The Thirty Millions.

The granting of thirty million dollars to aid the Pacific Railway Co. is an astounding instance of the liberality of certain people when they get hold of the national purse. These same M. P.'s would have been more chary of their own money, or, at least, would have lectured the Co. at great length on the prodigality they had displayed while spending the twenty-five millions they had already got, and would have been apt to insinuate that the Co. had taken special good care of them—elves by deducting eleven per cent. as interest on the money they had personally invested in the railway. It may also be believed that not one of those who voted away the thirty millions on the assumption that the security the company offered was good, would have loaned them one dollar of their own on the same security.

This business of granting better terms to the several Provinces, according to the political leanings of their representatives in Parliament, requires immediate attention. Already it is sowing the seeds of bitterness which cannot fail ere long to endanger the existence of the Confederation. Ontario will not submit to the taxation imposed by this debt without denouncing the injustice of the burden.

It is quite certain that she would obstinately refuse to pay what she conceived to be due by others. We trust that the good sense of the country will at once put an end to the present system of granting large sums from the Dominion treasury to the clamorous demands of the several Provinces, and thereby prevent that dissolution of the union which will inevitably result if more such demands be complied with.

Fenelon Falls Races.

The seventh annual meeting of the Fenelon Falls Trotting Association was held on Wednesday and Thursday of this week according to announcement, and the attendance, though small on the first day, was pretty fair on the second. At a meeting of sports on Tuesday evening, when rain was falling, it was decided that the two days' races should be transposed, as it was hoped that Thursday would be a better day than Wednesday for the open track, and the result of this arrangement, which was carried into effect, was that two Woodville horses, "Little Presbyterian" and "Promise of Woodville," came too late for the green parade, for which they were to have been entered. Altogether there were twenty trotters in the village, all but three or four being from a distance. A former resident of Fenelon Falls, Mr. R. Hicks, put in an appearance with his span of young mares, which took first and second money in the colts' race. One of them, E. J., was raised by Mr. Hicks. She is a bay, nimble as a deer, and was sired by Oysterman, a well known horse owned by Port Hope. The other, who pushed her mate hard in the second heat, is a handsome chestnut, with a good deal of racing blood in her veins. The pride of our village, Lapidist Chief, won as usual every heat he trotted, which made things so monotonous that some of the spectators said they would like to see him come in second, if only for the sake of variety. What the Chief's best time really is no one here knows, unless it's his owner, Mr. John Simpson, who won't tell; but Alice S., an American mare said to have a record of 2:26, proved unable to beat him. The track was the worst we have ever seen on Cameron Lake, as the first day there was about three inches of water, and the second day the same depth of slush, the intervening night having been cold, though Thursday was much less windy and more pleasant than Wednesday. There were no entries for the 2:35 trot, as the track was too bad for really fast work. The racing was as follows:

North Verulam.

Snow.—Only another foot of snow is required to make the roads level with the fences. We expect this within the present month.

LOST AND WOX.—As the bear is an animal that hibernates during the winter, to see him then, much less capture him, is almost impossible. Where or when we may come upon him we do not know, as the following will show. Jim Topcap, Joe Pike and Harry Punch went out through the woods in search of timber for a building which was to be put up in the neighbourhood. Not expecting any game they were unarmed, except with their axes, but were accompanied by a dog whose sagacity the finding of the object of their sport was due. As these gentlemen proceeded on their expedition they observed that the dog, a good hunter, remained behind at the root of a large dead elm. This singular conduct aroused their curiosity, so they went back, and after a short council decided to fell the tree. Pike and Punch set to work on opposite sides of the elm, while Topcap stood back to view the proceedings. They had not cut very deep when it was discovered that the tree was hollow. Jim then went forward, and putting his arm in full length through the cut, touched something very soft, which he tried to pull out—but only once; it was a Mr. Bruin. Punch, who had continued to chop, suddenly shouted that there was a bear in the tree, and that he had cut the tail off it, at the same time holding a bleeding piece of fur up before the eyes of his companions. To capture the animal alive was then decided upon, and forthwith a long rope was procured from the shanty. A noose was rapidly passed around Bruin's neck and held on either side by Joe and Harry, while Jim completed the felling of the tree. Bruin was then led off through the deep snow in a very meditative mood, evidently organizing a plan of action, which he soon put into operation. The walk having strengthened his limbs, he gave a few lively jumps, the noose came off, and away he went, followed by the dog; but neither has been seen since, and so thus the sport ended.

Bobcaygeon.

(Correspondence of the Gazette.)

