Walter Forester of Baltimoro and Will Eggleston of Philadelphia, two amateur sportsmen, made a discovery the other day while out hunting that will undoubtedly excite the interest of all archae logists. They started out early in the morning with dogs and guns, and hunted up till -noon with poor success. They then halted to partake of luncheon at the toot of a dark ravine, half way up the mountain slope. Mr. Forester started up the gully to explore it.

Owing to the precipitous nature of the ground, he was compelled to leave gun and dogs behind and pull himself up by wild grape vines and tough undergrowth. After climbing for half an hour he discovered, to sage, high enough for them to walk upright.

obliged to return to the mouth of the cave and secure torches. These they lighted and then re-entered the cave. The passage-feet. The room was paved and walled with hour a huge rock in the centre of the wall ened passage disclosed a vision that at once astonished and dismayed the man. Stretched upon a bed of skins was the life-size figure of a colossal Indian warrior, attired in girdle and headdress of eagle feathers and beads, with his hands resting on knife and battle axe. The coloring and general ap-natural as to lead the spectators to think him but asleep. For a moment this vision lingered, then wavered and dlappeared, leaving no traces of the gorgeous picture of the dead chieftain save a quantity of dust and a few bones. There were a number of the head of a hatchet composed of alloy strongly resembling bronze. In addition to these trophies the cave contained a number of curlously shaped flagons or cups of the same peculiar metal and several fragments of earthenware. Just beneath the spot where the body had lain was found a stone bearing a number of curious hieroglyphics.

The hunters gathered their treasures to-

As they entered the passageway they were appalled to see two living coals of fire peering at them through the darkness.

Forrester fired and killed an enormous panther, measuring six feet one inch in length.

they arrived at the village, and also examined their trophies. The knife blade and handle are of the same piece and are about nine inches in length. The knife is very broad, and was doubtless sharpened on both edges. The hatchet head consists of a

The reporter saw the hunters shortly after safeguard, schooling to German military au thorities, but i's slege would be more dif ficult, than in 1870 come Angermino English sole is reported to have been caught in Long Island Sound near New Haven, a few cays ago, and feut to a prominent naturalist for preservation. Of thirteen lynchings conducted by one band of vigilantes in Montana during the three months, it is claimed that the right man was hanged in twelve instances. Cateful examination shows that in Massachusetta 32 per cent. of females in the laboring classes and 11 per cent. of males work on Sunday, in addition to their weekly services, The Russian Government has decided that liquors shall be retaited only in hotels and eating houses. As a result of this edict 90, 000 volka shops will be closed on Jan, 1 1886. A court martial recently condemned the chief surgeon of a Rhenish infantry regiment to nine years in the penitendary for illegally letting off young men from military ser-

A Justice in Georgia recently undertook to marry two couples at once and married both women to one of the men before he was aware of the fact. He afterward got the matter straightened out to the satisfaction of the contracting parties.

The Commission appointed by the Spanish Government to investigate the great Andalusian earthquakes last Christmas report passages that were glazed and ceiled with that over 17,000 belldings were injured in perfumed chunam, each having a door whose Granada and Malaga, of which 4,400 were lock yielded to one or other of the keys that ruined; 745 persons were killed, and 1,485 dangled at the girdle of Elman, the buffoon, wounded, Zealand a consignment of bumble bees. At clover seed. The price of the Genesta, says the London but leaving his brawny limbs bare, whilst pounds sterling has been refused, but it is intimated that a compromise between that sum and the price asked for the cutter, £6,. 600, may be effected. This should mean that five thousand will do it.

country ever passed a law that was so completely and universally ignored as the antivada. Everybody claims the right to treat a friend, and the claim is so re sonable that even the officers do not dispute it.

students. Late measurements give the height of the | ed ton a day.

At the German naval port of Wilhelms haven, on the North Sea, a number of la borers who were engaged in cleaning the iron hull of a steamer ate the mussels they found clinging thereto. The consequence was that nineteen of the men were taken violently, ill, with unmistakable symptoms of polsoning, and in the course of a few him. hours four of them died.

An old Inhabitant of the English village of Wednesbury, named Edward Hampson, while bathing in the Upper Nile. a coachemith, has just come into possession of $4 000 000 under the will of his uncle. Adam Roades, cattle dealer, of New Zealand. Roades, who was a Wednesbury man, left his native town fifty-three years ago almost penniless, and since that time he has acquired his wea'th by means of cattle farming [ os an]

The French Government has commissioned Lieuz Palat, who is about to undertake a journey across the Sahara desert, from the Mediterranean Sea to Timbuctoo, to inquire into the feas bility of establishing a and showed the surprising beauty of her as she?" caravan route between the Soudan and Algeria, with a view to diverting to that pro- darker than a Spanish girl's, and looked his temper in turn, at hearing Nellie Trezarr vince some of the commerce of the Soudanese and Saharan tribes that now flows only of her pearl-entwined hair formed its back- not win me from her were you thrice as to Morocco and Tripoli.

