An Active Member.

Mr. John A. Barron, M. P. for North Victoria, is one of the most active members of the House of Commons, and his name is perpetually popping up in the parliamentary proceedings. He is always attempting something for the benefit of his constituents, and a few days ago was taking the Government to task for neglecting to remove the bar to navigation at the head of Fenelon River, where there is a ledge of rock over which the water is never deep enough to float anything but small craft, and the existence of which renders the locks almost useless. The Government, if left to itself, is not at all likely to take action in the matter, but Mr. Barron's urgency for the removal of the obstruction will, it is to be hoped, have the desired effect.

About Third Parties.

There is a good deal being said just now about forming a "third party" in Canadian politics, and only the other day we saw a circular containing a very attractive platform, and soliciting the signatures of persons dissatisfied with the existing state of things. Our ideas regarding third parties are exactly those of the London Advertiser, which, under the above heading, says:—

New brooms sweep clean, and Third parties promise fair. They are honest, zealous, patriotic. All the rest of the world is out of joint, but they were born to set it right, and they are going to set it right. Other men are influenced by considerations of office and its emoluments, but their motto is:—Fear God, honor the King and take place and power as an accident. They are known of all men, and their praises are in all the Churches. They are gold twenty-four carats fine. Such are all Third parties, as the world has known them in all ages. But somehow—it may be fate, or it may be human nature—they have always in the long run proved to be veritable sons of our common Father Adam. We have seen illustrated in them the old, old story of temptation and a fall. The temptation may have been a fat office, or a Cabinet portfolio, blind shares in a railway, or a seat on the ground floor of a colonisation company, or something of that sort, and down they have gone with as little ceremony as Father Adam himself. It may not always be so, we admit. The world is growing better, and the time is coming, we hope, when Third parties will remain true and steadfast to their professions. But the world is moving slowly along the better line, and we fear a few more leaders must rise and fall before the political millennium comes.

Personals.

Mrs. Carley Read, of Gelert, was at the Falls last Friday, accompanied by one of her little boys.

Miss Kate Morgan returned on Tuesday from Toronto, where she has spent the past two or three weeks.

Miss Johanna Sullivan was home for the Easter holidays, which teachers as well as pupils think are shorter than they ought to be.

Mr. John Short, License Inspector, is on a professional tour through his division. He was here on Thursday morning, and left for Bobcaygeon.

Mr. Frank Kerr, postmaster, is laid up with a lame foot, and during the past week was only once able to get down town, and that with extreme difficulty.

CRIBS.—Boyd & Co.'s cribs, with dining-room, bed-room, kitchen and stable thereon, are in the river below the falls. They will be taken through the locks and across Cameron lake to the mouth of Burnt river, there to await the arrival of the drives of logs now on their way from the north.

A BARGAIN.—Mr. John Shane has purchased Mr. Stafford's neat little house and half-acre lot on Lindsay st. At the price paid, $550, the property was a decided bargain.

LADIES. see McDougall's Imported German Coats, something new.

S. A. BARRACKS.—The Salvationists of this village, having become tired of "hiring a hall," intend to erect barracks at an early date, and have already purchased a quarter-acre lot on Francis street east.

CORSETS.—The latest thing in Corsets—the Watch Spring Corset—At H. McDougall's.

ADJOURNED.—Owing to the unusual number of cases on the docket at the Division Court last Tuesday, about half of them were adjourned until Wednesday, the 8th day of May, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Corsets at 25c. worth 40c. At H. McDougall's.
Corsets at 40c. worth 65c.
Corsets at 75c. worth $1.

ANOTHER AWNING.—Mr. W. E. Ellis has just received a handsome awning from Mr. Turner of Peterborough, and expects to have it up to day. It is of a handsome pattern, and will compare favourably with any on the street.

25 NEW PATTERNS of Canada Tweeds, beautiful goods, your choice for $14 a suit, made to order—worth $18.

THE CROPS.—The heavy rains on Good Friday and Wednesday last did an immensity of good, and we are glad to hear from our farming friends that the crops, as a whole, are beginning to assume a very promising appearance.

TREES.—Mr. E. R. Edwards, of this village, is agent for Brown Bros. and Chase Bros., of Rochester, and has just delivered a fine lot of fruit and ornamental trees from their nurseries. He tells us that they give great satisfaction to purchasers, as comparatively few of them fail to grow.

NAVIGATION OPEN.—The first steamer to make her appearance at Fenelon Falls this season was the Dominion. On Tuesday forenoon she brought Judge Dean and a number of legal luminaries from Lindsay to the Division Court here; and on Thursday evening she came with two scow loads of bricks for the Messrs. McArthur and Mr. Heard.

THE 24TH OF MAY.—The Fenelon Falls Agricultural and Driving Park Association, the brethren of L. O. L. No. 996; and the members of Maple Leaf Lodge of True Blues, have formed a "combine" to celebrate the Queen's birthday. There are to be trotting races and athletic sports in the park, enlivened by music by the Orange band, and a fife and drum band from Lindsay is expected. In the evening a concert will be given in one of the village halls. Posters containing full particulars will be issued in a few days.

