Angeli of Vienna is the favorite portraitpainter of Queen Victoria, who has sent for him to come to Windsor in November expressly to paint pictures of Beatrice and Battenb rg.

The venerable Prof. Calvin E. Stowe was famous for years as a wit, a scholar and a fine public speaker, but was suddenly and completely relegated to dense obscurity by Harriet Brecher Stowe, and she was his second wife at that.

Mr Stead, the editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, is described by a London correspondent as being the type of a fanatical reformer with his hair standing in all directions, his light blue eyes bloodshot, his face red with illsuppressed excitement, and his slight frame swaying to and fro, but looking like a brave man.

In one of his most frequently quoted poems Alfred de Musset asked that a willow tree be planted above his grave. Years after his death the request was tardily granted, but the tree refuses to grow and remains to this day a stunted skeleton. And no one in all France cares to replace it with a living

Senor Campero, a m rchant of Pueblo. Mexico, recently advertised that he would give a dollar to every needy man who applied, actually doing so f r a week or more. Incidentally, and in no connection with this charity, it is mentioned that Senor Campero proposes to run as Mayor of Pueblo.

Newspapers in Schools. A writer in the Current, after deploring the lamentable ignorance of public affairs and transpiring events displayed by the average scholar of the schools of the counis not meant to apply to the primary reading books -- the primer, first and second readers. Because the child, until it has advanced beyond these branches, has not attained that degree of intelligence which would enable it to grasp the meaning or retain inits memory the facts contained in a newspaper article. But this objection does not a apply to the child who has reached the age of twelve or fourteen years. At that age the average American youth is fully capable of understanding and remembering what he reads. It may be objected that the average newspaper contains a good deal of socalled news that would be injurious, rather thin beneficial, to the youthful reader; and that the style of language used by many newspaper writers is not of a sufficiently classic character to be utilized for the cultivation of the youthful mind. To the first of these objections it may be answered that while it is true that much that would be at least worthless in the education of youth is published in all newspapers, yet the judg ment and discretion of the int lligent teach er may be safely relied upon to select only that for perusil which will be both beneficial and instructive. As to the s cond objection, it may be said that while It holds good in many-alas ! far too many-cases, yet there are plenty of newspapers in the country that can be relied upon as not only honest exponents of current events and public opinion thereon, but a so equally as fair representatives of the purity of the English language as are the school readers. Of course, in the selection of newspapers for schools the judgment and intelligence of the school boards and teachers must be trusted not only to make the discriminations already cited, but also to use due consideration in choosing between the partisan and the non-partisan press. A good deal of thought and some little investigation of this subject have convinced me that the adoption of some such policy as is here suggeste a would be a long stride toward perfection of what is al-educational system in the world." Winter Evening Amusements.

As the cool winter evenings draw near there is usually a buzz of expectation in every small Canadian town or village, among the young people, in the hope of amusement. There are plenty of clever, agreeable boys and girls and energetic a ults who are ready to amuse others : but the fun is apt soon to .

Nothing can by duller than the social atmosphere of most of our villages through a long winter. There are two reasons for this: Nobody is willing to take the lead still fixed on her accuser, she moved slowly or to inaugurate a new idea; and there is away, without uttering one word of exculpa- and Susan had barely time to make her exit too much distinction of rank. The castes of Hindostan have not more rigid lines than the "sets" of a little Janadian town, with its mongrel population. The daughters of the judge snun the wife of the dry-goods merchant; while she, in turn, will not visit the carpenter's family, who haughtily pass | young lady murmured in a softened voice the milliner without a bow ; while the latter has nothing to do with the sempstresses who go out to work by the day; "good people, but not such as one could associate acaboard city happened to find herself in one of these olique ridden villages in New York, at the beginning of a long winter, She invited a member of each circle to her house, inaugurated half-s dozen clubs. which included all the respectable young people of the town, without the slightest regard to their previous social standing. There was a club for music, another for reading, others for tubleaux-vivants and Shakespare, history and art.

Each club met at the house of a member once a week; the simplest refreshment was slowly retraced her steps, her cousin's words Susan could recover her scattered wits provided; and each in its turn provided a for snightly entertainment to which the members of all the other associations were invited. For instance, one fortnight the entertainment was tableaux; the next a concert; the next short essays on art with a loan exhibition of such engravings or bricrouring farce, played by amateurs. The approached; and, as she passed through it, treaty as she asked, in a half-frightened quickly. a brac as the town could afford; the next a performance, it may be, were trifling ; but at the end of the winter these good neighbors usually reticent.

had discovered fine traits and capabilities in each other, here ofore unsuspected, and very men and women whom they had treated as social pariahs. Cannot the young people who read of this experiment do something in their own homes to bring about an era of good feeling !

The Yacht Livadia

The Caar Alexander II.'s famous yacht, the Livadia, turned up bing ago as a coal bulk in the harbor of Sebastopol. This is an ignominious ending for a craft which was expected to revolutionize marine archimost georgous vessels ever built. No such sure you would be happier.' most costly trappings and ornamented with features. wee more like a Liry palace than a modern have heard something." creation was to dazzle the Asiatic mind and still outwardly calm -" What is it !"