The medical gentlemen of Bobcaygeon have for some weeks past been administering conium to each other of an amount and strength which indicate their keen perception of each other's need of heroic treatment. The moral purge is given liberally, unalloyed by any taste of soothing syrup, and the signs of irritation are far more visible than those of cure. It is plainly to be seen that each of them in the fray practices allopathy; there is no doling out of infinitesimal doses. The tickles-hide is bound to stand the heaviest whipping. The result is seen in the junior combatant crying out, "H—d—enough!" Will this excite the tender susceptibilities of the thicker-skinned warriors?

DENTAL NOTICE.—Mr. J. Neelands, dentist, of Lindsay, or his representative, will be at the McArthur House, Fenelon Falls, on Monday and Tuesday next, the 17th and 18th inst.

THANKS.—The Warrior pitches into us for what we said (and didn't say) about Mr. Fell; but it is such a remarkably mild pitch in, for the Warrior, that we take it as a compliment and return thanks accordingly.

AUDITORS' REPORT.—The village and cemetery were audited and adopted at the meeting held Monday evening. They were handed to us for publication and will appear in next week's Gazette.

THE FURNITURE FACTORY.—The foundation for the furniture factory on Francis Street has been laid since our last issue. The size is 20x60 feet, and the factory is to be 14 feet high. It will stand about thirty yards east of the Gazette office and double that distance west of Colborne street.

TO COME DOWN.—The dilapidated old brick mill, one corner of which caved in a long while ago, appeared so much inclined to fall of its own accord that the roof has been removed, and the walls are to be pulled down level with the platform. The rumour that the new building is to be immediately filled with machinery is, we are sorry to say, without foundation.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.—The other day a boy about twelve years old named Hughes, who was engaged with some others snow-balling, took offence at a young Italian known as "Tanto," and, picking up a stick, struck him so savagely on the side of his head that one of the lads present said he thought it would kill him; but fortunately the blow did no serious injury. Constable Nevison, who witnessed the assault, arrested Hughes and marched him to the lock up, but he was liberated after a short confinement by order of James Dickson, J. P., to whom the constable stated the facts of the case.

THE WEATHER.—Vennor says that there is to be more stormy weather this month, and that the spring will be cold and wet. This is cheering news, because what Vennor says is generally in correct, and we hope it may prove so this time. Just now there is a partial thaw, under the influence of which bare patches are beginning to appear on hill sides, the snow is rapidly sinking and the roads are becoming unpleasantly slushy. Winter has lasted long enough, and all will rejoice to see the end of it. Vennor may be right, but we doubt it, and shall not be surprised to see the "first robin" in a couple of weeks from now.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.—Rev. Elder Hawkins, the well known coloured preacher, will deliver a sermon in the Victoria Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m., and in the Fenelon Falls Methodist Church at 6:30 p. m. on Sunday next. A collection will be taken up at the close of each service. On the following Monday evening the Canadian Jubilee Singer, under the leadership of Elder Hawkins, will give a concert in the Fenelon Falls church, and on Tuesday evening in the Victoria church, commencing at 7 o'clock. Admission 25 cents; children, 15 cents.

FENELON ELECTION.—The contest, last Monday, for the deputy-reeveship of the township resulted in the re-election of Mr. Smithson by a majority of 119—32 more than he had in January. The friends of both candidates worked hard, and almost every available vote was secured. As we stated last week, a great deal of hard feeling has arisen, which is much to be regretted. Mr. Smithson's increased majority is partly owing to the absurd delusion, industriously fostered by his supporters, that he was "persecuted" because he was ousted from a position that was not legally and rightfully his. According to that theory, if any man can be elected to office, no matter by what means, he ought to be allowed to retain it until his term expires.

NEW HOUSES.—Building operations are not likely to be at a standstill in Fenelon Falls during the coming summer, as it is certain that at least three or four new houses are to be erected, and probably others that we have not yet heard of. Dr. Wilson has let the contract for a $2,000 brick residence on the north-east corner of Bond and Colborne streets to Mr. John Kennedy, of Bobcaygeon. Mr. Henry Anstey is preparing to put up a substantial white brick house, to cost at least $1,200, on Louisa street. Mr. Henry Stewart, who lately sold his farm and moved into the village, will build a fair-sized frame house on Bond street west, and Mr. E. R. Edwards talks of putting up on his lot on Francis street two small houses that will rent for about $3 per month each.

WHAT THE REEVE SAID.—Last Friday, the 7th inst., a deputation from Lindsay, Fenelon Falls and Haliburton waited on Mr. Mowat and the Commissioner of Crown Lands with reference to railway matters; and Mr. McArthur is reported to have stated that one-third of this village was sold for taxes, which all who understood the matter will admit is a very different thing to obtain, if possible, some measure of relief from the railway tax which is pressing so heavily on the ratepayers; but they were told that the municipalities they represented were in no worse a position than many others, which could come before the Government with a similar plea.

An Odd Find.

