QUEBEC ELECTIONS. There were five bye-elections in the Province of Quebec last Wednesday, and in three of the four constituencies heard from the Reform candidates were victorious. In Two Mountains the Conservative candidate carried the day, but his former majority of 250 was reduced to 34. Gaspe will not be heard from for some days. All the five seats except Chateaguay were formerly held by Conservatives.

The Great Bribery Case.

The last of the evidence against the parties who attempted to bribe certain Reform members of the Ontario Legislature was taken in the Toronto Police Court on Tuesday last, and it was agreed that arguments of counsel should It is the only gennine Food, and will pay be heard on Tuesday next. A Commission to enquire into and investigate the conspiracy is to be appointed, and particulars concerning it will be found in an extract from the Globe printed in another column. It is almost needless to say that the terrible exposure made so far has disgusted all honourable men of both political parties, and a general hope is expressed that justice may be done and the guilty punished. Some few, we are sorry to say, attempt to whitewash the conspirators by blackwashing the Ontario Government, and advance the astounding theory that the real conspirators are Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, who deliberately sent their emissaries out " in search of temptation," as the London Free Press puts it, for the purpose of casting odium on the Opposition: but this counter accusation, born of utter despair, will be contemptuously rejected as an insult to his understanding by every reader of the evidence who is not utterly blinded by party projudice When Messrs Mc-Kim. Balfour and Dowling were "approached " as it is euphuistically termed, one of three courses was open to them; they could either have yielded to temptation, turned traitors to their Government and earned eternal infamy they could have sent their tempters to the right about with fleas in their respective ears; or they could have laid traps to catch them red-handed. Acting under the advice of members of the Government, whom they consulted the moment they were "approached," they adopted the latter course. Of course they are abused without stint and in the vilest language, both in and out of print, by unscrupulous partizans; but evidently their action has not displeased THOS. STEWART. their constituents, as Mr. Balfour was the recipient of a splendid bouquet a couple of days after the explosion of the political bombshell, and Dr. Dowling is to be banquetted in South Revfrew. It must be confessed that to some slight extent Mr. Mowat was responsible for the conspiracy, which was beyond any doubt the direct result of his refusal to "go." His opponents have all declared for ever so long that they couldn't enjoy any peace of mind until he went, and that, consequently. Residence, Brick Cottage, Wellington he must go; but still he was obdurate and wouldn't. All sorts of things were done during the late election contests to render his going an act of necessity but they all failed, and at the opening of the late session he was able to remark cheerfully, " Here we are again, to the great satisfaction of his hosts of friends and admirers. As he evidently meant to stay, his opponents, as a last resource, resolved to see what amount of truth there was in Big Push Wilkinson's doctrine that " it is easier and cheaper to bribe legislators than to Lite constituences; but they " aidn't Col. Phys. and Surg., Ont. Physician, know it was loaded" or they would never have risked the frightful explosion that followed. And we are seri ously asked to believe that Mr. Mowat -with a majority sufficiently strong to preclude the possibility of his having to 'go" until he desired to-persuaded Messrs, McKim, Balfour, Dowling and others to invite the offer of bribes from nobody in particular, for the purpose of injuring political opponents who were powerless to injure him. If Mr. Mowat's supporters had gone direct to Mr Meredith or to Sir John A. Macdonald there might be some slight ground for suspicion of some crookedness; but all the evidence goes to prove that they were first "approached," and they at

One point in the action of the Quebee section in the Dominion Parliament in the recent vote in aid of the Pacific Railway deserves a larger share of attention than it has received, and that was their relusal to support their grant unless they got what they were pleased to call "better terms" for their own province. We hold that such a course was entirely wrong, as they were morally bound to vote on that question on its merits-to vote according to their conscientious convictions as to the soundness of the railway's claim for further aid. Their own claim for better terms was a totally different question, and it they believed it to be just, they were not only at liberty to insist upon it, but pernicious example set by Quebec, the amined in detail. whole Dominion of Canada will soon be Moved by Mr. Palmer, seconded by in the Dominion Parliament, the disso- Carried lution of the confederacy would probainces put up to the highest bidder.

Their vote, large as the sums involved are, may not secure the completion of the line, but it should go far in that di rec ion; should it not, there will be further aid sought which must be granted. as it would never do to leave the road unfinished, after the company spending fifty-five millions in cash and the value of twenty-five million acres of land, over and above all the vast sums paid for that part which the Government built. The construction of such an immense railway, and at such enormous cost, is certain to strain the finances of Canada for a long time to come; the aggregate of the debt she will owe by the time that all the costs of her present engagements are settled, will be far more

Prorogation of the Legislature.