The Sencion Salls Gazette.

VOL. XIII.

FENELON FALLS, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, OCT. 17, 1885

NO 35

Life's Chivalry. BY ARTHUR L. SALMON.

Where, in the busy city's care and etrife, Its thirst for riches, and its toll for bread,
Is found that soul of chivalry in life,
Which some are mourning for as truly dead? Shall we seek for it in the forest slade;
In hoary dim cathedral gray with age,
In chancel where the mailed knights are laid With rusted lance, no further war to wage ; In mould'ring castle, or in ivied tower,
Where pomp and pageautry were wont to be?
Ah, no! But yet the ancient spirit's power
Is with us, and iss form, if we would see, To labor cheerfully from hour to hour, To do good gracicual, is chivairy.

By the Author of "THE FLOWER GIRL," "LOVELY LADY LYNHURST," &c., &c.

CHAPTER VIII .- (CONTINUED.) They had reached the old churchyard now, and leaning on the low white gate, hair ceased its caressing motion, and Adam, Graldine pointed to the further side, where lifting the fair face which the girl had hida granite pillar stood out conspicously from among the other surrounding tombs. At its base a figure crouched, and it was this which had attracted Miss Mainwaring's attention. right—it is killing us both. I have been the suffered always say to do it." ess drawn towards the spot which conceals That I should suffer is but just; but that her victim. Percy, I must go! Heaven you _____' try, thus argues for the introduction of news. has directed my footsteps here to day. papers into the public schools :- "Remove Nay"-is he made a step forward by her the old-fashioned reading-books from the side-"stay here! I would go alone.

> Mr. Braithwaite regarded his cousin with some degree of apprehension. She was strangely excited, and he saw that it would be usele s to attempt to thwart her ; to he wisely agreed to let her have her own way. "Very well," he said calmly. "I will re main here, as you wish it; only make your interview as short as possible. He pulled out a cigar and preceded leisurely to I ght it, whilst his cousin went swiftly forward, her footsteps making no sound on the short velvety grass, her skirts trailing behind her noiselessly.

Within a few feet of the monument erected to the loving memory of Harry Clifford Braithwaite she paused undecidedly. The kneeling figure had not moved. So quiet was it that for one terrible moment Geraldine fancied it was lifeless. The head was bent forward and rested on the cold granite, so that no glimpse of the features was ob-

"She is guilty, or why does she come here? It is remorse which brings her." Geraldine said to herself, and hardened her his breast. heart against the sinner. "I know you, tones. "What are you doing here at his pens, I have done it for the best."

Then the bowed head was raised, and a ears, Dolly Jarvis fell asleep that night. face so beautiful in all its deathly pailor was disclosed that Miss Mainwaring could ly the pained far-off look faded, and was re- Jarvis was dead ! ready the best and greatest and grandest time in some degree recovered herself.

out her srms as if to ward off some cruel be roused afore." blow, wi'h faltering steps and with her eyes

"Poor girl, she loved him too! I will try to remember that; and, if -- if she has sinned - ah me, her sufferings have been even greater than mine !" "If! It was singular that Geraldine should have admitted that "if"; and yet, in the face of the blank and hopeless despair the face of her manner, which had implied advice and go back to bed at once before written on Dolly Jarvis's countenance, in that she was guilty-or why should she not you get a chill. have refuted the charge brought against her? -Miss Mainwaring felt less assured of that fact than she had hitherto done. There was brown, bony, bare arm. something pathetic in the sadness of that be utiful face, something that told rather of sorrow than of guilt.

With a thoughtful look, Geraldine, after a few minutes spent by her lost lover's grave.

Well, perhaps, after all, he was right. She found Percy where she had left him. he glanced curiously at her ; but she was un-

"Well t" he queried, finding that, woman ill?" though she was, she did not use her tongge had found, too, friends and comrades in the for once. Are you satisfied now, or on the subject again, Percy.' "Agreed!' the other said, quite cheer fully, for he had some hopes of winning Geraldine himself in these days, and he had I -arranged it all last night -to go away since that terrible moment when he had found a dead rival, in the shape of poor Harry, far more difficult to overcome than a living one could have been, by me to leave this place! Let us go away outly kept watch beside her dead father. ing the history of the Bath Vaccine Associa- slurs on me. If I don't know more about tecture and which was certainly one of the somewhere we are not known. I am Three days had come and gone since tion, which is the oldest cetablishment of housekeeping than all the Browns on earth many sets of appartments were finished in his face reflected some of the anxiety and ethereal.

CHAPTER IX.

