The Rebels.

Last week, at Regina, Col. Richardson sentenced eleven of the half-breed rebel prisoners to the penitentiary for seven years, three for three years, and four for one year, and six were discharged to appear for sentence when called, which will never be if they behave themselves. The Indians One Arrow and Poundmaker got three years each, and the latter said he would rather be hanged than imprisoned, and we have no doubt that he meant it, for to the red man life without liberty is not worth having. Poundmaker was astonished at his sentence, as he expected to be acquitted, having always alleged that he opposed violence, did all he could to restrain his young men, and by his presence and influence prevented bloodshed on more than one occasion. The Globe argues with some show of reason that three years' imprisonment is either too much or too little;—too much, if what he urged in his own defence was true; too little, if he was guilty of the crimes laid to his charge. Contributions to the Riel fund are not being made as readily or liberally as was expected, but no effort will be spared to save him, and it is said that "the Government will take into serious consideration the demand for a medical jury to enquire into his mental condition." The probability at present is that he will escape hanging, though he is undoubtedly the most guilty of all who took part in the late rebellion, as he had no personal grievances to redress and was mainly responsible for the appeal to arms.

(Communicated)

We hear a great deal about the evils of competition now-a-days, but we would like to see a cutting competition established between the wives of working men and the dram seller. To begin, let us plead most earnestly with the drunkard's wife against the use of hard words and bitter abuse. You will never drive your husband farther down the road to destruction, but not one inch nearer heaven. Perhaps the provocations are great. I believe God only knows the suffering and trials of a drunkard's wife, but are you quite sure there is no provocation on your side? I do not say there is, but there is an old proverb that "man is what a woman makes him." When a man comes home tired and thirsty for his tea, and is told by his affectionate wife that he may just wait; when he comes back to an untidy, dirty house and tumbles against a pail or wash tub, because his wife has been gossiping with the very woman he dislikes most and has not got her washing out of the way; when his children's faces are always so dirty that his parental love must need a strong appetite to kiss them; when they are crying and shouting and no order kept; when the money which represents so many aches of his tired back, so much stiffness of his toiling limbs, is wasted by bad management or squandered on finery; when the meals he works so hard to pay for are badly cooked and not as he likes them;—I ask you, is it not enough to drive him to the public house? If the tea is late the beer never is late, remember. You may keep your husband waiting for his food, but his poison is always ready. You say to him, "You may just wait;" but the bar-tender says, "I will attend to you, sir, immediately." Your husband has a wife who calls him a "drunken old beast;" but the man who ruins him calls him "Sir," or "Mr. So-and-so," and invites him again. Is it a wonder he prefers his society to yours? His home is noisy and quarrelsome and not over clean; the bar-room is clean and bright and pleasant company. Is it a marvel he prefers it to his home? My sisters! so long as these things are so and you do not try to remedy them, there are two heavy scores being run up. One is the public house score; your husband will have to pay that. The other is a more terrible score which the recording angel is keeping—the drunkenness, the oaths, the brawls, the shame, of a lost soul driven into sin and bad company by an uncomfortable home; and that, at the last day of strict and solemn account, will be sent in to you.

The council then adjourned.

Two Runaways.

During the forenoon of Sunday last Mr. John Welch drove to the residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Cullon, on Francis street, and tied his young and inexperienced colt to the fence around the lot. By some means the animal got loose, and, being unable to tie himself up again, backed and geed and hawed a few times and then ran away. Any one who will go and look at the course he took over the rough ground and through the bushes along the bank of the river, will agree with us that the escape of the buggy from destruction was almost miraculous; but, although upset at least once, as shown by the track, it hardly received a scratch. The colt, when pretty well blown, was headed off and caught.

On the evening of the same day Mr. Noble Ingram's span of blacks, while being driven by Mr. D. Sullivan, set off at full gallop when a little south of the Methodist church, and at Bond street ran furiously against the back of a covered one-horse buggy, in which were Mr. Henry Junkin, his little boy about two and a half years old, and Mr. Samuel Ireton. All three were thrown out but escaped unhurt, though Mr. Junkin, who hung on to the lines, felt next day as if he had a good deal of rheumatism all over him. The top of the buggy was torn to ribbons and the seat badly smashed. One of Mr. Ingram's horses fell from the force of the collision, and a number of persons on their way to church rushed to the spot and secured them both.

HORSES FOR SALE.—Mr. Macdonald, having recently finished his contract on the canal, has five or six horses to dispose of, and, as they will be sold cheap, persons in want of a team or single horse will do well to inspect them.

$5 REWARD.—Austin Bros. offer $5 reward for the recovery of their colley dog "Frank," who mysteriously disappeared on Thursday of last week, and will "go for" any person in whose possession he is found after this date. See advertisement.

