THE EXIGENCY OF THE TIMES

Demands careful consideration and economical management in every household. It therefore behooves the merchant who is abreast of the times to keep his optics open, his brain in constant action, and his wits sharpened as keen as a razor, to enable him to supply his customers with Dry Goods and Clothing at prices compatible with the exigency of the times; and bargains that will take the plaster off the ceiling are the only kind of bargains calculated to overcome the stringency of the money market. These are exactly the kind of bargains we have to offer our customers during the month of August. The plaster is nearly one-half off the ceiling already, and the barefooted bargains we have left are intended to remove the balance without further delay. New goods are arriving daily, and room must be made for their reception.