Oriental splender. Although that Livadia Yes," the girl answered slowly, "I increase the awe and mystery with which! The girl crossed the room with faltering years ago. Then it had been a young man instances went so far as to attempt to inco- call." it regarded the Crar. But the Livadia was footsteps, and came and knelt beside Adam, whose life had been cut off in the prime, ulate themselves with the disease in order to not a safe sailor, and she was practically dis- where he sat in an old arm-chair, his eyes, mourned by the girl who should have been claim the reward, but that their attempts unseeing, gazing out into the narrow street his wife. All the surroundings had spoken to catch it failed.

where the twilight shadows were fast deep. of wealth-the many waxen lights, the THE HOUSEHOLD.

hand. "Miss Mainwaring is staying at the Hall," Dolly said, in a low voice. "I met her this afternoon, and-and she spoke to away at least some of the horrors which always come in lines, coming through some "Well?" There was no sign of feelingin the carelessly spoken mon (syllable; ro ore it cost him to utter it. "Father, I am afraid-indeed I am almost sure she suspects." "Ah!" This time it sounded almost like a sob; then, recovering himself instantly, he added-"Tell me what she said."

us both !" The hand which had been passing backwards and forwards over the soft chesnut

"Percy" she said slowly, "it is a murder- seifish, Heaven forgive me-and cruel.

"Nay, nay, do not reproach yourself. You were mad, and yes, I was mad too." schools, and replace them with the better What I have to say must be said to her fervent'y. "Oh, my child if aught could atone; but it cannot, it cannot! There is only one way open to me." "You mean that we must leave here?" Dolly cried eagerly. "Yes, I must leave here." And, in her joy and gratitude, the girl never noticed the personal pronoun he employed. So they sat on in the gloaming, father and daug ter, with the knowledge of a terrible secret between them, which yet could not destroy their love for one another.

When St. Jude's presently struck nine, Adam started from the reverie into which he had fallen.

contemplate. It is getting late, and you unseen and unknown, hovering near him. must be tired. Light the lamp, and then Briefly explained, it amounted to this. I would be alone. Dolly obeyed his wishes, and then came to kiss him, as was her wont. "Good night, my child; may Heaven that the Captain had acted even a baser Dolly Jarvis," she said aloud, in clear firm bless you! And remember, whatever hap part than he had really done; and, without

In the early dawn of the summer's morn, not repress an exclamation of surprise. old Sae, entering the little parlour, was Captain Braithwaite made but a feeble re-Yes, the sweet sensitive drooping lips, the startled to see the blacksmith sitting in his sistance to his assailment, and in the strugbeautiful eyes, the pure complexion the favourite arm-chair beside the table. His gle stumbled, and slipped over the precipice, perfect features were the same as of yore; head had fallen forward upon his breast, his while Adam, heedless of Dolly's wild cries, but, in stead of the sunny smile, in stead of hand still grasped the pen with which he had stridden off, reckless of any injuries he the eyes brimming over with mischief and had signed his name for the last time. might have inflicted on the young officer, mirth, they were filled with a great and With an exc mation of surprise, which but hardly dreaming of the consequences to be amused and to contribute their share ing girl's ears as she clutched her arm. better'n a poor creature like mysel'. And— was hardly likely to fall upon him. Never would Geraldine forget the look yes, of course ; I wonder I didn't think of "Having made our plans, I was compellanguish, with a feeble flicker or two, and which Dolly Jarvis cast upon her, so full that first -Tom Larkins -he'll do it best of of horror, amazement, and terror was it. of all. He'll be 't work soon, and I'll keep Slowly she rose to her feet, and, stretching quiet till then, and maybe the child will not

> But, even as she thus soliloquised, there was a fluttering of light feet down the stairs, tionor of confession. And, strangely enough, from the room and shut the door behind her, Geraldine Mainwaring made no attempt to keeping one hand on the handle, before she etain or follow her, or to wring the truth found herself standing face to face with from her. Nay, as the small lithe figure Dolly-Dolly looking so ghastly and weird disappeared in the opposite direction to the in the pale dawn that old Sue, whose nerves gate by which Geraldine had entered, that had received a great shock, had much ado to keep herself from crying out again.

"what a turn you've give me! What is 't that has brought you down so early, and and not dressed too ?"-for Dolly had only a loose wrapper thrown over her night-dress. "You'll catch your death of cold, child, standing there with nothin' on. Take my father-and what-has-happened?"

But Dolly took no heed of this warning. On the contrary, she came a step nearer

The words dropped out singly, and, before justice.

"Quite satisfied. We will never speak ated Susan, unconscious that she was speak companion. tone. "Oh, no, not dead! We-he and had been slowly but surely bre king ever be up stairs, called over the banisters:

better when we have left Midhurst, and we low being. shall be happy once more-poor father and

In the poor little darkened room, with "Oh, fatner, I wish you'd be persuaded a solitary tallow candle, Dolly Jarvis jeal- against vaccination would be edified by read-

death, silently and sorowfully contemplat- any proof that it was possible for any per- our new preacher is here !" ing the ravages which grief had made in the son thoroughly vaccinated to take small-pox. | And Solomen came down, painted a grin sion went abroad that one purpose of her drew his breath heavily; then he asked, comparison between this scene and a simi- ed that some of those so vaccinated placed "Well! well! but this is good of costly flowers, the rich perfumes, the "What is it?" Adam repeated, as Dolly polished oak coffin, with its brass plate and twined her arms around his knees, and laid inscription. Now it was a prematurely her soft cheek against the toil hardened aged man whose only child refused to be must always attend death. coffin-lid, which was of plain deal covered they reach the shelf above. If kerosene is sands of frogs, experimental physiology and save Dolly p rhaps could have guessed what with cloth; the air was close and stifling, turned the entire length of this line, also medicine being their favorite study. The shop was recently sold for $3,000,000.