One day last week while Mr. Alex. Jeffrey was cutting into stove lengths a birch log, he had much difficulty in splitting open the heart, but succeeding was surprised to find the obstacle had been a horse shoe embedded in the very core of the tree and that he had cut the ferruginous and equine foot gear in twain. On close examination of the wood a hole as large as a thumb, apparently where a limb had once grown, led into the place where the shoe was found. The tree, a large one, was felled in the woods south of the Grand Trunk Railway and west of Lynde's Creek on the property bought by the Messrs. Jeffrey Bros. from the Hood estate. Here was made many long years ago one of the first clearings in this part of the Province; Lynde's Creek being navigable up to that point by the small vessels of those days, before the deforesting of the country had shrouded up the streams. Here too, Mr. Henry Jeffrey avers, can yet be seen the remains of a distillery that in the early days furnished whisky to the primitive settlers. These chronological facts afford adequate time for the theory that the horse shoe, hung up on a branch of the sapling birch, and forgotten, had during the lapse of years been encysted by the growing tree. Mr. A. Jeffrey has one part and his brother Henry the other, of this odd find.—Whitby Chronicle.

An Exciting Runaway.

KINGSTON, March 7.—A most exciting runaway occurred on the ice in front of the city. Capt. Rutherford, of "B" Battery, with three young ladies named E. McPherson, L. Henderson and Miss Armour, daughter of Judge Armour, of Toronto, went out for a drive. The animals were high spirited, and after going quietly for about a mile they bolted and ran away, heading down the river, and then up the lake to Garden Island, and then up the bank, throwing the captain, who was driving, and Miss Henderson into a snow bank, the former carrying one of the ladies upon the ice. Miss McPherson and Miss Armour consulted for a second or two what to do, and finally the former, while the latter held her, stooped over the dashboard and picked the reins off the off-hittrees at the horses' heads, and winding them around her hands tugged and pulled at the brutes, but could not stop them. She then drove them round and round in a circle of about a mile till they were exhausted and became docile. They kept up their career for half an hour. As the horses pulled up, M. Walsh, butcher, drove out and relieved her of her charge. Her arms and hands were numb with the cold, the latter being badly frost-bitten.

The Dynamite Policy.

PARIS, March 10th.—An advanced Irish Nationalist here declares that the Nationalists are annoyed, but in no wise discouraged, at the failure of the dynamite attempts. They are determined to persevere, and he predicts a long series of explosions in England in the immediate future. Mechanism has been invented which renders explosion certain and obviates the use of clock-work. He expresses great vexation that the Irish-American waylaid on Saturday morning in Paris did not prove to be the informer McDermott. At a recent meeting of lunatics in Paris lots were drawn and four men selected to accomplish the murder of McDermott. It was decided to seek McDermott in other capitals of Europe if not found in Paris. "Tynan, No. 1," is expected in Paris early in the summer, and will assume the entire direction of operations.

Use Larding Machine Oil for your machinery.

In spite of her vast size and enormous wealth, London (Eng.) is making very faces at her School Board expenses. It has cost her $25,000,000 to provide school buildings for 286,276 pupils, and even yet there are thousands of children who have not been reached.

Dollars Turned to Dust.

A VAULT IN WHICH REVOLUTIONARY HEROES HID THEIR WEALTH.

GOSHEN, N. Y., March 18.—A few days ago some workmen who were excavating for the foundations of a windmill on the farm of Henry Smith, near Unionville, this county, just over the Sussex county line in New Jersey, came upon a flat stone, a foot wide and two feet long, about four feet below the surface. It proved to be the cover of a shallow pit, the four sides of which were laid up with brick. A rusty Spanish dollar, which showed the date 1781, was found in the pit; also an oblong pile of something resembling scorched paper, about six inches long and three inches wide, and which reached half way up to the top of the pit. Upon being touched it crumbled to pieces. There were no legible marks upon it, but from its shape and appearance it is believed to have been a pile of bank notes.

"The Beauty of a Chinaman."

(From the Toronto News.)

In an interview with a reporter of the Montreal Star, Mr. H. F. Keefer, purchasing agent for the section of the Canadian Pacific railway west of the Rocky Mountains, stated that six thousand out of the eight thousand labourers employed in the construction of that section of the road were Chinamen, working for a dollar a day. The Syndicate agent grew quite enthusiastic over the advantages of Chinese as compared with white labour. "The beauty of a Chinaman," he said, "is that he is easily satisfied; he does not strike, and he is content with fish and dried fruit for his board." What do the workmen of Canada, whose burden of taxation has just been increased by the gift of thirty million dollars to this huge monopoly, think of this? If the people are to be taxed for generations to come for the benefit of this grasping corporation, at the very least they should receive the preference over barbarian foreigners in the matter of employment. But no; the Government has made the grant unconditional in this respect, and refuses to prohibit Chinese immigration; so the Syndicate are free to employ Chinamen at a dollar a day and refuse the Canadian labourer employment.

