The Water-Street Litigation.

Amongst the chancery court proceedings published in last Thursday's Globe we find the following:

RE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.—Fenelon Falls and R. C. Smith's appeals. The Chancellor being of opinion that neither the corporation of Fenelon Falls nor R. C. Smith was entitled to compensation for the expropriation of Water-street, inasmuch as he considered the soil and freeness of the street in question was vested in Her Majesty, and that therefore the Attorney-General of Ontario was necessary party to the proceedings, he therefore directed that to be added as a party, and gave the parties leave to re-argue the matter on his being brought before the Court.

There is some discussion going on in the village as to what the above may mean, and the most sanguine, who construe it into a victory for the corporation over Mr. Smith, have visions of a speedy payment into the municipal treasury, of the $3,000 compensation for Water street. To us—though we confess that our opinion on complicated legal questions isn't worth much—it appears to mean more delay, more litigation and more costs; and all we feel at all certain of is, that the lawyers will make a good thing of it no matter who wins or loses.

North Victoria Voters' List.

We have received the following from Adam Hudspeth, Q. C., of Lindsay, Revising Officer for the North Riding of the County of Victoria:

To the Editor of the Gazette.

Sir:—At the meeting of the Revising Officers held recently at Toronto the following resolutions were passed:

"That in the organized districts no name shall be added to the preliminary list which does not appear on the last revised Assessment Roll, or last revised List of Voters, unless an application is made in writing by the person desiring to be added, or by some one in his behalf, disclosing grounds which would prima facie entitle him to be put on the preliminary voter's list, and the said application be filed with the Revising Officer."

"That the Revising Officer, in receiving the application mentioned in the next preceding resolution, shall act only upon the same when it is supported by a statutory declaration, or such other evidence as may reasonably satisfy the mind of such returning officer."

I intend to adopt these resolutions in the preparation of my list of voters for the North Riding of the County of Victoria, and any person desiring to have his name placed upon the roll will require to send me at Lindsay or to my clerk, Mr. G. A. Jordan, at Fenelon Falls, the necessary declaration before the tenth of February next. My office as revising officer will be in Jordan's block, Fenelon Falls, where Mr. G. A. Jordan will be to receive such application or to give any information that parties may require.

Yours truly,

ADAM HUDSPETH, Revising Officer.

W. G. T. U. (Communicated.)

Early last week we were startled to hear that a fellow being had been found frozen to death almost within the precincts of our village; that he was in a state of helpless intoxication when leaving for home, and in consequence, fell upon the road, and became so chilled and frozen that death ensued; and the man who, a few hours before, entered our village walking firmly and erectly and in his right mind, was a piece of lifeless clay, and a pitiful illustration of man's inhumanity to man. We expected that there would be an inquest, and that those who sold him the poison that deprived him of reason and strength, and rendered him incapable of guiding his tottering footsteps, would be required to give an account of themselves, and be made to feel that they were directly instrumental in causing his death. Nothing of the kind! No notice is taken! If he were a dog the occurrence could scarcely be passed over more lightly. One account, sent to the Press, says he had too much "hot Scotch," and in our own local paper, in a still milder form, we are told that the doctor in attendance said his death was occasioned by his being insufficiently clad. So is passed over an occurrence which we foolishly imagined would arouse a feeling of the most intense kind, and that every lover of rights and honor of wrong, every friend of humanity, of temperance, and of social well-being, would come to the front and do what they could in this matter. We are miserably disappointed, and feel at a loss to account for this strange apathy; unless, (and the unwelcome conviction forces itself upon us,) that the late victory gained by those interested in the defarious trade has had the effect of intimidating the friends of temperance, and of stamping out the temperance sentiment as effectually as the life was stamped out of the subject of this article. This melancholy affair brings to the memory of the writer a case in which there are some striking points of resemblance. Some years ago a family who resided in a small cottage on the bank of one of our lakes had retired to rest, when they were awakened by the entrance of a gang of roustes, who were half drunk and quarrelsome, and one of whom seized a stick of stove-wood to strike the husband and father. His wife rushed between to save her husband, and received the blow on her head. Stunned and bewildered, she ran out into the damp night air, and remained out all night. The blow and subsequent exposure caused her death. There was an inquest, and the doctor's evidence went to show that she died from exposure while insufficiently clad, and the jury gave their verdict in accordance with this evidence, which was quite true as far as it went. But did it meet the case? Was this man not as guilty of her death as though she had fallen dead at his feet? Yet he went unpunished, and it was supposed that the law-abiding community were frightened into trembling silence by the loud oaths and big boots of the roustes; which, if true, was simply disgraceful cowardice. Yet we do not think it would be fair, in this case, to charge our friends with cowardice; that would probably be doing injustice. It is more probable that familiarity with these things has rendered them callous, and this story, pitiful enough to make angels weep, produced no effect. All must admit that had the man been able to guide himself he would have walked home as safely as he came into the village, and also that drink was the cause of his lying on the road in the helpless condition described, and very probably the cause of his being insufficiently clad. Had the much abused Scott Act been in force this could not have happened. The man would doubtless be living a sober and useful life with his now orphaned children, and those who sold him the abominable poison would have some better occupation, which would benefit themselves and others, and upon which they could ask God's blessing. Once more, we beseech all good men and women to make a united effort to remove this curse, which seems to be killing everything that is good among us.