> went unhesitatingly forward. "Dolly," she whispered softly, placing and effectual method of getting rid of them. pacific propagandist movement, accompani-her cool hand on the girl's hot feverish ones, Leave the door and windows open awhile ed by no act of violence. "Do ly," she repeated, "I have come to ask gone.

aldine's eyes.

tone touched Geraldine greatly; ber own being much preferable to the cloth bag or eyes filled with tears. "I know-we all know-now how it hapnow, can they?" Dolly questioned fever- per. This will give a nicer polish than can King, a giant, when opposite the Emperor kept on his way on fort. After he had ishly. "He said he would go away; I had be obtained in any other way. Windows begged him to do so. I had told him I had treated in the same way will be found to seen you, but not what you said-oh, no, look much nicer than if simply washed and I would not hurt him by repeating that! rinsed. But he kept his word, you see, and he has To take ink stains out of table cloths, the carts. The gardeners, surrounded with gone away. By and by I shall be glad per- napkins, etc., put the article to soak immehaps; but not now-not now !" And then relief came in a burst of hysteri- as often as necessary.

There had been an inquest the day before very dirty use a little soap also. After clean--in this as in that other case, five years ago ing, rinse in clean water, tie a string to the - and it was then that Adam Jarvis's con- handle, and hang up to dry. fession had been read-a statement which "Go-leave me now, child; I have some he had written during those silent hours preparations to make for the change we when the angel with the sickle was already,

Braithwaite had lost his life, Adam had been returning from his wooing through the "Good night, father," she said, stooping pine-wood, when he had recognised his of a pound of sugar to a pound of pump- a fish or a bear, and humour and gravity are pursued on a large scale. Hundreds of mildaughter and the young officer talking to- kin, some raisins, and a lemon or two. comically intermingled. One of the simpl- lions of the bivalves are sent to market annu-He drew her down until her head by on gether. A few words which he over-heard Cook till pumpkincan easily be pierced with est, and yet most interesting poles, has a ally and the business steadily increases with and misconstrued, had led him to believe a straw, then skim out and cook juice till bear on the top looking down with a grin, each year. preface or warning, the blacksmith had And with those words still echoing in her raised his mighty fist, and with one tremendons blow, had struck the betrayer of Dolly's affections. Attacked thus suddenly and unawares, mute despair. A despair so profound, an was quickly turned in horror, Susan hasten- which had really attended what he termed agony so intense was written in every linea- ed forward. One touch of the cold nerve- the "drubbing he had given the rascal." ment of that lovely face that Geraldine less hand, one glance into the wide staring He had grown un asy as the time sped, by, was smitten dumb for the moment. Slow- eyes, revealed too plainly the fact-Adam and Dolly did not make her appearance; but, when she at length returned, and in a nants of a cold boiled or roasted chicken in

Then the faintest rose-flush dyed her wan grief which escaped her as the dreadful en A fearless man, possessed of great egg, besten, and a tablespoonful of corncheeks, and her lips parted, but no words truth dawned upon her. "Now Heaven strength, he became a coward at the vision starch or arrowroot, seasoning with salt and after some years, the trees rest entirely up- from fifteen to sevent on hours a day, some. cam . But Miss Mainwaring had by this have mercy on me !" she sobbed. "Alas of the hangman, and, in a moment of weak- white pepper, a little sugar, one teaspoonful on their inserted supports and are as vigor- times for seven days in a week. In Bristol that I should have lived to see this day! ness, consented to carry out his daughter's of anchovy sauce, and one bay leaf. Put "I am G raldine Mainwaring," she said, and my bonuis bairn left fatherless as well suggestion, which was that the blame should the pieces of chicken in this sauce in a stow. trees has five of these "legs," which have hours a day for twelve shillings a weer. "once the betrothed of my cousin, who lies as motherless! It will kill her, too, poor be permitted to fall upon her. No one but pan and simmer half an hour. Stew some buried there," And it seemed that some tender heart! How shall I break it to her? herself knew of Adam's presence at the in- rice quite soft in milk, seasoning with salt inner force compelled her to speak almost Ah me, I cannot tell her! She must not terview which had taken place between and pepper. Put the chicken in the centre against her will. "And you-you are his know-not yet. I'll just send for the doc- Dolly and her lover. The pine-wood was of a dish, place the rice around it as a bortor when t'forge is opened; he's a kind- quite out of the blacksmith's way in going der, and serve. The last word was hissed into the kneel- hearted man, and 'li know what to say to and from Doctor Seymour's; so suspicion led to stand by them," Adam wrote "though many a time and oft, I felt I must confess the truth when I saw how my pretty lass was shunned and suspected. I had made the vinegar and sugar. Skim well, then add the fruit. Cook ten minutes, or till scalded up my mind that, if things went seriously against Dolly at the inquest, I would have cleared her and given myself up, and even that open verdict, which seemed to cast a doubt on my poor lass, nearly made me do it; but I thought of the hangman, and remained