Thomas and Lucy Somes lived in Mt. Desert of white satin and also covered with filigree preferring the dove to the eagle, and be un-Me., and wanted to be mar led. There was work, and, being banded tightly around her pardonably rude in saying so, but you have no minister within thirty miles and so they ankles, revealed the tiniest of feet, that were put to me a plain question and pressed me of the little mole, which once upon a time Placing in front my headfhunter, Mangkalee, married themselves. On the town records thrust into a pair of crimsou velvet heelless for a plain answer, therefore I candidly tell was the death of a king, dangerous enough who has a very good sight, while, in the under date of 1780, is the contract which slippers, thickly studded with precious your highness, that the fair girl whom you work has been done in the dark during that dark, my own is very bad, we hurried along they drew up and signed-agreeing, in stones. "the presence of God, the angels, and these witnesses, to love, to cherish and nourish," obeyed the summons of the lotus flower and her less so." and to "love, honor, and obey," as husband all is well. Yes, well for ourselves and for and wife as long as God, should continue others that you love me." their lives.

To Mr. Willis, the well known British student and operator in photography, is due the success achieved in the art of photoing permanent and practical results by a which they are printed, not depending for mit with a good grace. tueir adhesion on the use of any sizing maaqueous solutions of ferric oxalate and pot- good deal to vague in its nature for the party Frank, and continued in French : assic chloro-platicate, then miried, said ex- to whom it was addressed. posed to light under a negative. After it "I do not want you to love everything and is then washed in one or two solutions, to I am not one who could brook a rival."

Glints of Home Life. IN OBY ANNIBL JACK.

Antumn is passing. The children are busy hiding a pumpkin and some large white turnips for the witching hours of Hallowe en. There are no leaves left on the vines, and any bunches of grapes that are left in the vineyard are frezen and tasteless except the the sunny days are treasures to value, and known for months instead of days." mer, and the golden autumn, there is a charm, an instant of time to as great a degree as it about the so-called "dreary month to can ever attain. Had you not loved me you housekeepers who have been busy all to sew of read or enjoy the shut in privil-

" The vine still elings to the mouldering wall, And at every gust the dead leaves fall. To day we made a new soup that seems so flower in the garden and we cut one up. soaked in water for an hour, and chopped fine with an onion, a bunch of parsiey and a little seasoning. It was boiled till tender in two quarts of water and then two cups of rolled in flour. Tais thickens It sufficient | swered the lovely odalisque with a smile my finger, would wonder what had become | well," says Tourba Pasha. ly and it is poured into the souptureen on that showed a double row of teeth as tiny of it, and perhaps even suspect treachery. But our lord, the Sultan, grants that the mountain, in which was his stronghold. eaten with cream crackers. It certainly is possible, then, that thou lovest me in com- one now left me on whom I can depend for in secret at the first and reveal not our high very nice. I suppose it is not generally place ignorance of who I am? It is the avenging me on my brother Tewfik and all authority until success appears already as feet three. His head was very large. The known that in boiling canhillower, cabbage, Princess Zeeneh, the sister of the Khedive, the others whom I hate." or anything strong smelling, a crust of bread | who condescends to honor thee with her afboiled in the pos will destroy any disagree- fections, and who is ready this very night able odor. How empleasant it is to go into and hour to fly with thee and become thy the same disguise as the Irish dragoon had "We should have got on very well witha parlor and smell the fragrant onion or cab. one and only wife. Elman, the buffoon, hath worn, and guided thither by the same hideous out the firman, and its chief value seems to and happy with my milch cattle at Naypore, bage that has formed part of the dinner, or pro ided the disguises and will accompany old woman, stood before the princess, and me to be in the fact that the Sultan thereby the steam from the scap ands. But the us, and I have sewn up in my dress diamonds when he raised the yashmack he revealed indirectly pledges himself not to oppose us witches are out. I see the glimmer of a Will and other gems that will make thee rich be- the stern face of Arabi Pasha, the war min- in our designs. If the Sublime Porte reo' the Wisp afar off, Perhaps it is a fair youd thy utmost imagination. Come, hap ister, who said, curtly, as his brows con- mains neutral, we must succeed. Have we maiden taking a lantern to pull a straight py man, you may kneel and kiss my hand tracted in a frown, "Your highness sent for not tens of thousands wherewith to oppose maiden saking a santern to put a straight and thank me. Ah, why do you heatate?" me; I am here."

kall stocks; if me that breaks the charm. But and thank me. Ah, why do you heatate?" me; I am here."

the Feringhee's hundreds? Inshallsh! (God "Ahu med, I have summoned you in or- being willing!) in another month we will expense of ghosts, past and present.

Federies Falls Mor tirk tess

Deneman

VOL. XIII.

FENELON FALLS, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, NOV. 21, 1885.

AN EGYPTIAN ROMANCE

Story of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

By the Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPIDER," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," Етс., Етс.

CHAPTER VI.

