The Fenelon Falls Gazette

Saturday, July 19th, 1884.

Good News.

We are pleased to be in a position to state that gratifying intelligence has just arrived from Ottawa with regard to the cutting of the water power race on the locks. Some two weeks ago Mr. Page, the chief engineer of the Dominion Government, examined the works in company with Mr. Rubidge, the engineer in charge. Mr. Page has since made a report to the Government, which has been approved of. It recommends "that the Government should at once make the head gates of the flume as far as Colborne street, after which arrange- ments can be made for continuing it to a mill and for leasing the power." The canal would be of but small value to this village without the water power which the locks create. We expect to see the village, at no distant day, not only in a position to grind all the wheat grown in this part of the country and to send it to the sea board in the shape of flour, but to manufacture large quantities from the North-West and the Western States. Nature never intended such a water power as we possess to run to waste, but that every pound of it should be fully employed in driving machinery. We congratulate our mer- chants on the prospect of the return of their usual business, which has been di- verted from the village for some time past.

The Conspiracy Case.

Vice-Chancellor Proudfoot, Judge Scott, of the county of Peel, and Judge Skelton, of the county of Lincoln, the Royal Commissioners appointed to con- duct the investigation into the conspira- cy case, commenced the proceedings at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Monday last, and they have been continued from day to day. A very large number of wit- nesses have been subpoenaed, and the evidence given by those already exam- ined is substantially the same as has already appeared in print. The investi- gation, being non-judicial, will not su- percede the criminal prosecution com- menced against the parties charged with the conspiracy, but stayed until the question whether the offence is a crime of which the law can take cognizance is settled. Among those present the first day was Mr. Hector Cameron, and the News, in its brief remarks concerning the different distinguished personages, speaks thus of the M. P. for North Victoria:—

"Hector Cameron also appeared, merely as a lawyer, and not as counsel in the case. Big, white-haired, bald, even-tempered Hector, with the counte- nance of a Sunday school superintendent, and the learning of a Blackstone, had grave doubts of the jurisdiction of the court, and consequently thought best not to appear on behalf of anybody, not he. Guileless Hector."

The 12th in Fenelon Falls.

The morning of Saturday last, the 12th inst., was about as unpromising a one as could well be imagined; and those who were to take part in the ap- proaching celebration, as well as all who wished it to be a success, feared it would be entirely spoiled by the weath- er, and the momentous question "Do you think it will rain?" was asked by scores anxious for the answer in the negative which no one could conscientiously give. Rain it did, but not to the extent that was generally expected; indeed the day, as a whole, could not be called an unfavourable one, as the two or three showers that fell during the forenoon were neither heavy nor long continued, and the afternoon was much more pleasant than it would have been with a broiling hot sun. Early in the day the members of Fenelon Falls lodge No. 996 were out parading the streets of the village to music furnished by the brass band, and led by Bro. Roberts, the marshal, who mounted on a charger white as snow, certainly had a very martial appearance. (That's a pun, but you needn't tell anybody.) Later in the day, when all the brethren who in- tended to assist in the celebration had arrived, there were nine lodges present besides No. 996, viz, the Haliburton and Burnt River lodges, which were brought by the train, the Kobayzeon and Danforth, and the North Veru- lam, Silver Lake, Gleasham, Cameron and Cambury lodges, which drove to the Falls in waggon, the last mention- ed bringing a brass band with them. Almost everybody has witnessed a 12th of July jubilee, and knows just what the proceedings are and how they are conducted, but a good many have never seen as handsome and gaily-decorated evergreen arches as the three erected

Justice in Quebec.

The administration of justice in the province of Quebec appears to be de- plorably lax. In more than one case the perpetrator of a cold-blooded mur- der is going at large without any at- tempt being made to arrest him. The Ottawa Free Press states that a man named Woolsey, who killed his neigh- bor, James Armitage, without provoca- tion on the 9th of June, at North On- slow, is at large and pursuing his usual avocation, no effort being made to bring him to trial for the crime. It also says that a man named Osborne, who mur- dered his son-in-law French, with whom he had some disagreement at Gatineau Point, is also going about unmolested, although after the commission of the deed he offered to give himself up to justice, but found no one who was suffi- ciently interested to arrest him. This is a most disgraceful state of affairs, and if it prevailed in any part of the United States would be paraded by our loyal- ists as an awful example of the effects of Democracy and Home Rule. The prevalent neglect in the enforcement of the law is one of the results of the cor- ruption and wantfulness which have attained such headway in Quebec province.

