbath day, it is not for us to invade their province and offer our benighted secular opinion. We would rather devote it to a useful and noble work, and therefore we object to anything that tends in that direction. A distinguished participant in the French Revolution, but who forgot for the moment which one it was, said, "If God did not exist it would be necessary to invent him," meaning that without some greater restraint than mere human laws mankind would run into all kinds of excesses; and, in our opinion, if Sunday did not exist it would be necessary to institute it; for under the present high pressure state of existence to which all who have to earn their living are condemned, cases of insanity and suicide would increase at a fearful rate if the day of rest were abolished.

The Year of Horrors.

So many calamities of unusual magnitude have occurred within the past few months that 1883 is beginning to be spoken of as "the year of horrors," and it can justly lay claim to the dismal appellation. It has not been marked by an unusual number of crimes, or by any of exceptional atrocity, but by the loss of life and the destruction of property by accidents and the forces of nature have been perfectly appalling. "Panics," tornadoes and cyclones characterized the first half of the year; but their results were insignificant casualties compared with what were to follow from other causes. A few weeks ago the world stood aghast at the fearful consequences of the earthquake at Calabria; but even that was to be eclipsed almost before it ceased to be the subject of popular comment. Just too late for our last issue, which was printed a few hours earlier than usual, came the news of volcanic eruptions in Java, by which islands, cities, towns, villages and even districts were destroyed, and no less than seventy-five thousand human beings sent into eternity with hardly a moment's notice, and for a time it was feared that the whole island would be torn to pieces and disappear in the sea. Streams of lava poured down the sides of the volcanoes, columns of fire and smoke ascended from their craters, and a bed of solid ice, believed to be the crust of some subterranean lake, was carried along in a molten sea of lava, and landed at the north-east corner of the island. The accounts of the calamity, feebly as they portray the reality, must thrill all readers with horror, and awaken the warmest sympathy for the unfortunate sufferers and almost equally unfortunate survivors. And now we have an account from the Hague of the destruction of Tjirine by a tidal wave, and the drowning of ten thousand of its inhabitants.

Religious congregations in Texas often include Chinese, Fins of Russia, Germans, French, English, Irish, Italian, Spanish, Jewish, Mexican, American and African people.

PETITION.

To the Council of the village of Fenelon Falls. The petition of the undersigned humbly sheweth:

That the liquor-law is openly and systematically broken in this village by the sale of liquor on the Lord's Day: that it is the duty of the council to enforce the law through their officer, and that the object of this petition is simply to call the attention of the council to this violation of the law: that it is not only the duty but the interest of every one owning property in the village to have the law enforced, since lawlessness and immorality are calculated to keep from the village that class of inhabitants which we much need to build up its prosperity. We desire to say that we have no wish to interfere with the lawful business of the hotel keepers, but only to have Sabbath desecration, arising out of this crying evil, stopped; and your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

announced; that very few persons were present on the occasion; and that the announcement in the Mail was read by our villagers with equal surprise and amusement.

A SNEAK THIEF.—Between 8:30 and 11 o'clock last Wednesday night some person entered Mr. Richard Smith's bed-room in the Simpson House and stole a tin box containing $23 50 in cash, a ledger and cash book, and a book belonging to Mr. D. Scully and relating to his business affairs. Mr. Smith did not miss the box, (which was deposited in one corner of the room between a trunk and the wall) until he awoke next morning; but it must have been taken between the hours mentioned, as he locked the door of his room before going to bed. The theft of the money is not of much consequence, as the amount was small; but the want of the books will occasion much trouble, inconvenience and possible loss; and they are of no use whatever to the person who has them, it is to be hoped he will adopt some means of returning them.