Traversing several long and dimly lighted a kind of hall was at last reached, and at An ocean steamer lately took out to New its further end were massive curtains of cloth of gold having a heavy bullion fringe, present olover does not seed in that country, and these were partly looped up, whilst on because there are no bumble bees to fertilize each side thereof, like a statue of bronze, the flowers. The importer hopes that the stood an enormous cunuch with a huge flamebumble bees will save him $5,000 a year in colored turban on his head and loosely hanging robes of the same color draping his form,

Court Journal, is going up. Four thousand in his hand he grasped a naked scimitar. Considering that he was perfectly unarmed, and was fully aware that the penalty was death for one of his sex to be found in such a place, Frank Donelly did not feel particularly comfortable at sight of these armed Goliaths; but had they teen iron columns It is doubtful if a legislative body in any they could not (to all outward seeming) have regarded him with greater unconcern and indifference, and a minute later Elman had treating act of the last Legislature of Ne- led him between them into a beautiful aparament on the other side of the curtains, the walls of which were painted with a series of brilliant landscapes in a kind of distemper. It required three men with a large wagon | but in which nothing having life was introto move in lively fashion during the whole duced, for to draw such is a deadly sin acof a day lately to gather up and return to cording to the laws of Mohammed. Thus Hillsdale Gollege, Mich., the 600 chairs and there were boats being rowed upon lakes and benches that had been distributed among rivers, but no one handling the oars, ships the barns and fields in the neighboring sailing the sea to all appearance passengercountry on the preceeding night by the less and crewless, and the interiors of moseres and palaces, but all empty and desert-

Mexican volcano, Popodatepetl, as 17,809 Whilet the Irish dragoon was looking at feet above the sea. The crater, which is these things and also at the piles of cushions completely obscure within by sulphurous the vases and the flowers that formed the vapor, is about 21 miles in circuit and 1,000 sole furniture of this splendid apartment, feet deep. The entire centre of the top of the old buffoon advanced alone into one that the mountain seems to be solld sulphur, lay beyond, but had hardly been gone a minwhich is deposited at the rate of about a ute when she reappeared and beckoned Frank to follow her.

He did so to find himself a second later in small but luxuriously fitted up chamber retired, drew aside her veil and smiled upon

As she did so the young: Irishman recognised the beautiful Egyptian whom he had He was not surprised, for he had guessed terror stricken, wet and exposed to the elements. even as they are tempered and softened in Egypt, the land of the sun.

a low cut vest of crimson velvet, embroiderneck, shoulders and bosom, for her skin was One hundred and five years ago Nicholas For the rest her full Turkish trousers were impossibilities. I may show bad taste in Frank was not slow in making reply : "It is impossible to help loving the beautiful, for Allah has created the beautiful in tendant,) and in quick answer thereto. El- and wherein at the hotter seasons of the year, chemical printing in metallic platinum in order that it should be loved," and having man, the buffoon, re-entered the exquisite on account of its coolness, means are generally its metallic state as a pigmet, but in obtain- spoken this aloud, he muttered to himself ! little apartment. "Now, if she was an Irish or an English girl forming she pictures are imbedded in and but if 'tis the fashion here for the women to entangled among the fibre of the paper on do the love making, I suppose I must sub-has had a sufficient exposure it is floated on every one who is beautiful," she said petua hot aqueous solution containing potassic lantly, as she tore a rose to pieces and scatoxalat and a salt of platioum. This solu- tered the crimson petals in a shower on the tion instantly developes the picture, which floor; "I require you to love only me, and remove the chemical saits adhering to the Here was a nice state of affairs. Frank glanced at the woman who had made so imperious a demand upon his affections, and was bound to own to himself that very few men would find the least difficulty in obeying her, for she was indeed lovely, with the creamy, voluntuous loveliness of the East, but for all that there was something about her suggestive of the beauteons grace of the tiger in repose - a something to shudder at as well as admire. "Madame," said Frank, bluntly, as this little frost grape toat improves by freezing, latter feeling took possession of him, "to as some nat ires improve by the touch of ad. | help loving you is, as you must well know, versity. The night are fresh with the impossible; but to be candid with you, breath of near November, but the middle of love another more, aye, one whom I have

"I cannot believe you, for love grows in fore us that is very pleasant to those could never have risked your life for me. It stands to reason that you would not, for life through the season For we can settle down is dearer than all things, save love alone. princess, happening to be looking on the eges while the rain beats on the roof and me, and knowing also that you would never furld light within easy reach of her hand, suited to the season that it is worth while lower and baser affections, for your courage had bestowed on him who had rescued her and devotion have touched me and made me from the crocodile.

thine and thine only." "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife."

the top of three or four sods crackers, and and regular as two rows of pearls. "Is it Oh, that would never do, for he is the only firms on the sole condition that we work His extreme length, as he lay dead, was ten the laugh is merry, the neares are light and I am unworthy of the honor that you would der that you may teach me how to hate."

| And I will not be been enough to "Can't you pass it again!" limitly suggest. Willow): "My poor Elsie, how ionesome have driven them all into the sea."

| And I will not be been enough to take that I might find in your highness are light and I will not be been enough to take that I might find in your highness the positively refused on the ed his lesser half. "Pass it!" he shouted; you must feel without your husband."