Skating Carnival.

The first skating carnival of the season in this village was held in Mr. Finn's rink last Wednesday evening according to announcement, and was well attended, although the evening was so stormy that no doubt many were prevented from attending. The rink was handsomely decorated with flags and evergreens, and lighted with Chinese lanterns. There was quite a number of spectators, and as all paid for admission the carnival was a success pecuniarily as well as otherwise. The following is as correct a list as we have been able to obtain of the maskers and the characters they represented: Miss Willie Green, Red Riding Hood. "Agnes Molyneux, Sister of Charity. "Annie Molyneux, Strawberry Girl. "May Greene, Red, White & Blue. Mr. G. S. Glover, North Star Roller Mills. "T. Beleh, Page from the Green Isle. "John Pritchard, "Grip." "J. Hayes, Clown. "Watson, Spaniard. "J. R. Hand, Pretty Poll. "A. Bottum, Prince. "W. Tripp, Negro. "B. H. Wilds, Parnell. "J. McFadden, Scotch Carter. Master D. Clark, Jockey. "Harry Ingram, Clown. "George Cunningham, Lacrosse Player. "C. Burzyne, Lacrosse Player. "W. Ingram, Indian Boy. "E. Tripp, Darkey. "F. McFadden, Old Woman. "C. McFadden, Hey-diddle do.

FENELON COUNCIL.—The first meeting of the Fenelon council for 1886 was held on Monday last, and the clerk has sent us the proceedings; but as they are rather lengthy, and did not arrive until Thursday evening, they cannot appear in this week's Gazette.

Over-Coats from $4 50 up at Fairweather's Cheap Store. QUADRILLE CLUB.—As amusements are very scarce in Fenelon Falls during the winter months, a Quadrille Club has recently been formed and held its first meeting last Thursday evening. There was a good attendance, and so pleasant a time was spent that similar meetings will be held occasionally during the season.

Ladies' Mantles, Coats and Dolmans for half price at Fairweather's Cheap Store. PERSONALS.—Mr. John Swanton and Mr. Didace Grise, both old and well known residents of the Falls, came to the village on a visit last week, and the first named is still here and will probably remain for some time, as it is five years since he left, and he has numerous relatives in this vicinity. Mr. Grise, who came on business, only stayed two days and then returned to Midland, where he has lived for some considerable time, and is, we are glad to hear, doing well.

A full line of New Readers and all kinds of School Supplies now in stock at the Drug Store. HEAPS OF SNOW.—In our last issue we bewailed the want of snow, but now there is more than enough, and heaps of it have been piled up against the fences by the wind. So much fell during Sunday and the following night that we thought Monday's train would be delayed, but she got in on time, though out north there was nearly a foot of snow on the track. Since then more or less has fallen almost every day, and on Thursday morning the train was out an hour late. In the afternoon the wind went down and the sky partially cleared, but to-day (Friday) there are indications of more snow.

Don't forget! If you need a new School Book, or any other thing for school, you can get it at the Drug Store. THE TANNERY.—The Fenelon Falls tannery has changed hands, Messrs. Joseph McArthur and Wm. Webster having bought it of Mr. Wm. Fielding for the sum of $800, and are said to have got a good bargain. The new proprietors took possession on Wednesday last, and will buy the stock of leather &c. owned by Mr. McKone, the present tenant, as soon as it has been valued by a competent person. A first-class tanner is to be at once engaged and placed in charge; and, backed up by plenty of capital, he will no doubt soon make the business more prosperous and profitable than it has ever yet been.