CIVIC HOLIDAY AND PICNIC.—In compliance with the request of the business men of the village, the revee has issued his proclamation appointing next Thursday, the 13th inst., a civic holiday, and Father McEvay's picnic is to be held in Mr. Sullivan's grove the same day. Catholic picnics are always well attended, and as boats are to run from Lindsay and Bobaygeon, there will no doubt be a crowd of visitors, many of whom will probably come up to the village to take a look at the canal, the pulp mill and the lime kiln. It is to be hoped that none of our country friends will drive to the Falls next Thursday in the expectation of doing business, as if they do they will be disappointed. They will be welcomed to the picnic, where they can have a day's pleasure and a good dinner for fifty cents; but the stores will be all closed, and there will be no buying or selling in any of them if the proprietors keep faith with one another.

A Break in the Missing Link.

There are at present about one hundred and thirty-five men engaged on the work of track laying, ballasting, etc., on the missing link line of the Midland Railway, under the charge of Mr. John Cheer, the efficient road master of the Midland branches. Part of this force is engaged on the Onemee end of the line and the remainder on the Peterborough end, and the work is being pushed forward as rapidly as it can be done. About four miles out from the town a serious obstacle has presented itself in a boggy swamp. The ties and rails had been laid through the swamp, and the construction train made one trip over it, when the road bed sank down in two places. The holes are each of about the length of a car and a half. In one of them, the east one, fifty carloads of filling material has been emptied and in the other one ten loads. The holes are only a few rods apart. On Monday afternoon Mr. J. G. Machlin, Chief Engineer of construction, and Mr. Cheer visited this place to inspect and determine the best method of overcoming the difficulty. It was found that in the first hole the track had sunk about a foot under the water, and had there, apparently, found a bottom, and it was decided to try the effect of more stone and gravel. At the second hole, in which the smaller amount of material had been emptied, the track had sunken lower. This one had the appearance of being the worst place, as the earth at the side has been heaved up as if by a small earthquake. At this place, if it cannot be filled with stone and gravel, timber will be sunk to form a bottom, and the hole will then be filled up with stone and gravel. The swamp is very soft at this place, and where the first sink hole is being excavated at this place to carry the water of the creek and the accumulated dead water away from the road, so that it will not soak through the road bed or wash against it in the spring seasons.—Peterborough Review.

Utilizing Sawdust.

Numerous methods have been devised to utilize sawdust, thousands of cords of which have been annually consigned to the flames for the purpose of getting rid of it. Compressing machines have been invented to press it into solid substances for use as fuel, and for other purposes, and the inventive genius of the country is still engaged in the attempted solution of the problem, "what shall be done with the sawdust?" A new idea has lately materialized, according to an exchange, which says: "Pine sawdust, highly compressed, has been successfully used to make up center frames of carriage wheels. It is said to be so solid that it will bear a pressure equal to 23 tons per square inch. As sawdust has also been used for partition and bricks, its application to the production of complex carriages and moldings does not seem to be far off. This opens up quite a new market for sawdust, which has hitherto been a comparatively waste product.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—Last Tuesday evening there was a meeting of the directors of the Mechanics' Institute, respecting which we wish to make a few remarks, but are compelled to defer them until next week.

THE TORONTO EXHIBITION.—The Industrial Exhibition at Toronto will commence on Tuesday next, the 11th inst., and last until the 22nd. We hope that some of the residents of Fenelon Falls will figure in the prize list as they have hitherto done.

A PITY THEFT.—Some small coal pile recently dug up and carried off a quantity of potatoes growing in a field owned by Mr. Coppleson, of Fenelon. There were two lots of potatoes, planted at different dates in the field; and those farthest advanced were sold to Mr. Jos. McFarland, of this village, a day or two before the others were stolen, which makes their loss more severely felt.

HOAXED.—We were greatly astonished to see a statement in the Mail and two or three other papers to the effect that the corner stone of the locks in this village had been laid with much ceremony in the presence of between three and four thousand spectators. To account, in self defence, for the non-appearance in the Gazette of a report of the proceedings, we are compelled to state that the said stone was laid at seven o'clock in the morning; that the intention of laying it was not publicly