| And I will not be been enough to take that I might find in your highness that I might find in asiati aniscence bited of an investigation and the bounded goodness of heart and generosity of disposition. I am too humble even to be permitted to kiss the hem of your robe or to was thus doing the civilities of speech, Frank was thinking to himself : "Was ever mortal man in such a predicament before? I wish I was well out of it. Catch me ever wanting to get inside of a harem again," and "Humility may be carried too far," exclaimed the princess, in answer to Frank's last volley of excuses. "I am sick of this monotonous prison life of the harem. I pant forever hidden behind stone walls, and guarded by hideous armed eunuchs, whilst others more favored by fortune but not by nature dance before all men with their faces and necks uncovered? Whilst you you must love me. Take me, then, to your enjoy life as the Christian women do. Elfor many hours. Why do you hesitate to and universally perish. grasp the happiness offered to you?" "Because, your highness, I may not," re-ponded the young dragoon, at last driven only that I am unworthy of the honor and the happiness that you proffer me, but also that I am engaged to be married to a fair young girl, one of my own creed and race, than whom I could never love even an empress half so well. As for the saving of your highness' life at the risk of my own, pray think not of it, for I would have ventured as much, I hope, for a drowning beggar."

"You dare tell me this, ungrateful that was most brilliantly lighted, and in the | wretch!" exclaimed the princess, with a sudpresence of a woman who was reclining on a den change of manner, and all the latent tipile of soft cushions, in a pose of voluptuous | ger awakening within her; and as her beaulangour, and who, directly that Elman had | tiful eyes dilated and her magnificent bosom began to rise and fall with the violence of her emotions, she added with a snake-like hiss in her tones :

"She who stands in the way of my happisaved from the crocodile and from drowning | ness and my freedom I have seen thee twice with, have I not? Once in a carriage, when she held thine hand in hers whilst she gazed and almost known that she was his summon. at the opal ring which was my gift; and er, but he was astonished at discovering how | again not half an hour ago beside the ambermuch more lovely a woman looks am det lux. hued fountain, within view of this very winury, splendor, and genial warmth, than when dow, which was in darkness then? You need not answer me with your tongue, for your eyes have done so already, and besides I knew it aforehand. It was the sight of Her dress was gorgeously rich. She wore her liberty that made me sigh for a like freedom. But do you mean to tell me seriously ed all over with gold and having buttons of | that my beauty, my wealth and my exalted solid bullion. It fitted her to perfection rank cannot win you away from such a girl

"Your highness," responded Frank, losing positively fair when the heavy ebon masses so contemptuously spoken of, "you could ground or strayed over it in wanton tresses. lovely, rich and exalted, all of which were have twice seen me with is dearer to me than "So you have not forgotten me! You my own life, and that nothing could make

This way spoken in the purest French, and Then she clapped her hands (still, as for with scarlet bibiscus blossoms, and to the cautiously. I looked. There was the white three thousand years past, the invariable salemlic of big hall thereof, which, accord-Eastern method of summoning a slave or at- ing to custom, is the general reception room, method in which the particles of pigments I'd be inclined to think her a forward hussy, knows not evil from good, and when he is walls were whitewashed and hung here and gone bring hither-you know whom I mean | there with arms and armor, whilst surroundfor at last he seems to suit my taste."

Meanwhile he thought he had made a and directly she perceived that the old hag lis work of wood called moucharabies, the terial. Paper is coated with a mixture of very polite answer, but it seemed to be a understood her clearly she turned again to object of which was that the ladies of the taught me, namely, that I am not invincible. of interest in the hall below.

It has proved a bitter lesson, but it has been thoroughly well learned, I can assure you. both of you one day discover to your cost. spy is long, and to indulge in such rash fol. Egyptian soldier is generally handy with ly, even amongst your most intimate friends, the needle.

would be to jeopardize your life." "Your highness, honor instead of fear will make your secret safe with me," was Frank's haughty reply, and bowing low he chamber and the harem.

Hardly had he gone when Zeeneh, the Knowing your most secret feelings towards ground, beheld something sparkling with a have dared to aspire so high without encour- and stretching one forth, she picked it up his forshead, whilst he is forshead. agement, I have stooped to raise you up, and and discovered it to be the beautiful opal therefore, I now bid you to relinquish all ring which, a couple of weeks before, she

" e was too proud to keep it after what "But I am unworthy, totally unworthy of has just passed between us," she muttered, is well that it is so, for another will be here make the same discovery. "I have no wish that thou shouldst," an presently who, if he did not see his gift upon the enemies of Egypt and its people. like locusts over the land. I am prepared ambition." to hate them.