(From Wednesday's Globe.) The prorogation yesterday was attend with the usual ceremonies. The day was fine, and the military display on the grass in front of the House was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators. In the House itself the galleries were packed with spectators, but on the floor of the House there were fewer ladies than at the opening ceremonies.

The division lists have clearly shown that the administration and legislation of the Government has been such as to commend itself to the judgment of the House, so much so that the Opposition (including Mr. Lees), which numbered 36 at the beginning of the session, numbered 36 at the close.

The votes of Messrs. Hart and Neelon show that these gentlemen have confidence in the Government, and only on a few measures, and those not of vital consequence, have they thought it their duty to vote with the Opposition. This being the case, the Government has the general support on the floor of the House of 51 out of the 87 members, or a clear majority of 15-which, neither plausibilities nor bribes has sufficed to weaken in their allegiance to duty.

Almost the last business transacted by the House was the adoption by the House of an Address asking the an son. Mr. Dickson wishes us to give pointment of a Commission to enquire this explanation, as he has been accused into and investigate the bribery conof treating the young ruffian too lenient. spiracy. The Act also states that the Commission has " the same power to enforce attendance, and to compel witnesses to give evidence and produce documents, as i vested in any court of law in civil cases." A sum of $10,000 has been voted to defray the expenses of the Commission, which is instructed to make the "searching investigation which the gravity of this last attempt at corruption demands.

The evil influence of the example of Sir John Macdonald is conspicuousl manifested by the revelations of the legislative bribery plot. For nearly a generation this man has been the object of a species of political hero-worship on the part of the members of his party. To the young men just entering upon their political duties Sir John has been held up as the beau ideal of a patriot and a statesman. The veterans of the party are never tired of lauding his farsightedness, his astuteness as a party manager, his eleverness in extricating himself from tight places, and his cunning in subverting the schemes of his antagonists. To find a parallel to the olind unreasoning belief in Sir John which exists among a large section of the Tories of Ontario, we must go bock to the enthusiastic devotion of the French peasantry to the first Napoleon. or the per-istency with which the hardshell Democracy of the remoter districts of the west kept on voting for Andrew Jackson for the presidency for years af-

There have been intriguers and corruptionists among the Grits-scores of them. But their example has not been so evil in its results as that of Sir John, because they have not been popular and play-ible men. They have not been the idols of the multitude, nor has there been that disposition to exalt their very failings into virtues and to glorify their "smartness" at the expense of their political integrity. In short, the example of Sir John's success, by shady and devious methods, has popularized corruption and intrigue, while the effect of the exposure of Grit rascality has | er person quoting prices in above named generally been to make it odious.

The Combined MILK BUCKET. STRAINER & STOOL.

This Bucket (patented last June) has many advantages that make it acceptable to all who require to milk cows. The milk is strained while entering the pail through the funnel, and is effectually protected from contact with any foreign substance whatever and from the odor of the stable. It does away with the old-fashioned stool, asthe milker sits on the bucket. Should a vicious cow kick over the bucket, no milk is lost or injured. It needs only to be seen to be appreciated. Professor L. B. Arnold speaks very highly of it, and Professor W. States Deputy Surveyor Fairchild, in a further report, says: " The whole of North-western Nebraska is occupied and run by capitalists engaged in cattle raising. They have hundreds of miles of wire fence constructed, and enclose all desirable lands. Notices posted at intervals say that the man who opens the fence had better look out for his scalp. Persons going there to settle are notified that the ranchmen will freeze them out. They will not employ a man who settles on or claims land, and he cannot get employment from any cattle men in the whole country. There is wholesale destruction of valuable timber on government land in this whole region by cattle men, who pretend to own it. There are acres after acres of

The chieftain's smartness is the great boast of the party heelers, who chuckle with delighted appreciation over every tricky manœuvre and stroke of sharp practice of his tong and tortu-

Now, is it surprising that a genera tion of politicians who have grown, up under the influence of these teachings, who have been constantly taught the lesson that in politics the end ju tifies the means, and that success will always bring forgiveness for the measures taken to secure it, should be disposed to regard with leniency, if not with actual approbation, such projects as the bribery conspiracy? The latter discreditable scheme is the direct outcome of the low standard of public morality fostered by Tory hero-worship.

It is the example of Sir John that the Wilkinsons and their tribe seek to emulate, but, having neither the ability nor the cunning of the arch-trickster. they meet with exposure and contempt in the place of admiration.