SALVATION ARMY.—The Salvationists of Fenelon Falls had what they called "a regular go up and come down time"—whatever that is—last Tuesday night, led by Staff-Capt. Eddie and his wife, and reinforced by officers and soldiers from Lindsay. They mustered at 7:30, and headed by the Lindsay brass band, paraded the principal streets of the village, and then returned to Ingram's hall, where religious exercises were engaged in until about 10 o'clock. Capt. Eddie, whose headquarters are at Kingston, spends a good deal of his time in visiting outlying posts of the army, and being apparently very popular, is entertained wherever he goes with what may be called spiritual festivities.

FAST SKATING.—Two or three weeks ago the Independent told how a couple of young fellows had skated all the way from Boboayzeon to Lindsay, a distance of 22 miles, in one hour and thirty-five minutes, and seemed to think that it was quite a feat. Well, it was pretty good for 'Caygeonites,' but we have boys here at the Falls who can beat it "as easy as wink." A day or two before Christmas there of them—namely, Walter Hunter, Albert Power and Joseph Littleton—took the ice at Greene & Ellis's wharf and skated to Lindsay in less than fifty minutes by the watch which one of them carried. They took no short cuts through the drowned land, but followed the channel of the river, and if the distance is, as it is said to be, fully seventeen miles, they averaged a mile every three minutes. Later in the day they skated home again, and made the return trip in just one hour.

Two Chicago men each pay $10,000 a year for their church pews. Prince Leopold of Prussia has made an offer of marriage to the Princess Victoria of Wales. A story comes from California that a navigable river was blown dry during a windstorm. A San Antonio, Texas, despatch, says that the Apaches are still unchecked in their career of murder.

The Northwest Indians.

THE REPORTS OF THEIR DISAFFECTION SAID TO BE EXAGGERATED.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—The department of Indian affairs here deny that there is any foundation for the sensational stories which have been put in circulation regarding an uprising of the Indians in the Northwest territories. The deputy superintendent general of Indian affairs states that the latest advices received from the Indian agents show that the disaffection among the Indians has been greatly exaggerated, and is confined to a few of those who are always grumbling. The government at present anticipates no further trouble, although every precaution is being taken to prevent any depredations being committed on the ranches, which a few of the disaffected Indians have shown a disposition to raid.

Home Rule.

THE ALL ABSORBING TOPIC IN BRITISH POLITICS TO-DAY.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Times recognizes that the Irish question must receive the attention of the new Parliament. In a spirited leading article it urges the necessity of the Conservative party at once facing the issue. It says the Conservatives cannot shirk or postpone their action. If they attempt to remain in office without making a vigorous effort to grapple with the Irish difficulty, it will result in their prompt and unequivocal condemnation. Universal scorn will be their portion if they give their opponents a chance to overthrow them without staking their existence on a bold defence of the union. Such a course would be worse than a blunder. It would be a crime. The Government would not hesitate to challenge the verdict of the House of Commons. On the question of home rule, it cannot be doubted that they would obtain an immense majority in favor of maintaining the integrity of the Empire.

Suffering in Ireland.

WHILE THE POLITICIANS ARE QUARRELLING A FAMINE THREATENS THE LAND.

DUBLIN, Jan. 15.—The Earl of Carnarvon, lord-lieutenant of Ireland, declares that parliament will not help to relieve the dreadful distress prevailing among the inhabitants of Achill and Eagleshead on the west coast of Ireland. Lord Carnarvon adds that his sole reliance for affording relief to the starving people is the limited means at his disposal of sending unfortunates to the workhouse. He, however, hopes that private contributions for the relief of the sufferers will enable the poor people to remain in their homes instead of being compelled to seek shelter in already much over-crowded workhouses.

LONDON, Jan. 15th.—An Irish high sheriff has written to the Times that pending the discussion of politics by parliament a famine is approaching Ireland, and with it will come acts of lawlessness and violence, and says that men are determined not to starve and will seize the necessities of life, even at the risk of doing bodily harm to others.

The "Frozen" United States.