Half an hour later another man, clad in at once replied :

"It were difficult to do otherwise. They taxes, whilst their presence has so raised "The army is ours to a man," replied starving. Thousands of our Arab and Coptic | cheerful service." sect of Chris.lans, they hate our older sect, over." our foes, crush it here lest it may imperil joined : for freedom, the freedom and enjoyment of from which she can hardly hope for an enof which the starving fellaheen has to pay, of that." and neither of which is in the least requir-

"Yes, yes, I know all that and more," inare the only Feringhee whom I have terrupted the princess impatiently. "Well, known, and as you risked your life for me you once sought my alliance to help set all er equal to an Englishman or a Frenchman." these things straight, and I then refused is own country and marry me, and there let me | because at the time I still loved my brother, | have never known how to be useful to us. Tewfik. To-night you have been brought man has learned that one of the big steamers | thither to be to:d that that time and that | sends us twenty swindlers." goes through the canal this very night and love have passed away. I hate my brother. leaves Port Said with the early dawn. We Why, matters not. Let the fact suffice, as tune in Egypt only to spend it elsewhere. should assuredly catch her if we started also that I hate these Christians in addition. That is not the way to do good to the without further loss of time, and on a festi- I would give my life to see them all, aye, country." val night !lke this we should not be missed all, every one of them, driven into the sea, "Your highness carries her bate too far," answered the war minister, reprovingly. to sheer desperation, "since it happens not they have ruined, with the help of Allah starving peasantry for the special purpose, reasonable prices, and by changing location and the Prophet I should be quite willing to To each new arrival who is armed with a now they will become accustomed to their pearance of the chieftain was so extremely do, and perhaps I am the only man in Egypt letter of introduction, he says, 'Welcome, new quarters, and be in excellent breeding save one who could do it." "And who is the other ?"

"Arabi Pasha, you alone are the chosen | him at his word." of the nation, and all men know it, for you have a heart that feels for the misery and panions laughed approval. degradation of the people, and 'tis not a mean, seifish ambition but an earnest de sire for Egypt's welfare that spurs you to take action." Without me, however, you would be powerless, and you know why." "Because without you our mighty lord and souzerane, the Sultan, would designate the struggle for liberty a military rebellion, and help your brother, the Khedive, to crush

"You have said it, and 'tis no more than the truth. But my beauty can sway the Sultan, for he loves me. And that beauty and that love combined shall obtain you that which alone you require to insure success. Provide me with a secret and trusty messenger to Constantinople, and in a month from now I will hand you the Sultan's authority and the Chief Imaun's blessing for the movement that shall give Egypt to the Egyptian." Is it a bargain?" "In the name of Allah and the Prophet yes," answered the war minister, with fervid zeal, and then a silence of death fell upon the two conspirators.

> CHAPTER VII. THE STIERING UP OF HELL BROTH.

A month has passed away since the evening of the fete at the Ghezireh Palace, and during that month nothing of any importance period, as we shall presently, see. Introduce we the reader to the palace of Ahmed Arabi Pasha, the war minister, a that the tied-up calf could be seen, and The princess deigned no answer to this big, pink nouse, with yellow jalousies and thinking that the shikaree might not have rhapsody save a glance of supreme contempt. | blinds, having a garden in front gorgeous | remembered the spot, I pulled him back taken as well.

"Take him away; the man is a fool and | The floor was of marble, the surrounding ed at different altitudes by balconies or gal This she said in Egyptian to the buffoon, leries, some of which were fronted by a trelharem could peer cut therethrough (whilst

Had any of the ladies been there upon the present occasion they would have beand it will never be forgotten. And now held nothing that would have tempted them go, and take with you the knowledge that to remain, for the salemic was occupied only you have also taught me to hate you and by the master of the house and a couple of your entire race as well, more especially her early morning visitors, who were walking whom you have dared to prefer to me. Be- to and fro with measured strides and conware, both of you, for I am not powerless, versing meanwhile in Turkish instead of though shut up within these barren walls I | their native Arabic, so that not a syllable of may seem to be so. Nay, more, I can be their discourse could be understood by the serpent or vexed scorpion, which you may, boush, who was posted just at the outer | wait. door, or by his companions of the main Go, sir, and I warn you not to prate of your guard who were lounging on a stone beach admission here, for the ear of the Egyptian | close by gossiping whilst knitting, for the

> Ahmed Arabi, the war minister, is the centre figure of the three, and he on the right with the crafty, cruel look in his face, is Toulba Pasha, afterwards nicknamed

All three were clad in dark blue regimental, and all three wear the red farboush on their heads, for no Mohammedan can don a head dress having either peak or brim by reason that five times a day his devotions oblige him to touch the ground or floor with his head during prayer. It is new high time for us to discover his feet as if unscathed, he made for the top one way the bot tom will move in the opwhat these three men are talking about, a tack, which by donning our invisible coats I a forty yards of him. we shall find easier of accomplishment than does the Aga of the eunuchs, who, cancealed so great an honor," stammered Frank. "Be- with a frown; then her face brightened behind the carved moucharable of the lowest sides," he added, solemnly, "It is written: with a strange light as she added; "And it of the three galleries, is trying very hard to the heart. He went straight and at undisured. Thus it loses much of its value."

to hate, and hate deeply, all those who are their creature, the Khedive, as well. We want to secure Egypt for the Egyptians. "You mean the Feringhees who swarm Allah knows that I have no higher or other