DROWNED.—Willie Scott, eldest son of Judge Scott, of Brampton, was drowned on Friday of last week a few miles from Port Severn, while swimming after a canoe which had drifted from an island on which he and some other boys were fishing. Deceased was a grand-nephew of Mr. Thomas Manning, of Fenelon Falls.

MILL ACCIDENT.—On Thursday forenoon David Jewell, aged about 17 years, third son of Mr. David Jewell, of this village, had his left thigh bone broken by a piece of slab thrown from the bolting saw in the red mill, where he is employed. Dr. A. Wilson was sent for, and with the assistance of his brother, who arrived a minute or two later, set and bandaged the limb, and the patient is, we are glad to hear, doing well.

S. S. PICNIC.—The annual picnic of St. James's Church Sunday school was held last Thursday on Mr. Stabler's farm. The children and their friends assembled at the rectory at 11 a. m., and then walked the distance, a little over a mile, the baskets of provisions being taken in a large punt, in which, during the afternoon, the youngsters were taken, twenty or thirty at a time, for a sail on Cameron Lake. The weather being fine and cool and the eatables abundant and toothsome, the picnic was a success in every respect.

TOO PREMATURE.—If the Wardner's correspondent, who last week found fault with what we said on the brick question in the Gazette of the 1st inst., had read the paragraph on the same subject in our issue of the 5th, he would have seen that there was no necessity for his interference; but an apparent anxiety to find fault made him "a little too premature." We told the exact truth in both cases, which is a great consolation; and the opening of a new brick yard was certainly a legitimate subject for a local paragraph.

PERSONALS.—Mr. George Swanton, whose home is now at Charlotte, on the other side of Lake Ontario, arrived at the Falls last Monday on a week's visit to his numerous relatives. Mr. Swanton tells us that he will probably return here to live after a contract he has at Charlotte is finished. His eldest brother, Mr. John Swanton, is residing at Niagara. Mrs. John Maynard, of Bowmanville, is visiting her parents (Mr. and Mrs. Bowman) and other relatives. She is accompanied by her children and her sister-in-law, Miss Maynard.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Last Tuesday Mr. Kyrion Egan, of lot 6 in the 1st con. of Somerville, met an awfully sudden death. While seated at dinner, and in the act of lifting a piece of potato on his fork, he gave a sigh or gasp which alarmed his hired man, who sprang to his assistance, thinking he was choking. He caught Mr. Egan in his arms as he was falling from his chair, and laid him gently on the floor, where he died in a few seconds without speaking a word. Deceased was 62 years of age and leaves a wife and one grown-up daughter. He was buried on Thursday in the Catholic cemetery in Galway. It is rumoured that heart disease was the cause of his death, and the rumour is probably correct.

BASE BALL.—Last Monday a friendly match at base ball was played in this village between our own club, the "Okas," and the "Invincibles" from Kilmount—and the surrounding country. The latter proved their claim to their proud title by beating their opponents nearly two to one. The "Okas," of course, can give an extensive assortment of reasons for their defeat, one of which is that their catcher was so well that he could hardly keep the field. One of the best players amongst the "Invincibles" was Bro. Small, of the Minden Echo, whose upper half was encased in a garment that closely resembled a clean billed shirt, and who looked as gay as the big sun flower that was sewed, pinned or pasted over his heart. The Northerners brought several ladies with them to witness their prowess, and the whole party took an early dinner at our hotels before the game commenced.

Louis Riel in Jail.

In his cell at Regina, Riel has a little table and all the necessary writing materials, and thus he whiles away the weary hours jotting down leading incidents in connection with his life. As his career has been somewhat varied from that of ordinary beings, it will doubtless take him all his time to sum up his history between now and the 18th of September. It is astonishing, too, the number of people who linger about the barracks in order to secure the autograph of the rebel leader. He has a very nice signature for one who sported a private secretary and consequently did not have much to do in the line of penmanship. His penmanship generally, however, greatly resembles that of a school boy who makes fruitless attempts to outdo the headline. In consequence of the "Riel autograph fever," as it is termed, having broken out among the good people of Regina, the stationery dealers have had a little boom and now an autograph album cannot be had in the Capital for love or money. As for Riel he is always too happy to accommodate his friends in this manner, and being of a poetical nature, he generally adds a souvenir whenever he has flown to a happier sphere. When sentence was passed he still had a firm belief that he would be reprieved, but gradually that opinion has vanished from his mind until now he can only see a faint ray of hope gleaming from the Privy Council. When Mr. T. C. Johnston, one of his counsel, informed him the other day that the appeal in his case was being rapidly pushed forward, he said:—"Well, I suppose it's no harm to be prepared to meet the end."

