The North Victoria Protest.

The North Victoria election trial commenced last Thursday in Lindsay before Judges Oslender and Burton, and the train on the Victoria Railway was so crowded with passengers that many of them could not find seats and some were forced to ride on the platforms of the cars, which shows the interest with which the trial is regarded. The charges are nearly a hundred in number, several of them being of personal bribery by the respondent. How many witnesses there are we have been unable to learn, but there must be a great many, and it is said that every Conservative hotel keeper in the riding has been subpoenaed to prove that they violated the law by keeping their houses open while the election was in progress. The trial may be over before the Gazette goes to press; but it is not likely to be, as the odds are greatly in favour of its being both long and interesting. It was impossible for us to be present, and with our limited space and small staff we could only have given the briefest synopsis of the evidence, which of course will be printed in full from day to day in the city papers, and will be read with interest by every person in the constituency who takes any interest in political matters.

The Abject Poor.

A profound sensation has lately been caused in England by revelations that have been made regarding the appalling condition of the abject poor in the great cities, and especially in London, where—often within a short distance of the dwellings of the wealthy—human beings are compelled to herd together in a state of squalid misery that would touch a heart of stone. Add to this the pangs of starvation so severe that girls barely past childhood are driven to the streets, and their still younger brothers forced to steal, to provide themselves and their wretched parents with bread, and we have a picture so hideous that none contemplate it without feelings of horror and a burning desire to do something for the relief of the sufferers. But their number is so great that philanthropy stands aghast as it contemplates the tremendous task before it; and though the question, how best to attack the evil? is agitating all classes of people in England, there is a great diversity of opinion as to the most advisable course to pursue. A great obstacle in the way of instant adoption of remedial measures seems to lie in the fact that the "abject poor" are of two classes, the honest and the criminal, and they are so entangled that there would be much difficulty in extending charity to the one without aiding and encouraging the other. No doubt many of the criminals are such from choice and natural depravity, but as there is also little doubt that many have been forced into evil ways by the pressure of want, perhaps it would be both wise and christian-like not to attempt to make a discrimination at first, but to give help to all who need it without regard to their past records. Of course there are religious enthusiasts who allege that "the Gospel" is the best cure for the fostering heaps of humanity in the city slums, and that the sinfulness of the evils that afflict the poor of the system will soon disappear. It is to be hoped that these gentle hearers of the old saying that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach," and will subject their patients to the preliminary treatment of feeding and warming before dosing them with scriptural texts.

The Toronto Globe, in an article on the above subject, bids Canada beware, and darkly intimates that, if the N. P. and other causes now in active operation have as lamentable a state of affairs here as in England, which is probably no worse than many other countries of the Old World. There can be no doubt that poverty is rapidly increasing in this Dominion; but, though the scandalous taxation to which the working classes especially are subjected may be to some extent responsible for the increase, it is mainly to be attributed to the spirit of selfishness which prompts almost every human being to exact, whenever possible, a dollar's worth of goods or labour for ninety five cents and give ninety-five cents' worth for a dollar. As the few grow wealthy the many become poor, and as the possession of money seldom lessens the craving for it and always increases the power of obtaining it, millionaires and millionairesses are generally to be found in close proximity to each other. What we want is more Gospel—not amongst the poor, but amongst the rich; for if its precepts ruled the hearts and actions of those who possess the power derived from the possession of great wealth, there would soon be a marked diminution of the poverty and no doubt also of the crime which at present disgrace all the civilized nations of the earth.

A Harmonious Project.

One day last week the Rev. Mr. Lechead introduced us to Prof. Salter, who lately moved from Greenbank to Lindsay, where he has been engaged as leader of the choir and congregational singing in St. Andrew's church as well as in the Sabbath school; and the Post says that "a marked improvement is already noticeable in the heartiness of this important part of the service," adding that "the arrangement is an excellent one, and the managers of the church are to be congratulated."

Prof. Salter's visit to the Falls was for the purpose of ascertaining whether the leading members of the Presbyterian congregation here are desirous of securing his services, and his method of teaching will be laid before a meeting to be held in the church at 7 o'clock on the evening of Wednesday, January 2nd. He has greatly improved the singing in several churches, and is highly recommended as an experienced and successful teacher of both vocal and instrumental music, and the estimation in which he was held by the residents of Greenbank and its vicinity is evidenced by the following testimonial presented to him on the eve of his departure:

GREENBANK, Nov. 19th, 1883.

To Prof. Salter.—DEAR SIR,—In behalf of the members and adherents of the Presbyterian church of Greenbank we wish to tender you our gratitude for the high culture of our church choir under your tuition, which has so much improved in congregational singing and has consequently rendered this portion of our religious services so much more appropriate and attractive. While it will always afford us pleasure to hear of your personal advancement, we would not seek to conceal from you our regret at the prospects of losing your services.

AGRICULTURAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the Fenelon Branch Agricultural Society is advertised to be held at the Simpson House on Tuesday, January 12th, commencing at 2 p. m.

North Victoria appeal.—To call and get a supply of School Books, old and new kinds, at the Fenelon Falls Drug Store.

GO AND SEE IT.—Don't forget that an Amateur Dramatic Entertainment is to be given in Ingram's hall on the evening of Friday next, January 4th. We are requested to state that "Bout at the Swan" has been dropped for the present and another play substituted.

LEGAL.—In our advertising columns will be found the professional card of Messrs. Dean & Start, barristers, who will open an office in Jordan's block, Colborne street, about the end of the first week in January, when Mr. Start will, we suppose, take up his residence in the village.

CHANGED HANDS.—The Cannington Gleaner has changed hands. Mr. James Currie, having sold out to Mr. Herbert R. Lack, late of the Lindsay Warbler office. The Gleaner has always been a well managed, admirably printed and readable paper, and the new proprietor says that he intends to enlarge and improve it and make it still more creditable to the village.

Remember.—Everything in the line of School Books, Pens, Inks, Papers, Slates &c., at the Fenelon Falls Drug Store.

CHURCH DECORATION.—According to custom, St. James's church, Fenelon Falls, was handsomely decorated for Christmas Day, a dozen or more of the youthful members of the congregation, assisted by a few older ones, having spent many evenings in preparing wreaths, texts &c., for the purpose. The effect was very pleasing, and needs to be seen to be appreciated.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION.—The election of school trustees, which took place last Wednesday, was, as usual, a tame affair, no opposition having been offered to the three persons nominated. Messrs. Swanton and Greene were elected in place of Messrs. Ellis and Nie, whose term of office has expired, and Mr. Mitchell in place of Mr. Fitzgerald, who had a year to serve.

To Parents & Children.—We make a specialty of keeping full lines of School Books, &c., so that anything you require for school purposes you can be supplied with cheap at the Drug Store.—W. E. ELLIS.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The nominations will take place on Monday next, the 31st inst., and the elections (if any) on Monday, January 6th. All that appears to be any way certain regarding them, is that Mr. McArthur, the reeve of this village, is to be opposed by Mr. H. W. Greene, and that Mr. Naylor will attempt to wrest the reeveship of Fenelon from Mr. Daniel. The present reeves will, we venture to predict, be re-elected. We have since heard that Mr. Fairbairn, the reeve of Verulam, is to be opposed by Mr. Wm. Thurston, and Mr. John Junkin, the deputy reeve, is to be opposed by Mr. Alex. Ellis.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.—The Methodist church anniversary services were held according to announcement on Sunday last, when two excellent sermons were preached to large congregations by the Rev. S. D. Rice, D. D., President of the General Conference. The annual festival came off on Christmas Day, and in the evening there was a public meeting at which addresses were delivered by the resident ministers and others. The amount realized from collections, the festival, and a social on Thursday evening was $91.20, which will be added to the trust fund of the church.

THE WINTER.—Notwithstanding the general mildness of the weather so far there have been two or three terribly cold snaps, and the birds and beasts and prophets who so confidently predicted an open winter are probably beginning to fear that they may prove to have been mistaken. Though there were two or three falls of snow during the present week, it was very soft, and a thaw seemed likely to set in; but on Thursday evening a sudden change took place, and the night was an uncommonly severe one. This (Friday) morning the driver of the B-beacon stage, which leaves before daylight, arrived at the Falls with a badly frozen nose; but the sun is now shining brightly and the cold is becoming less severe.

PRESENTATIONS.—The following presentations have recently been made, as tokens of affection and esteem, by the members of the Fenelon Falls Presbyterian Sunday School to their teachers:—Miss Annie Lechead, a set of china vases, a china cup and saucer and a Christmas card. Miss E. J. Thompson, a fancy toilet set and a plush covered photograph album. Miss Sarah McArthur, a fancy toilet set and toilet mats. Miss H. Cunningham, a valuable pocket Bible and china cup and saucer. Mr. G. G. Keith, a china mustache cup and saucer and a fancy ink bottle. Mr. John B. Moffat, superintendent, was presented by the whole school with a very handsome illustrated family Bible and two elegant Christmas cards. For some no doubt good reason the presentations, instead of being all made in the same day, were extended over a period of nearly a month, the first having been on the 25th ult., and the last three on the 22nd inst.

The Vegetarians' Stumbling Block.