A somewhat incredulous smile played about the lips of Toulba Pasha as the war are our rulers while they pretend to be our friends. They send all the wealth out of ed sentiments, but he merely said: "We what we should be better without. They you to be the champion of the downtrodden refuse to be subject to our laws, and living people, and it is the people whom we must amongst us will not pay any share of the now proceed to stir up, for their own good.'

well learned to rob and wrong. Encourag- ours to a man; yet must the populace of, purpose. ing national liberty in Italy because, as one at all events, the largest cities be won man I shall never obtain them. Am I not be contained and which little century to recover. Then, too, their there is at present a great deal of liner. blue limestone, which lit up brilliantly under young and fair? Why, then, should I be the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the hailding of paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the paleon and floate for both Touth Property of the paleon and th > ruples the price of everything to the poor," "Bands of pilliagers are they all. They

> "And the one honest man makes his for-

"Yet our Khedive, who, as you well 'To drive them forth from the country that on the money which he wrings from the business, for good s'ook can be purchased at "He whom his foes call the False Prophet." | the Feringhee yet who has been slow to take | will oftentimes break up their laying, and 11-11-11-11-11-11-11

(TO BE CONTINUED. )

Killing a Man-Eater. Only two creatures are distinctly known as "man-eaters," namely, the shark and the tiger. Chousands of human beings are devoured annually in India by tigers, so that nothing can strike greater consternation into the hearts of the poor defenceless villagers of that great country than the cry of "tiger!" Any one who kills one of these beasts is regarded as a public benefactor; and perhaps among the reasons why the British have gained such a foot-hold in the country, is that Englishmen are so passionately fond of hunting, scores and hundreds of tigers, not to mention other wild animals, falling victims to their prowess every year. An officer in the British army of India gives ence with a man-eater : I waited for daylight with much anxiety, and directly there was sufficient light, got my people up and started for the place where we had tied a calf. Scarcely two hundred yards had been passed when we heard the tiger, which infested that part of the forest, roar loudly.

the following description of his first experi-

My guide, the father of the only remaining family in the village, whispered, "Wuh hai-that he is !" I replied, " If you run, seems to have happened, but as in the case you are a dead man. Keep behind us." the path.

Coming to some rocks from which I knew calf, apparently dead. Mangkalee remarked as much in a whisper. The younger shikaree, Nursoo, was behind me on the left. We all gazed at a tail. The distance was some sixty yards from us, but we could not make out the tiger.

twenty yards nearer the tiger.

forty paces between us.

egg for a thousand pounds. I knew that I hit the spot aimed at, but, which to support the lengths. What shall to my astonishment, the tiger sprang up I anchor it with was the next question several feet in the air with a room rolled An Iron rod can be driven easily; being of er ground than I was, -when, bounding to If I use a large, stiff rod when I draw the spreading to the equator until the habitmountains, the last rock of which was with posite direction. That will not do ; the rod

Immediately the tiger sprang to his feet fence, then the lower end of the rod will not and expensed his broad side to me, I stepped move, hence the post when drawn over will from behind the tree and shot him through again resume its up ight position, minished speed, each bound covering fifteen "You have the Sultan's firman and all is feet at least, for twenty five yards, and then fell on his head under the lowest rock of feet eight inches; his tail was only three though much scratched and with sundry is dangerously well again. holes in his neck, was alive, and is now well

Handy Hester, a colored citizen of Jas-

THE FARM.

labor sixteen hours out of the twenty-four, especially when it happens to be two years better condition on meager quantities of was large enough to admit a man crawling and yet can barely save themselves from in arrears, is a very low bid for loyalty and coarse food with cleanliness, than if fed on on his hands and knees, was badly choked the best and most nourishing food if en- up with rubbish and large bowlders. It was stand in your presence, wherefore I beseech | clerks, too, are discharged to make way for | "And for such troops the prospect of pil- tembed in filthy quarters. Clean the house | the entrance to a cave, and the men decided you to allow me to retire." And whilst he their Syrian interpreters, and that because laging the banks, magazines, warehouses often and scatter plenty of dry earth and to explore it. Climbing to the entrance, they don't take the trouble to make them- and shops of the Frankish swine would fresh sand around the house and under the they rolled away the loose rocks and logs, selves acquainted with the language of prove a temptation that they could hardly roosts. Clean dirt surely is cheep, but be- and soon got rid of enough of the debris to the people whom they have so thoroughly lesist. Yes, I myself imagine that they are comes quite valuable when applied for this enable them to enter a winding narrow pas-

any means, as some persons seem to think. the English, who are the most powerful of | So spoke Suleiman Bey; and Arabi re- for the fowls appreciate kindness and care very quick in returning favors in the shape their dividends, derived though they are from a scheme that has cost Egypt thou- them one with us we have but to tell the the more varied the food, the better will be directions, suddenly emerged into a large sands of lives and loaded her with a debt simple truth. It wants no coloring what the results, and the more profitable they apartment of perhaps twenty or thirty-five will be to their owner.