Just as Vanderbilt's unguarded and carelessly uttered phrase "the public be damned," showed the real animus of the man, so the Syndicate's candid acknowledgment that "the beauty of a Chinaman" consists in his contentment with small pay and fish and dried fruit, discloses the spirit in which the railroad monopolists are acting. The obvious result of such a course is to reduce the scale of living among white labourers to a Chinese standard. No only are the people of Canada saddled with a heavy load of unnecessary taxation to enrich the Syndicate, but they are subjected to the further wrong of having the work which, if given to white labourers, would have diminished the keenness of competition here, performed by Chinamen who are too spiritless to resist any oppression, and too uneducated to demand the conditions required by white men.

"The beauty of a Chinaman" has long been appreciated by monopolists, but it is an insult to the masses of the Canadian people for this hiring of a corporation, built up by public money, to represent cheap living and abject submission in the working class as the ideal to be sought after and encouraged.

Logs on the Track.

The Amherstburg Echo says:—No. 9 express met with somewhat of an adventure on Saturday evening last, but fortunately none of the trainmen were injured. It appears a farmer named Walker was hauling saw-logs from the woods to the mill, and in order to reach the latter, had to drive over the Canada Southern crossing, west of Fletcher. When his sleigh was about the centre of the crossing it became fast, and the horses were unable to draw it clear of the track. The driver left the log to its fate, and skedaddled over the fence, and the train came full upon the obstruction. The engine was thrown from the track and her trucks demounted, but beyond this no serious damage was occasioned.

Frantio E elephants.

LONDON, March 10.—While the animals in Sanger's menagerie were being removed from the train at the depot of a town in Kent two elephants alarmed at the whistling of the engines, broke loose and ran wildly through the streets, breaking the massive gates of the depot, and colliding with three persons, two of whom were seriously injured. They finally made their way into a house, the flooring of which gave way, precipitating the animals into the cellar. After hours of work they were drawn out by other elephants. The wildest excitement prevailed on the streets.

Twelve Persons Killed By a Snow Slide.

SALT LAKE, March 10.—On Friday night the seventh snow slide, a mile wide, extending from the summit down the Altata, swept away the works of the new Emma mine, killing G. Lybecker, D. D. Wasson, Samuel Prethers, Charles Colgreen and wife, Edward Crockett, Lottie Pleon, O. J. Johnson, N. S. Dehn, Willard Stephenson and John Richardson. The bodies were all recovered except one. It was the worst slide ever known in Little Cottonwood, the snow piling 40 feet high. The damage to the mine is $15,000. The storm is too bad to bring the bodies of the killed down. Several leave families.

At Bethany, Pa., recently, Thomas Avery, while shoveling snow out of his yard, discovered buried in the snow a hen which he had missed for ten days. She had packed the snow down and made a room the size of a bushel basket. Beyond the loss of flesh incident to the long fast the hen was unharmed.

A Madman's Drive.

Thomas Fair, a farmer who resides near Gorrie, came to the village one day last week, and after partaking freely of that which intoxicates, proceeded homeward, but upon coming to the Toronto, Grey and Bruce railway track, guided his horses in that direction, and crossed no less than six cattle guards and culverts, but the horses got down to the second bridge and remained there until assistance arrived, when two cross-pieces of the bridge were sawed, and the horses extricated.

Joseph A. Byrnes cleared 100 feet in nine straight jumps at Cobur, Australia. Between forty and fifty sheep were worried by dogs at Windsor on Saturday night.

It has been discovered that Prince Albert, besides his income of £30,000, drew £1,100 yearly as Governor of Windsor Castle to the day of his death.

A Franco-Irish anarchist by the name of Murphy has been sentenced in Paris to six months' imprisonment and been fined £1,000 for advocating assassination in the Socialist newspapers.

The volcanic dust with which the islands of the Indian archipelago were so thickly covered by the recent Pinatubo eruptions, has proved highly fertilizing to the crops. "It's an ill wind that blows no good."

A singular accident happened lately at a mill in Nashville, Tenn. A workman was thrown towards a circular saw, and thinking he would strike it, died from fright. When picked up he was dead, but there was no sign of a bruise on his body.

A Cure For Cuts, Sores, Etc.

The finest healing compound under the sun is McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Ointment. There is no sore but will succumb to its healing properties. It is an invaluable dressing for scalds, fevers, etc. Price twenty-five cents at Wm. E. Ellis's drug store.

James Brasley, Hamilton, says:—"I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisiana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value, we had plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was bad with Brans Fever and Indigestion as I think any one could be. I have taken three bottles and am nearly well and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I am better than I ever expected to be." For trial bottles at Wm. E.