Australian Wheat.

South Australia had 1,846,151 acres in wheat last season. The official re- turn of the harvest shows about 7 bush- els of 56 lbs. to the bushel, or 14,649- 230 bushels in all, of which up to May 17th more than half had been exported. The crop was the largest on record, and the yield per acre was twice as large as last year. The average of the three harvests preceding the last was 4 1/2 bushels. The figures given show that as a wheat raising country South Australia is of little account. The crops report- ed cannot pay the cost of cultivation. In Ontario, the spring wheat crops of the past two years, the only ones of which, owing to the very recent organiza- tion of the Bureau of Statistics, there is a full record, averaged 16 bushels to the acre. The very much more impor- tant fall wheat crop was extraordinarily poor last year, but still it averaged 50 per cent. more per acre than last season's crop in South Australia, and in 1882 the average was 20 1/2 bushels. South Australia, it would seem, is not likely to prove a formidable competitor in the grain market.

Stabbing Affray in Ashburnham.

About one o'clock this (Saturday) morning, Dr. Clarke was hastily sum- moned to see an Italian who had been severely stabbed by one of his confeder- ates. The particulars of the means by which the man received the wound, as far as can be discovered, are as follows: Some of the Italians living in the general boarding house at Ashburnham, it seems, had intended leaving that domicile, and in the final settling of money matters—or perhaps, and with more probability, owing to an attempted avoidance of such final settlement—there occurred apparently a general touna- ment. Angry discussions, abusive lan- guage, and the usual precessors of such a fracas were, of course, plentiful. Matters soon came to a crisis, knives were freely used, and the result was that one man was very dangerously wounded in the right side, another received a flesh wound in the arm, and a third a cut in the thigh. One man, whose name we have not yet been able to discover, has been arrested and placed in the lock-up by the Ashburnham constable. The most severely wounded of the three, Dr. Clarke informs us, is easier this morning, but not yet out of danger.—Peterborough Review.

A Queer Scene.

The Toronto News of the 16th says:—A somewhat unusual scene occurred on Lombard street on Monday, or it would have been unusual had it occur- ed on any other thoroughfare in the city. A company purchased a couple of old wooden buildings in a lane facing the rear of the post office, and early in the evening sent three able-bodied men to remove the lumber. They had hard- ly commenced operations, however, be- fore two or three score of the denizens of this noted thoroughfare congregated, and with astonishing rapidity demolish- ed the buildings and removed the ruins. The able-bodied men protested, and finally offered to be satisfied with the cross-beams and rafters, but their offer was rejected, and in less than an hour every piece of wood connected with the building had disappeared. It was a queer scene. Hoop-headed old men and women, some of them too weak to carry away more than a handful of shingles, while others were too drunk to do more than swear at and hurry up their children; young women, some well, even stylishly dressed, others clothed in rags; boys and girls who should have been at school, and even toddling little babies; all were eagerly at work gathering in fire-wood for the winter. There was no fighting, but the air had a brimstonish smell, caused probably by the immense amount of profanity indulged in. The able-bodied men did not attempt to inter- fere, thinking discretion the better part of valor, but even they could hard- ly restrain their mirth at the ludicrous sights. One old man who had no axe to break up the lumber put a dismantled clog on his back and staggered away, followed by his wife and children, who carried a whole flight of rickety old stairs poised on the tops of their heads. The company will have a heap of trouble in collecting pay for their lumber.

Marked for Life.

COBOURG, July 14th.—On Saturday last Lena Buswell was washing her wearing apparel, which she has in daily use at the woolen mills, she was ap- proached by Minnie Striwell, who took up a bottle lying on the window, and telling her that she would anoint her with holy water, proceeded to pour the liquid on the young girl's head. She commenced to scream, and soon all in the mill was in an uproar. The holy water used was found to be vitriol. The side of the young woman's face, as well as her neck and arms, are seriously burned. She will be marked for life.

Life in Montana.

HELENA, MONT., July 12th.—Bill O'Fallon and Rattlesnake Jake, horse thieves, quarrelled with a party of half-breds at Lewistown yesterday. All hands drew weapons and began firing. Rat- tlesnake Jake had his fingers shot off. The desperadoes then determined to clean out the town, and fired at every- body in sight. O'Fallon was mortally hurt and fell from his horse, but got on his knees and shot and killed a man named Smith, who was not taking any part in the battle. The thieves fought until they were riddled with bullets and covered with blood. Some of the citizens were slightly wounded.