> Toulba Pasha. "The very children are aware | The smallest specimens are considered the | As the men were on the point of leaving best, being the hardest to obtain. The the cave some curious stucco work in one "By Allah, European commerce quad- practice fellowed by most breeders seems end of the apartment attracted their attenvery cruel, to say the least. They do not tion. It had been formed of flat oblong cohoed Suleiman Bey, "Aye, and it doubles set the hens until very late in the season, so stones, laid with such nicety as to form a their labors as well. There is no slave driv- that the chicks will only be partly grown when perfect wall. A careful examination of the the cold weather comes. This will serve work led them at once to believe that it had to stunt their growth more or less, and this been done by the hand of man. Forrester, is just what the breeders want to accom- who carried a light axe, went to work with "Because for every honest man Europe plish. Besides this, they are oftentimes a will on the wall. After a quarter of an very scantily fed for the same reason, it being very desirable to have them as small as gave way, falling into the interior and clearpossible. They make beautiful little pets, | ing an aperture perhaps two feet in diameand a e much more profitable than most of ter. A torch thrust through the newly-op-

> The time for selling chicks is now at hand know, should be the father of his people, is | They are now of a large size and the bes never so happy as when surrounded by these | breeders can be easily picked out. Now is blood suckers, and feteing and feasting them | really the time to start into the poultry the riches of Egypt are yours,' and by Allah | condition in the spring. If they are bought and the Prophet, I have never looked upon in the spring at breeding time, the change will take considerable to recover and get in time is so valuable in breeding season, it is flint arrow heads, together with a knife and This from the war minister, and his com- good breeding condition again. And, as sometimes quite a serious loss.

> > reader should look over the past season, and see wherein he has made mistakes, and try to improve the next season. Experience teaches that the best way to ship eggs is in baskets, and never in boxes. There is always more or less complaint about eggs baing received in had order; and anything that can be done to avert this should be gether and started to leave the cave. carefully attended to by the reader. The trouble with shipping in boxes is, that they are handled too rough; but the instant an expressman sees a basket with cloth cover sewed on, he knows immediately what it contains, and handles It accordingly. When shipped in a box, the chances are that they will be handled as ordinary freight, no matter how many special warnings may be writton or pasted on the box, for the expressman dose not take time to read them; the natural consequence is that they get well shak-about the "best kind of fowls" and which as there is no one variety best for all purdesirous of obtaining.

Perhaps no better treatize upon fences can be given than a farmer's reason for seek. use. Every year upon my farm I usually will give them an abundant choice of theo-At length the end of the tall moved. divided one or more grass fields, so as to Nursoo, making a similar motion with his mow one portion, and pasture the other, or diminishing, elevated regions are being lowfore finger, whispered in my ear, "Doom- to keep different kinds of stock by themhilta-hai" (The tail's moving). I now made selves, which I consider desirable, espeout the body of the animal clear enough. cially in the case of milch cows and sheep. I by and by will all be submerged, and the Not a blade of grass nor a leaf was between found it a great job to move the necestary last man will starve to death. us. A single forest tree, without a branch amount of rail fence to accomplish the de-"I thank you for the lesson you have remaining themse'ves unseen) upon an object on it for thirty feet from the ground, was sired purpose, and when built such tempo rary fences were blown down in places by South Pole, the consequence of which in It was very probable that he would see every heavy wind that came; stock, espeus, but it must be risked; so pressing down | cially horses, were constantly knocking it my shikaree, Mangkalee, with my hand be- down, colts, finding it one of the finest of will be an awful catastrophe, a flood like hind me, and keeping the trunk of the tree pastimes to ree how many rails they could unto the Noahic. The last man will be between the foe and me, while I said with knock down in a day, till there was no rest drowned. in myself, "If I get behind that tree with- for the weary old farmer from rebuilding; and is a seeing me, you're a dead tiger." hence he thought, in his weariness, cannot lision with some comet; when such collision out your seeing me, you're a dead tiger," hence he thought, in his weariness, cannot I passed rapidly forward. So intent was this be changed? Cannot some device be occurs there will be a mingling of air and the huge beast upon the poor calf, that it made that can be moved with ease, that will cometary gass, causing an explosion. The did not hear me. I placed the barrels of not blow down, that colts will let alone, that last man will be blown up. dangerous, aye, dangerous as the trod on sentry in a dirty linen uniform and red tar- my rifle against the tree, but was obliged to is a good sheep and hog fence? Such a fence must be high as possible, therefore let us The tiger and the calf lay contiguous, use all the wire we can, form a bridge to keep in the planets and the earth; the law of tails on end to us. The calf's neck was in it tight, put the wire at the top so that the gravitation will draw them all nearer to the the tiger's mouth, whose large paws embrac- wind will not blow it down or cattle press sun as they decrease in speed, till finally ed his victim. I looked, waiting for some it over, with boards at the bottom to form they will fall into the sun. The last man, change in the position of the body, to allow the bridge, also to make a fence against of course, will be sunstruck. me to aim at a vital part. There were some sheep and hogs. It must be made in lengths so that it can be moved apart at any time (14 slowly diminishing, and in consequence of At length the calf gave a struggle, and feet proves the best length;) we want it this the air is losing in quantity and quality kicked the tiger, on which the latter clasp: straight, to let us couple it together end Finally, the earth will become an arid ed him nearer, arching his own body, and to end. The couplers must allow the fence waste, like the moon. The last man will be and followed Elman, the buffoon, out of the ion is Suleiman Bey, who is fierce looking as exposing the white of his belly and chest. to fellow the uneven surface of the ground; suffocated. the white and firing for his heart, -he was hill, the lower through a hollow, hence it er or later ours must blaze up and vanish, on his left side, - as if I was firing at an will leave no hog heles under the fence. This coupler makes the test point from > Business is steadily getting better, but there are six weary months coming for the husbands whose wives have naturally cold up into pieces. The last man will fall into must be as light as soay be and support the Count Von Moltke is in very poor health. points of all his large fangs were consider. He will not live till winter, it is said. Bis-