Then he went on to say that life became a living death to him, that he shunned his cup of green corn, which is obtained by cutneighbors, because he feared they would | ting the kernels with a silver knife and pres-"Lor', miss," she managed to gasp, read his secret in his guilty looks, and yet sing out the pulp with the knife, being carestill more terrible was solitude; whilst even | ful that the kernels are not loosened from Dolly's presence, once so dear to him, seem. | the cob, one cup of sliced ripe peaches, ed to be an everlasting reproseh. But it crushed slightly, two tablespoonfuls of sugwas Miss Mainwaring he feared most. In. ar, and one cup of water. Mix thoroughly. stinct told him that she who had loved the and put in an earthen pudding dish, placing dead man with a great and deep-seated Das. thin slices of peach on the top. Bake from sion, would never rest until she had discovered the truth. So he had come to the conclusion that she would no longer fight against fate. Dolly who had been an angel to him, and laid her hand impressively on Sue's who, while athoring the sin, had yet loved kettle, with half apint of water to one quart and pitled the sinner so greatly, should of berries; now put the sugar-granulated "You are trying to deceive me," she said have her innocence publicly declared. She is the best—on the top of the berries ; set on camp ground who had heard of the early the house, and had no thought of any concalmly; "but it is useless. Where is my had begged him to go away-well, he would the fire and stir about half anhour : stir oftgo tomorrow; he would give himself up to en to prevent burning; they will not need

It seemed strange that he should have persistently recurring to her. "It was of sufficiently to answer, Dolly had gently written this confession when about to prono use to rake up a scandal that could re- pushed her on one side and entered the claim the truth in his own person-perhaps be used if you do not wish them very rich. flect little credit on any one concerned in it. room behind her. Then indeed the old wo- he thought it was less painful to break his and nothing could bring poor Harry back man sprang forward, but too late. Already intelligence first in this form, or maybe the Do'ly had raised the bowed head and pil- shadow of the dark messenger was already lowed it on her arm. Not a tear did she with him. Some instinct, sure, but undeshed, not a cry did she utter; only the fined, may have warned him that, if atone-He hastened to open the gate for her as she beautiful eyes were filled with piteous en ment were to be made, it must be done

> Ah, Heaven had dealt mercifully with | third house from the corner, I believe?" "What is it? Has he fainted?" Is he Adam Jarvis, after all! The contemplation of that "giving himself up" had been too very nice people, and I know you'll like "Hear her! Ab, Heaven save us all, much for him. He had "gone away" in the l'em. but she never guesses he is dead !" ejacul- dark solemn night; but Death had been his

"Dead?" repeated Dolly, in a bewildered of the heart was true enough, for his heart from the interior. Brown, who seemed to Myers expressed his desire to have the somewhere together. Yes, yes; he will be realised that his hand had destroyed a fel-

Those people who have imbibed prejudices that terrible morning when she had the kind in England. To test the efficacy I'll commit suicide." vessel had been since Nosh navigated the Dolly's voice was tremulous; but there come down only to find that she was an or- of vaccination, it long ago adopted a pecul castern waters; her hull was hidden in a was no mietaking the eagerness with which phan, that Adam had indeed made his iar plan. Persons o casionally applied for projecting basement which supported a rew she awaited the old man's reply.

projecting basement which supported a rew she awaited the old man's reply.

of pillars; she had four tiers of decks paved "Happier?" he repeated, in a tone of much happiness and, also, misery also, for with black, white and red marble; there mockery. "As if that were possible! As ever! During this space of time the girl erating successfully upon any of this latter that's done it!" was a magnificent marble fountain; the if anything could make my life other than a had never broken her fast; old Susan's tear- class, thus giving the individual concerned a At this juncture the minister was ushered baths were hewn from white marble blocks; bideous burden ! But," he went on quickly, ful entreaties and Tom Larkin's had been fourth mark, the Association presented him in, and Mrs. Brown soon entered the par rows of el ctric lights illuminated the sale as he regarded his daughter with a bond for one hundred pounds lor, extended both hands, and gayly excone and avenue like corridors; and the scrutiny, "you have heard something !" and been of the fragile order, now it was almost -$500 -to be redeemed in cash by the As- c'aime i:

The tiny red ants which are such a nuicomforted because he was no more. Here, sance in many partries may be easily driven if there was no actual display of poverty, away if kerosene is freely used. Those who there was none of the tr ppings which take have been troubled by them know that they crevice in the wall or floor, and following A few half-blown monthly roses lay on the one after the other, in regular order, until the solitary candle emitted a sickly light. on the place where they come in, the floor, revolutionary movement to which the name Geraldine Mainwaring shuddered; then she etc., they will soon depart. You may need of "Nihilism" was afterwards applied in to repeat this a few times, but it is an easy | 1871-72, and for five or six years was quite a quickly, to prevent rusting.

