

Water in the "Dietary of Young Children.

In a communication to the New York Medical Journal Dr. Bensen, of the Nursery and Child's Hospital, calls attention to the general ignorance which prevails as to the necessity of furnishing infants with a sufficient quantity of water, especially in hot weather, and whether they are brought up at the breast, or artificially.

It is in warm, dry weather, babies will drink cool water every hour or often, if it is, as it should be, offered them. The earliest sign of the water in the system being below its normal standard is a slightly depressed condition of the anterior fontanelle.

Esquimaux Relics.

All explorers of Smith Sound have found relics of ancient Esquimaux who lived far north, where the natives could not now support life. Dr. Kane found along the east coast of Hall's Basin the remains of ancient huts.

The Smith Sound natives of to-day have never visited these regions. They have a tradition, however, that many generations ago the climate was much milder than it is now, and that their fathers used to visit tribes living north and south of them.

The explorers believe from evidences they have found that this tradition is historically correct. They say there is no doubt that once there was easy communication between the Smith Sound natives and those around Upernivik, and they believe the barren wastes to the north were once prosperous hunting grounds.

Absinthe as a Cure for Cholera.

As if Frenchmen had not sufficient excuses for drinking absinthe already, a French priest, from Cochinchina, has supplied them with another. Absinthe, it is now proclaimed, is an infallible remedy for Cholera.

Should one dose of absinthe prove sufficient, M. Janin recommends the patient to continue taking it; he says of himself when attacked by cholera he drank one-third litre of absinthe in about ten minutes, after which he slept and awoke cured. It is a curious fact that after taking five or six doses of claret mixed with absinthe, the patients are rarely intoxicated.

Animated Barometers.

Two trees bottled up in a candy jar sat on the top round of a miniature ladder that reached to the tin lid of the jar in a Vine street room recently. The jar was one-third full of water.

AGRICULTURAL.

Workin' Blood Mares.

There is force in the suggestion that a good farmer can rear a horse more cheaply than can the professional breeder, as he can use the mares in his farm work. Undoubtedly there is some danger of injury to mares in foal, or to the foals, from working the mares; but with careful management this danger is very slight.

Keep the Weeds own.

Set the cultivator to work early. Do not wait for the corn and the potatoes to get large and strong, but as soon as the rows can be seen, the cultivator should be set to work. Delay at this time gives the weeds time to get a strong stand and a deep rooting, when it will be much more difficult to destroy them.

Transporting Poultry.

The Poultry World says that a box in which a trio or quartet of full-grown fowls are confined in a journey, need not be larger than 24x18x18 inches. The material for this box may be half-inch stuff. The front and ends can be open lathed, and the back of unbleached stout cotton.

Sowing Rye to be Plowed Under.

The following enquiry and answer appeared recently in the Rural New Yorker: 1. When should rye be sown and when plowed under to produce the best effect as a fertilizer? 2. What are the cause, preventive, and cure of black leg in calves? Many die here every year.

A Knowing Little Serpent.

A family residing in Soho, Pa., has perhaps the most singular pet in the United States. It is a harmless garter snake, and perhaps measures two feet in length. It was found among some flower pots on a window sill one morning, and as the family have never had that variety of snake, it is supposed to have been a domesticated one.

Bill Nye on Smiles.

The modern stage, the modern press and the modern pulpit have demonstrated that it is not wicked to smile. This is a grand stride toward the emancipation of man from the shackles of bogus gravity and the thralldom of morose hypocrisy.

A Brief Sermon on Cranks.

The Burlington Hawkeye publishes a great deal of nonsense, but sometimes it is amusing when it is indisputable fact. The following is from a recent issue: "What would we do were it not for the cranks? How slowly the tired old world would move, did not the cranks keep it rushing along! Columbus was a crank on the subject of American discovery and circumnavigation, and as a last he met the fate of most cranks."

A Young Farmer's Heroism.

Saving an Express Train from Wreck at the Risk of His Own Life. During the heavy storm of rain that fell at midnight on Sunday night a large tree was blown down, falling lengthwise on the track of the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis Railroad near Auburn, thirty miles below Columbus, Ind.

Aristocratic Cabbies.

Sir John Astley hailed a cab in London and was driven to the Bachelor's Club. The horse was left for a moment by the driver, and it ran away, knocking Thomas Alder senseless, and he sued Sir John for damages. At first sight it would seem that he could have no claim, but the evidence showed otherwise.

The Dog and the Lizard.

"No, it isn't a dog at all," said fish Commissioner G. Blackford; "it is a lizard about the size of a wood lizard and a reddish color. It comes from the water states, where, among epicures, it is considered as one of the delicacies of the city."

AUSTRALIAN SPORTS.

Hunting the Kangaroo. "By Jove! look at that fruit stand," said A. A. Clayton, of Melbourne, to a Chronicle reporter the other day. "We have no such display as that anywhere in the colonies. The first thing that struck me on my arrival here was the wealth of our fruit market."

Erratic Pens.

Silphed writing oftentimes makes very funny reading. Assuredly it is amusing to read one morning that the authorities of Alexandria are busily engaged in disaffecting that, by all accounts, already sufficiently disaffected city; and the next day to learn our Canadian cousins are discussing the possibility of the abduction of the Most Gracious Majesty.

Childhood's Memories.

Come back, little boy, with a pleasure of that dream time of life! Let us see: anti-top garnish with bright hues? The future as it stretched before us. Only the pleasures of that erstwhile life heart beat. But as we grow older, the "sure," a common place, a common thing, will be recalled, and they make life miserable, with the heart's struggle to buy a bottle of Patman's C. R. Extract, the "sure," a common place, a common thing, will be recalled, and they make life miserable, with the heart's struggle to buy a bottle of Patman's C. R. Extract.

Wheat.

The London shop-keeper's "Boots sold and hood while waiting" is not so likely to attract customers as the more pronounced orthographic eccentricities of the Gloucestershire gardener, having "sally plants for sale," and ready to supply all comers with kalleffour, brakelers, wentur greens, raggit jalk, rottgruss cale, and sprouting brock.