> Little Johnny, on being asked by his school teacher if he knew what was meant by "at pary" replied that "Ma was always at pe when he came home late."

the last of darkness and distress, '] "It bests all creation," muttered old per, Ga., purchased a bedstead from a lady Mullethead, "what pains swindlers will of his color last March for twenty cents. He take to beat honest men. Here, someone paid fifteen cents on the bedstead in two has saddled a lead 10 cent piece off on me." advantage of your condescension and an too apt a pupil, yet fain would I teach you "We simply desire to be rid of them and have to put it in the contribution box." one consolation. I know where he is nights!"

NO. 40.

his horror, crouched on a dead bough, the huge cat-like head and brown body of a The Poultry Yard. panther. Fearing that it meditated an at-The fall work in the poultry yard does tack, he drew a large revolver, which he not amount to much, but it is very import. emptied at the brute. At the first shot the ant that what little work there is to be done panther gave a frightful yell, and, springshould be done properly, and at the right ing from tree to tree, speedily disappeared. the country and bring nothing into it but have no doubt of it, Excellency. We know time. First is the little things about the Eggleston, who heard the shots fired by care and management of poultry, which, if Forrester, followed by the yell of the pantended to properly, keep the fowls in such ther, hurried to his friend's assistance. One of the huntsmen, while glancing up the side good condition and thrift. Above all things do not neglect cleanli. of the rocks, noticed a crevice about twenty the price of everything that our poorer classes Arabi. "The pay of a single plastre a day, ness; for fowls will keep healthier and in feet above his head. The aperture, which

Care bestowed upon poultry is not lost by Owing to the intense darkness they were

Experience is a valuable teacher. The broad blade several inches in width, with an en up before they reach their destination. aperture for the insertion of a handle. There is a great deal of talk and writing The weapons are well finished, and appear breed brings the best returns. This is most to have been hammered out of some malleof it guess work more than anything else, able metal, according to the opinion of Mr. Frank Henslow, a Washington chemist, to poses. They nearly all have their special whom the weapons were shown. He made points of excellence, and breeders should first only a brief examination of the altoy, but determine qualities he wants best developed | thought it must be impure copper ore, securin his fowls, and select accordingly. He ed probably by the aborigines in trade from should fully decide whether he wants eggs the tribe who once occupied the region of the alone, or a good market variety, or simply great lakes. The gentlemen will ship their an ornamental variety that makes a nice treasures, including the stone bearing the aprearance on the lawn. No matter what strange inscriptions, to the Smithsonian Inquality is desired, it can easily be found, as stitution, together with brief details of the we have so many varieties of fancy fowls, discovery. The skin of the panther is being that it is but a simple matter to get the right prepared for stuffing by the lucky gentleman bird if the breeder knows just what he is who killed him.

How Will the World End?

To those who are constantly worrying as to the manner in which the world will probably come to an end, the following ten ing a different fence that those already in theories, propounded by (an English writer, ries upon which to pin their faith > ered, and the seas are filling up. The land 2. The ice is gradually accumulating at the North Pole and melting away at the due time will be that the earth will change its centre of gravity suddenly; then there

4. There is a retarding medium in space. which is causing a gradual loss of velocity

5. The amount of water on the earth is

6. Other suns have disappeared and soon The intense conflagration will, of course kill every living thing (Salamanders and all). The last man will be burnt up. 7. The sun's heat is gradually decreasing and the temperature cooling. The cold will increase by the glacial zones enlarging and able space will be a mere nothing. The last man will be frozen to death. 8. The gradually cooling of the earth will produce enormous fissures, like those in the moon. The surface will become unstable, roing the inhabitants to betake themselves caves. The last man will be crushed to ath and buried at the same time. 9. The centrifugal force is increasing, nd in time the centripetal force will fail to hold the earth together, hence it will break space, 10. Evolutionary retrogression. This means that the unfolding law of evolution This from Arabi, to whom Suleiman Bey ably broken; this had saved the calf, who, marck, who was dangerously ill last summer, will, in due time, become an infolding one. will begin to infold back. The last man go back to a monkey, the monkey to something else, and so on [till everything reaches the vanishing point and nothing remains. "The first dark day of nothingness Sympathetic friend (to recently bereaved payments, and recently asked permission to "Can't you pass it again !" timidly suggest- widow): "My poor Elsie, how lonesome