be soiled at all, and when through with under its wing, and flew away. The sweet piteous pleading in look and them they can be dropped into the stove Young women in white, with pages in telling ghost stories is a favorite amurement mitten, which requires frequent washing.

pened," she said soothingly, "and we do clean, wash them in warm soap-suds, turn Pilson is celebrated for its breweries; con- with some dauger. Lately the horse of a "Dead! Yes, they cannot harm him soft cl th, and rub with a piece of newspa-cal tears, which may be saved poor Dolly's A few drops of hartshorn put into a little water will clean a hair brush nicely. If ripe pumpkin, peel, and cut in inch squares. or huts. The designs of the totem poles are General Booth, the Salvationist, is having Let stand over night in a weak solution of different. On the top of one perched a rav- a hard time in Yorkshire, where the uncon-On that eventful evening, when Captain alum water, and in the morning spread on en—they are all of wood, and scmetimes the verted respond to his appeals by flinging platters set in the sun for two hours, or in tree or log from which they are made is hol- sticks at his head. a warm oven. Then take three-quarters lowed out in the back, another tops off with The oyster industry in France is now thick enough to keep, as other preserver. If as much as to say, "Here I am, high and Queen Victoria has a strong dislike for properly made it can't be told from citron.

Ohoice Recipes.

Egg Pie.-Make two very thin cakes of Indian meal, flour, and soda, just as for corn bread, and wet it with sour milk, and all pointing up. An Indian grave, built of horrence, rest there. bake them in a quick oven. Make a gravy logs laid up "corn cob house" fashion, is Vienna is ab ut to put into practical operof one teaspoonful of butter, the same of surmounted by a life-size wooden figure that ation an aerenautic institute, where a conflour, a cup of milk, and salt and pepper. When it is boiling drop in cold, sliced, hardboiled eggs; leave them in long enough to heat, but don't let them boil up, or they will fall to pieces. Butter one of the hot | dled a lot of young apple trees some years | Indian cakes, lay it in a round pan or dish, ago. In two cases of choice fruit the own- Paul's churchyard so as to op on up a good pour on the gravy and eggs, and lay on the er undertook to save the trees. The young view of London's greatest building from at other cake, buttering it on the top and shoots which usually spring up from below least one side.

sprinkling on pepper and salt. A DELICIOUS SIDE DISH -Cut the remplaced by one of recognition, as Dolly began For the life of her the old woman could few heart-broken words made her confession small pieces. Make a sauce of one pint of to comprehend in whose presence she stood. not suppress the cry of mingled horror and from beginning to end, he was horror strick. cream. two ounces of butter, the yelk of one

Sweet Pickles,-Eight pounds of fruit, tirely gone, and they look as if standing up- that Americans are very much like Englishfour pounds of the best brown sugar, one quart of vinegar, and one cup of mixed whole spices, stick cinnamon, cassia buds, allspice, and cloves-iess of the latter than of the former. Tie the spices in a bag, and boil with and tender. Skim out the fruit and put into stone jars. Boli the sirup five minutes Myers, then a young man of 30 years, per- torily refuzed to give permission for him to longer and pour over the fruit. The next sizently courted Miss Elvina Cobb of Balt day pour off the sirup and boil down again, more county. They afterwards had a misand do this for three mornings. Keep the understanding and parted. Although they

bag of spices in the sirup. GREEN CORN AND PEACH PUDDING -One twenty minutes to half an honr in a moder-ateoven. Serve cold. CRANBERRY SAUCE - Pick over and wash the cranberries, and put in the preserving straining, and will preserve their rich color cooked in this way. Never cook cranberries before putting in the sugar. Less sugar may Striking It Rich.

"Have you called on the Browns yet?" she asked as the new minister was about to take his leave after making a call. "I'm just golog," he replied. "It's the

"Yes-third house. They are very, When the minister rang the bell there was some delay in answering it. Meanwhile The verdict that he had died of disease the screen doors permitted him to hear "Say; Helen, where in thunder is that old vest I spoke of?" "Who are you talking to !" demanded a

> "To you, of course! If you were any sort of a wife you'd put things where they could be found. "Solomon Brown, don't you cast any voice from below.

Smiths have to keep house on ! "Solomon, you are a vile wretch !" "Much obliged, but it's living with you

White House since it was built,

"You do, eh? What did the pauper sociation whenever the person thus vaccin- "Ah! I'm so glad! Solomon and I with daughters of wealth and refinement to of boat which tips over every time. rare woods and stone, furnished with the terror so plainly depicted on Dolly's wan | So at least thought a visitor who entered ated should take small-pox. In other words both wanted to see you to much! Solomon be as much like their brothers as decorum unannounced and stood in the chamber of the Association was willing to pay $500 for -Soily, dear, hurry up and come down- will allow.

yache, and it is not strange that the impres . "Ah!" Adam s brow contracted, and he young girl. Involuntarily she drew the This proof has never been given. It is stat- on his face, and greeted the good man with: Kharloum, which has been issued by the Gambetta were the executors named in his lar one in which she had berselt figured five themselves in contact with small-pox and in you! Wifey and I were just wishing you'd the starved condition of the troops and the refused to act, and the great financier, left

In France, as well as in Italy, Mary is that the Indians in the United States numfrequently added to a distinctively mason. ber more than 210,000. line name as a remembrance of the Virgin. Pope was Giovanni Maria.