There is one adherent weakness in the creed of vegetarians, and that is that they cannot get on without animal food—namely milk and eggs. Of course the fact stares vegetarians in the face that nature has provided animal food for all young mammals, and this is a very awkward and untoward fact. Vegetarians however in the face of it have thought it wise to include milk as an article of vegetarian diet. But milk cannot be got without cows, and as the consumption of milk may be expected to increase, and is said as a matter of fact to increase, where little or no other animal food is taken, the number of cows must be expected to increase under a vegetarian regime, but then there must also be calves, and these calves will grow up and become cows, and even bulls, and cover the whole surface of the globe in time if they are not killed; but one of the great arguments of vegetarianism is the cruelty of killing animals. Nobody of course desires that any animal shall be killed but with the minimum of cruelty, but it would seem that if the vegetarians yield on the subject of milk they must also yield on the subject of killing animals, and if animals must be killed it is difficult to see why they should not be eaten, seeing there is no doubt they make excellent food. Milk, therefore, seems to be the vegetarian's stumbling block, and until he throws milk overboard vegetarianism has little in it but a name.—Saturday Review.

A Fatal Snow-slide.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 26.—A Tellwiede despatch says a snow-slide came down Marshall basin on Monday, carrying off the shaft-house of the Mendota mine, containing fourteen men, eight of whom were killed outright and two wounded. Four dug themselves out. No particulars are at present obtainable. A large body of men left for the scene of the disaster on Tuesday morning. The mail carrier from Silverton to Ames and Ouray, who was due last Friday, has not yet been heard from, and it is supposed that he has been lost in crossing the range.

The Salvation Army's Christmas Eve.

LONDON, Dec. 24th.—The Salvation Army celebrated Christmas by a midnight parade, in which some 150 members took part, one-third of whom were women and girls. They started from the barracks on King-street at twelve o'clock and marched to the market square with torches flaming and drums beating. Arrived at the square, they knelt in the snow and prayed, after which they sang hymns and related their experiences. The battalion then reformed and marched to the barracks, singing a hymn to the tune "We won't go home till morning."

Thiric rails in Saxony.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—United States Consul Fox, at Brunswick, Germany, reports concerning the outbreak of trichinosis which occurred in Saxony in October last, that the cause was the consumption in a raw state of the flesh of hogs raised in the vicinity. Four hundred and thirty-five persons were attacked with the disease, and about 50 died. Consul Fox, after an investigation of the cause of the outbreak, concludes that American pork is exempted from suspicion of being the cause of this disaster, and its prohibition upon the theory that it is more harmful than other pork is unwarranted.

Reciprocity.

The Philadelphia Record says—Reciprocity of trade with Canada and Mexico is very desirable. In this way we may partially break down the tariff barrier that walls us in, and hampers our manufacturing growth. For trade reciprocity is equivalent to bringing the adjoining countries into our political system. They will not vote for Congressmen, but they will buy of us and sell to us as we buy and sell among ourselves. The advantage of such free trade is almost beyond compute. We can never be brought fully to appreciate it unless, in some calamitous emergency, the discovered and antagonistic States should be induced to set up custom houses along their coterminal lines and make war upon internal commerce.

A Miraculous Escape.

A FARMER'S HORSES KILLED AT THE HUNDEB BRIDGE. A farmer named Andrew Wilson, who lives in Mimico, miraculously escaped being killed on the 21st inst. at the Grand Trunk railway bridge crossing the Humber river. It appears that Wilson had been drinking, and undertook to drive across the bridge, notwithstanding the fact that the bridge had not been constructed so as to allow horses to cross. Strangely enough the wheels of the vehicle kept on the rails, and the horses carefully picked their way from sleeper to sleeper, until the middle of the structure was reached, when the dummy engine appeared a round the curve. Wilson, although drunk, saw at once his danger, and crawling from the wagon he stowed himself away between the sleepers and under the rails. The engine struck the wagon with great force, and both animals, which were valued at $400, were killed instantaneously. Wilson himself escaped without a scratch.

A Woman's Diabolical Plot Failed.

LEADVILLE, Col., Dec. 18th.—Last Saturday Mary Koffard called on Dr. Rose, a prominent dentist, and requested him to furnish her with poison which could not be detected by an autopsy. She offered $300 as compensation, reluctantly admitting that she wished to get rid of her husband, Hans Koffard, that her husband's brother, of whom she was enamoured, and herself might together enjoy the insurance of $5,500 which her husband carried. After making an appointment to meet both at his office last evening, the doctor arranged with the police and several interested insurance men to be present in concealment and hear the whole of the diabolical plot. As soon as the story was told the pair were immediately arrested and put in jail. The parties are all Danish. The youngest brother is 60 years of age and the woman 35.