Our Yankee cousins are fond of alluding to this country as "Frozen Canada," but the record appended below discounts the cold dip's performance in this country.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 19th.—A report has reached here from Benkelman, Neb., that two settlers named Fober and Burns, who left there a week ago on a hunting trip, were found frozen to death eight miles from that town. They attempted to return home after the blizzard came up, but were lost in the blind snow. Fober had stuck the muzzle of his gun in the ground and laid down near it and died. Burns got 200 yards further on before he was overcome. Both were under large drifts of snow. A teamster and herder were found frozen near the same place yesterday. Colorado reports several persons frozen in the same storm. They are supposed to have been homesteaders living long distances apart who settled on land last fall, and were wholly unprepared for severe weather. Never in the history of the west have so many persons perished from cold as during this storm.

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 18th.—Reports have been received of the finding of the bodies of three men in a southwestern portion of the State, victims of the recent storm. This makes 24 bodies in all that have been found. CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 16.—Emily Barmore, a respectable colored woman, and two children have been found frozen to death in the township of Broadway. (Charleston is about 800 miles south of Peterborough.)

PITTSBURG, Va., Jan. 10th.—Henry Jones, Thomas Johnston and Richard Brown, living in Dinwiddie township, attended a dance on Thursday night. While returning home they became benumbed with the cold and sought shelter in a stable. They were found there frozen to death.

The Useless Senate.

The weakness of the attempts which the Tory press inadvisedly make from time to time to defend the present condition of the senate are the strongest proof that it is indefensible. The Free Press, wishing to convert Mr. Blake's assertion that the system is a vicious one and should be changed, can think of no better argument than that Hon. George Brown, eighteen years ago, was in favor of the nomination system. Mr. Brown was an able man in some respects, but he had not the advantage of the practical experience of the working of the system, especially during these later years. Could he have foreseen the class of men who would be pitchedforked into the upper house by Sir John, and realized that it would become a byword and disgrace, on account of its imbecility and general worthlessness, he would never have lent himself to the advocacy of the nomination system. But suppose he had. George Brown was not in his lifetime held in such high honor by the Tories that they have now the right to urge his preferences as a bar to the improvement of any of our institutions. We have a right to re-mould our political affairs in accordance with the needs of the country to-day, even though the opinions of every departed statesman, from the time of the Family Compact down, could be quoted against the change. It is high time we learned the fact that the opinions of men once influential, who have passed away, are not in any respect as valuable on such subjects as those of ordinary intelligent living observers, who can take note of existing conditions.—Toronto News.

Killing a Cougar with a Jack-knife.

The Roseburg (Oregon) Plaindealer says:—While out prospecting in the lonely regions of the Cow Creek hills, C. H. L. Shaeffer, of this place, met with an adventure worthy of mention. While he was following a path which leads down the brushy canyon, he suddenly found himself face to face with a very large cougar. This gentleman has had the pleasure of hunting the polar bear in the land of ice and snow, he has hunted the grizzly of the Rockies, and therefore he could not be bluffed by any savage cougar. The cougar took to a tree, and Shaeffer said it should die. Without a gun, without any companion but a friendly dog, without any weapon but an average-sized pocket-knife and a pole, this hero of a hundred contests with beasts climbed the large fir-tree, and after a desperate struggle succeeded in killing the cougar. Old pioneers here say it is the largest cougar ever killed in the Cow Creek mountains. The wounds which Mr. S. received were very slight.

A Narrow Escape.

A householder, on Saturday evening, after the family had retired early and were sound asleep, reluctantly recognized the necessity of replenishing the coal stove. The drafts had been closed before, and he removed the top cover of the stove to have things handy for dumping his coal. Passing through the kitchen with his lamp and scuttle, he saw that day's Mail lying on the table and paused to glance at it. Something caught his eye and he set down his scuttle and began to read. He became more interested, and at length sat down himself and became absorbed in the columns before him. He read for a long time till the increasing coldness of the room reminded him of his errand. When he re-entered the room he noticed a strong odour of gas, and hurriedly emptied his coal hod and filled the stove for the night. On going up-stairs he noticed his wife in a peculiar position on the bed—breathing heavily—in fact in a state of suspended animation. But the inhalation of the gas had not come so far but that a few dashes of water from the water jug served to restore her to consciousness. After an explanation of the circumstances had been made, the lady was in a state, not of suspended, but of extended animation. She gave her absent-minded husband so many and forcible "pieces of her mind" that he formed on the spot a very high opinion of the vigour of her intellect as a whole. He said nothing—had nothing to say—and sunk silently into bed, remorsefully reflecting that another column of the Mail would have finished his wife. This incident, in spite of the humour of the situation, is a warning that care must be exercised in the management of coal stoves.—Peterborough Examiner.