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

The term "Nihilist" was invented by Turgheneff in 1862, and was used to designate a set of freethinkers and students who where upon the sand, is nonsense. destroyed no life but those of many thou-which lay tightly clasped in her lap- and the scent of the kerosene will soon be In the camp of a New York regiment was passionately. "Only let us go away from this hateful place. Oh, father, it is killing me?"

| Solution | Compared to ask gone. | Solution | Sol black specks from the top or sides when presence of other crows, that looked with Then, as once before, the girl raised her ironing, take them in a pan of soapsuds and wonder at its fearlessness. They evidently drooping head and gazed straight into Ger. give them a thorough washing, and dry supposed his less of a leg accounted for the care he received, for one day, when it was double the number of eggs that hens do in "Forgive !" she echoed, in a dazed tone. Paper b gs, in which many articles are whistled for to come to its dinner, a crow the same period of time. "Yes, I am sure he was forgiven at last; he suffered so—ah, how much! Poor fath ed for use when blacking a stove. You can slip the hand into one of these and handle and hopped twenty feet away. Then it let consume 44,000 tons of fish a year—enough always say that truthfully-he never meant the brush just as well, and the hand will not down its other leg, which had been hidden to supply the whole city.

green at their heels, made the eye of the and the stories are not spoke a but chanted Austrian Emperor twinkle as the procession with a flavor of exultation. To make lamp-chimneys look beautifully at Pilson filed past him the other day. But Mail carrying in Arizona is attended sequently the bar of Gambrinus was the carrier failed him while he was thirty miles chief attraction of the cavalcade. The Beer from his destination, Agua Caliente, but he emptied an enormous buyl to his health with a mighty "Hock !" in which thous was found on the road in a dying con lition, ands joined. Casks innumerable, large and his mail bags having beet dragged off by diately in thick sour milk, changing the milk the goddess Flora, attended by children. A palm trees and flowers, rolled past, with newly married couple, with hundreds of the peasantry wearing their national costumes, and 230 miners from the mines of the neigh- uary. borhood closed the procession.

The famous village of totem poles at Wrangel, Alaska, lies along the beach, he mountains rising high in the rear, with snow on their tops. About a dozen white people | tiful table ware ; they import their dishes PUMPKIN PRESERVES .- Takea good sound, live there. There are about 20 native houses from England at great expense. dry, and well out of your way." Tracks of the royal sepulchre of her family at St. the bear are cut in the upright pole-a foot George's for the reason that the lenet of and a half thick on three sides of it, the toes George IV., whose memory she holds in abclosely resembles an alligator, although it is stant supply of billoons of every kind and a mystery where these Indians got the idea | style well le kept on hand. Acc majors are

On a farm at Pottstown, Pa, rabbits girthe "gird'e" were allowed to grow long enough to reach the sound bark above the England on the wide commons which stretch "girdle," and then inserted under the bark, for many miles through Western Surveys after the manner of inoculating trees, and securely tied. They grew and nourished now by growth been almost consolidated. The other tree has seven, all entirely dis- | in France believe that the American civil tinct as yet, but growing closer. The old war was between the Spaniards of South stem below the insertion is dead and decayed in the one tree and in the other it is en- | He affirms that as fest as Frenchmen le rn on stools.

A LIFE ROMANCE

A Coup'c Who Were Married After Fort Year's Separation.

Forty years ago the Rev. Thomas E. had a deep affection for each other, they never made any attempt to become reconciled. S me weeks ago the couple met at Emory Grove camp meeting for the first time since their separation. Each had been twice married and had buried both life partwith his once sturdy frame. The matronly widow of 55 saw before her a feeble and hle of exciting a romantic interest. Mr. Myers, who was noted for his piety'and fine theological learning, seemed to regard the widow with great interest, and soon became her accepted escort in walks around the became the subject of tender interest. young belle of 18 in passing rapidly along corner and suddenly saw the hev. Mr. Myers in the act of presenting a bouquet of wild flowers to the blushing widow. The gallant lover was making a graceful and courtly bow when the astonished beauty met his gaze. He blushed, trembled, and dropped the flowers, and seemed overwhelmed with con-camp. There were a few friends on the

The episode seemed to convince Mr. Myers that he should clear himself of the suspicion of flirting, and he forthwith proposed to Mrs. Hall, who, after some persuasion, agreed to change her name for the third time and become Mrs Myers. The engagement was at once announced, and Mr. ceremony performed just forty years after the date of their separation. On the desired anniversary, which fell on a recent Tuesday, they were married. The Rev. Dr while the knot was being tied. After the |- May." ceremony Mrs. Myers, whose friends had In a single province of Japan last year insisted on attiring her in full bridal array, | 852 bears were killed. The Government not excepting the orange blossoms, was payer bounty, and it looks as though the congratulated by hundreds of her friends and animals were bred by the hunters. her husband's parishoners.