Mr. Johnston informed the Free Press correspondent that Messrs. Fitzpatrick, Lemieux and himself would argue the appeal before the Court of Queen's Bench here about the beginning of September. If they failed to carry their point they would go in person to England to lay their plea before the Privy Council. When the court adjourned on the last day of the trial Riel was observed to linger in the box. The guards could not induce him to go to lunch. His action seemed mysterious, and consequently a close watch was kept on him. Suddenly the court room was cleared he slipped a small bottle from his pocket, and, going to the jury stand he sprinkled a little of its contents on each chair, at which he knelt and said a prayer. When asked his reason for such strange action he said the bottle contained holy water, and he wished to purify the hearts of the jurors in order that they might return a just and impartial verdict.—Manitoba Free Press.

Cost of the Aristocracy.

An English correspondent of the Philadelphia Press states:—"To twenty-eight families of Dukes, numbering 519 relatives who have held 1,013 offices during the last thirty-five years, the large sum of $48,000,000 has been paid. Marquises, representing thirty-three families and having 626 relatives monopolizing 1,252 offices, have drawn something over $41,000,000 during the same period. Earls are a most greedy set and a numerous one. Two hundred Earls have exerted their patronage in favour of 3,391 relatives, who have enjoyed the sweets of nearly 6,000 comfortable posts, which have entailed an expense to the country of more than $24,000,000. Viscounts, to the total of sixty, with 963 relatives installed in 1,500 offices or so, have swept into their pockets the nice little sum of $56,000,000, and 211 Barons, last in order of precedence, but not numerically, have secured for 2,492 "connections" more than 4,000 preferments of the aggregate value, during the thirty-five years, of $155,000,000. In other words, 532 aristocratic families, with 7,991 relatives, have got hold of 13,888 offices, which are kept up at an annual charge upon the British taxpayers of about $16,000,000.

Dynamiting an Alleged Informer.

SHAWNEE, Ohio, Aug. 16.—Between one and two o'clock this morning an attempt was made to assassinate the family of Hugh Kinney by throwing a hand grenade or bomb into their sleeping chamber. The windows were shattered, the walls wrecked by large holes torn in the floor. Kinney was found lying at the foot of his bed badly mangled and bleeding, and Mrs. Kinney, who had run into the yard and given the alarm, was badly wounded. Kinney was looked upon in the community of miners as an informer who was keeping operators posted on their movements, and he had been threatened.

The Cholera.

A SLIGHT ABATEMENT OF THE PLAGUE IN SPAIN.

MADRID, Aug. 17.—In the whole of Spain yesterday there were 4,696 new cases of cholera and 1,556 deaths.

There have been slight riots at Lagrona due to the resistance of the inhabitants to certain sanitary regulations. The governor of Granada has been attacked with cholera.

The places in Spain in which the principal increase of cholera occurred yesterday, as compared with Friday last, were Tarragona and Valladolid. In the former there were 77 new cases and 30 deaths, and in the latter 61 new cases and 10 deaths. The official returns show that in Granada the disease has reached its height and remains stationary. In Albacete yesterday there were 25 new cases and 23 deaths. In Castellon de la Plana 22 new cases and 17 deaths. In Cuenca 154 new cases and 32 deaths. In Valencia 82 new cases and 49 deaths, and in Madrid 20 new cases and two deaths. All of these returns show decreases in the numbers of new cases and deaths.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Refugees fleeing from the cholera in Marseilles have introduced the disease into Sisteron and other villages in the Alpine provinces of France.

LONDON, Aug. 17th.—A letter from Saigon reports that six hundred French soldiers have died of cholera in Formosa, and the Pescadores, that the hospitals are overflowing with sufferers, and the epidemic increasing.

A Letter from Poundmaker.

The following letter from Poundmaker to Riel, which constitutes a count in the indictment against Poundmaker, which has never been published, showed how thoroughly Riel's dupes believed his promises:

CUT KNIFE HILL, April 29th, 1885.
I want to hear news of the progress of God's work. If any event has occurred since your messengers came away let me know of it. Tell me the date when the Americans will reach the Canada Pacific Railway. Tell me all the news that you have heard from all the places where your work is in progress. Big Bear has finished his work. He has taken Fort Pitt. If you want me to come to you let me know at once. I will be four days on the road. Those who have gone to see Big Bear will sleep twice on the road. They took twenty prisoners. Including the massacre at Fort Pitt they killed eleven men; including the agent, two priests, and six white men. We are camped on the creek just below Cut Knife hill, waiting Big Bear. The Blackfeet killed sixty police at Elbow. The halfbreed who interpreted for the police, having survived the fight, though wounded, brought the news here. We have killed six white men. We have taken the barracks yet, but that is the only entire building in Battleford. All the cattle and horses in the vicinity we have taken. We have lost one man, Nez Percé, killed, he being alone, and one wounded. Some soldiers have come from Swift Current, but we do not know the number. We have here guns and rifles of all sorts, but ammunition for them is short. If it be possible, we want you to send us ammunition of various kinds. We are weak only for want of that. You sent word you had finished the work at Duck Lake. We wait still for you, as we are unable to take the fort without help. We are impatient to reach you. It would give us encouragement as much to see you and make us work more heartily. Up to the present everything has gone well with us, but we are constantly expecting the soldiers to visit us here. We trust that God will be as kind to us in the future as in the past. We, the undersigned, send greeting to you all.
(Signed),
OOMIN; OW WAY; WIN MET; TAY WAY; WIS MUS; SIN ASS; PEE YAY; CHEW.

When this reaches you send us news immediately, as we are anxious to hear the news. If you send us news send us as many men as possible.

Midnight Sport in Mississippi.

(Mississippi in New Orleans paper.)
"A hauging," said Col. Barbour, "is very old sport for us Mississippians. Down in the Yazoo country, where I live, when we grow tired of bear hunting, we get up a hanging party just for a change. You see, to locate some fellow who has stolen a hog, and on a fine moonlight night we send out invitations to the neighbours and request them to join us in a hanging party. They always accept and come well mounted, and we go to the spot where the game is hived and string him up. I recollect last fall, when the boys got tired of deer driving and duck hunting, that we got up a little impromptu affair one night in honour of a Texas man who was on a visit to some of his relatives, and before daylight we had treed four of the meanest men the Yazoo swamp had ever seen. Pay me a visit some time and I'll introduce you to the boys and take you out with us some night. Come down this fall, if you can, as we have at least ten men spotted, and we'll have five or six nights' rare sport."

The Egyptian cotton crop is expected to be very abundant.

The opinion is expressed by a Canadian physician that 50 per cent. of all diseases arise from the use of stimulants. Divers, by a recent French invention, are said to be enabled to go down a distance of 800 feet below the surface of the water.

The possibility of lighting the city of Paris by a single great light on a high column is being again discussed by French engineers.

Don Marshall, the discoverer of gold in California, has just died in poverty, and the Californians are not saying a word about chipping in to buy him a monument.

New York State has 13,000 lunatics. Smallpox is spreading in Montreal. Three deaths from cholera at Gibraltar are reported.

Seventy-nine per cent. of the Russian soldiers cannot read or write.

Extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent an outbreak of cholera at Paris.

What is thought to be a death from Asiatic cholera has occurred at Camden, N. J.

A street in San Bernardino is so overgrown with sunflowers as to obstruct travel along it.

The venerable statesman, Sir Francis Hincks, died at Montreal last Tuesday of small pox, in his 78th year.

The prohibitionists of New York have selected Rev. Dr. Talmage as their candidate for Governor of the State.

A sprig of ivy was brought in a flower pot to General Grant's tomb by a woman who had cut the slip from which it sprang from the tomb of Napoleon at St. Helena six years ago.

A strange brain disease of great fatality is raging in the northeast part of Georgia. It kills in thirty-four hours. In one neighborhood in Murray county six deaths occurred in one day. In another place five persons died in one day.

A new industry in the Southern forests is the utilization of the needles of the long leaved pine (Pinus palustris). The leaves are soaked in a bath to remove the glazing, and then "crinkled" for stuffing cushions and other upholstery purposes.

It has been found that rubbing tar and paraffine, or other equally strong smelling substance, along the spine of grazing cattle will keep off flies, and the beasts will feed in peace, while others not so treated will be seen racing madly over the same field.

Wagner, the murderer, the first man hung in the Ohio penitentiary, left a touching temperance sermon behind. The leaves in his bible were turned at every place where drunkenness was referred to. It had been the root of all evil to him and he seemed to hunt up all the passages on it.

Dermestes, commonly known as the Bawn beetle, is one of the most destructive of insects, living on dried meats, feathers, skins, corks, horns and hoofs. Not long since they swarmed to such an extent in the London skin warehouses as to call for a reward of $100,000 for an available remedy, which tempting offer failed to secure the desired result.

The English Prohibitionists find by calculation that a very large number of those who favour the legal prohibition of the manufacture and sale of liquors have been enfranchised under the new law. They are encouraged by the fact to hope for political success in a separate party organization. One Good Templar lodge in the North of England, cited as an example, has more than one hundred members, and whereas under the old registry it only had five votes, under the Franchise Bill it will have seventy.