A process has been devised by a Russian | lienaire It is of solid glass, the legs, rails, inventor of so impregnating wood with a &c., being richly cut. The King of Burcertain chemical that matches made from it mah also has one. can be used several times over.

The increasing masculinity of English the unloaded gun which always goes off girls is a topic for many Landon cassylsts. when it is pointed at anybody, it is the plea-In dress, talk and manners it is the fashion sure boat that can't tip ever. It is this kind acquits Faraz of the charges of treachery. | will.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A white camel is an odd object that serves as a nine days' wonder at the London

Statistics show that the population of Ireland has decreased 3 200 000 in forty-five

The weight of 1,000,000 dollar bills in greenbacks is within a fraction of 2,841

The depression of the coal trade in South Wales is so serious that over 40,000 men are affected by it.

Dr. Rierme Betsef, an emine: t ccu'i-t. says that the common electric light preduces color blindness. Fire has not left the hearthstone of one armer in Georgia since it was kin lled with flint and steel in 1842. Congressman Holman does not believe

Every defaulter and thief striving to Thus Hugo was Victor Marie, and the late reach Canada by way of Chicago is arrested and detained in that city.

The popular supposition that an ostrich never lays but one egg, and drops that any-

The oldest apothecary shop in Berlin will celebrate in 1888 its 400 h anniversary. The

The St. Paul Globe says a man at Milbank, Col., has a chicken with a head at each en', one white and the other black.

but no tail.

It is now denied that fish diet make brains. There never was any i undation for the belief except theory, and experiments have proved its falsity. An experiment has been made in France with the result that ducks lay more than

Among the negroes of the Carolina ccast gone fifteen mi'es he became exhausted, and wildanimals and torn to pieces.

OVER THE OOEAN. John Ruskin has twice r. ad his own obit-French officers who attempted to witness compelled to retire. The Japanese do not use their own beau-

the maneuvers of the German guards were

There is talk of buying up and pulling down the houres at the eastern end of St. A veritable prairie fire has taken place in

Cause - Boys, Result - Devastation and rerious loss of pro, erty. the main stem of the tree above, and now, London tram-car and omnibus men work ous as any in the orchard. One of these boys of fourteen or fift en work ixteen Charles G Leland wites that the masses > men their feeling charges to hatred. An American actor now in Germany advertizes that he has with great difficulty to recured leave of alrence from President Clevelard to play in Austria a menth. An American tourist added to the bill a foot note saying that while the President refunctant ly granted the rermission to to, be reremp

An erica and regroes of North America,

Killed b. Bee Stings. Thomas Fader of Gouldville keeps several hives of bees in his garden. The other forenoon he was at work among his bees. A man with whom he had some buisness dealings called at his house to see him. ners. Their hair was silvered, and with Mrs. Fader went out to call her husband inthe whilom lover time had dealt severely to the house. As she approached the bee hives a number of bees flew late her face, and she was stung several times. One of bent form, but it seemed none the less capa- the bees stung her in one of her nostrils, and another one soung her on the upper lip, at the base of the cartilege dividing the two nostrils. Mrs. Fader's cries brought her husband to the spot. He extracted the stingers and applied wet earth to the wounds. He went with his wife back to romance, and the venerable lovers at once sequences resulting from the bee stings more serious than the swelling and pain. He left On the day before the camp broke up a his wife in the kitchen applying ammonia to the wounds, and entered a front room, a favorite walk near the camp turned a where his visitor was. A few minutes later he heard a heavy fall in the kitchen. He ran out, and found his wife lying in convulsions on the floor. Her nostrils were swol len shut, and her lips were twice their natural size, and had turred dark blue. She breathed short and quick through her mouth. Her face was so swollen that its fusion as the intruder turned away with a identity was entirely lost. Mr. Fadee hurried his visitor after a doctor, but before one arrived his wife died in her husband's arms. The doctor said that the stings in her lip and nos rils had sent a shock like electricity to her brain, and from that to her lungs and heart, so severe that she was unable to rally from it. Mrs. Fader was 28 years old. It was but fortyfive minutes from the time that she was stung until her death.

" Personal -- Dear Ned, come back; all is Ihomas Poulson officiated, and the bride forgiven. Pa kicked the wrong man, and and groom stood under a huge silver bell | didn't know it was you. Come immediatly.

A glass bedstead has been made at a Birmingham; Eng., factory for a Calcutta mil

If there anything more dangerous than

Victor Hugo died worth about $1,000 .-000, his royalties amounting to $220,000 The report of Col. Kitchener on the fall of yearly. Jules Grevy, Leon Say and Leon P itish War Office attributes the disaster to will. Death incapacitated the last, the first de ertion of their posts by the native contin- alone, found his other business to be too gent The Arabs entered the city by the pressing; so he has nominated M. G. Pal-Only two children have been born in the Boeri gate, which was not defended. He lain to take his place and execute the poet's