On the 17 inst. a young man named James Vanatto met with a horrible accident at the village of Kendall a few miles from Bowmanville. He was looking at Jackson's saw mill and fell on a circular saw making sixty revolutions a minute, which cut him through the heart in an instant, one arm being sawn off and thrown out of the mill altogether. He was about nineteen years old, steady and industrious. His parents and friends have the sympathy of the neighborhood.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A Reply to "Querist."

To the Editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette.

Sir,—In your issue of last week was published a letter over the signature of "Querist," touching Mr. John R. Clarke and the Methodist Church in this place, which demands a word or two of reference. Judging from the language employed, and the general spirit of the article, the writer is evidently no friend to the Methodist Church, and it is just as clear, that he is not anxious to hear Mr. Clarke again as he is to send forth to the public a statement that would seriously reflect upon our honor as a Church. So long a time has passed away since Mr. Clarke was here, that the writer has either intentionally or otherwise forgotten the true facts of the case. In reply, I wish to say in the first place that Mr. Clarke, on the occasion of his last visit, "was accorded no ovation on his arrival at the station." He was met by myself alone. No other person was present; no committee of any kind was there to receive him; no one rode over in the carriage with him but myself. On the way from the station we (Mr. Clarke and myself) were met by the band, who had been kindly invited, out of respect for Mr. C., to do so and to escort him to the parsonage. In the next place, to say that "the march through the village was not excelled, nay, scarcely equalled, by that of either the Roman Catholic Bishop or Pastor Chiniquy," is a most deliberate falsehood. How one conveyance, with two men in it, headed by a few members of the band and followed by a few little school boys, appeared so imposing a sight to the eye of "Querist" can be accounted for only by the supposition that his eyes must have deceived him. Nor was it intended as a "master stroke" in the advertising line, as is contemptuously insinuated in the article. Mr. C. had been here before, and had been previously introduced to the people of Fenelon Falls, and was too well known as a public lecturer to need a second introduction. Furthermore, if to advertise was the only or principal thing, we would likely have done so on a more magnificent scale, and not by means of a single rig and a few little boys. Then, again, Mr. Clarke was not "driven to Lindsay at a moderately early hour for a sick man." After delivering his lecture on "Hits and Misses," he complained of severe pains in the chest. In the morning he was worse, but during the forenoon still entertained the hope that, by doctoring a little, he would be well enough to give his second lecture. In the afternoon about 4 o'clock, seeing there was no hope of getting well enough to lecture, and fearing a protracted spell of sickness, he urged me to drive him to Lindsay, where we reached just in time for him to catch the evening train for Toronto. That was the early (?) hour. Once more, the tickets were not "single, or for one lecture, 15 cents." The single tickets were 20 cents and the double 25 cents, so that "Querist" can only grieve over "the loss of our five cents." But the Methodist Church does not want you to lose even that amount, small as it may seem, and so when it was known that Mr. Clarke would not be able to meet his engagement at the time announced, owing still to sickness from which he did not recover for months, then the Church honourably made provision to refund the five cents to any who, like "Querist," had "invested their quarters in double tickets." This was at the time publicly made known, and is here and now repeated in the columns of our local paper. Since Mr. Clarke recovered from his sickness he has been most of the time in distant parts, but may yet return to Ontario and deliver the lecture promised. In the meantime the Church is prepared and has all along been prepared to make good any loss sustained by any one through Mr. Clarke's unavoidable sickness, and it hurls back the insinuation of "Querist" that there is or ever was any fraud perpetrated upon the public either by itself or Mr. Clarke, as it openly declared itself willing from the first to refund the money, and as Mr. C. could not prevent the sickness which occasioned the disappointment. Forgiving you, "Querist," for writing the letter that has now gone abroad, let me say to you in all kindness, be more careful in the future before you attack a public man or a Christian Church. Know that your facts are true before you begin to write; and, if you are very much troubled over the loss you have sustained, call at the Methodist parsonage and you will get your five cents back again.

Yours truly,

F. McAMMOND.
Fenelon Falls, April 23rd, 1889.

To the Editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette.

Sir,—The Peterborough Times in its last issue, under the heading of "Fenelon Falls news," professes to give its readers a rehearsal of the scandals of this village; and, in its anxiety to be up to the standard, is not content to keep to facts; but, in order to help to spread an utterly unfounded piece of gossip, tears open afresh a bleeding wound in the bosoms of helpless ones who, God knows, have already suffered enough through no fault of their own. If he is really sincere in his desire to keep his Peterborough patrons posted in Fenelon Falls scandals, it might be as well for him to include all in a good leader in large type. He has gone back a number of years in order to recall one. Let him go back a little farther into the regions of the past, and relate some of the doings that used to take place in a certain second class tavern now extinct, and also the subsequent history of some of the outcomes of that hostelry. This would not cost him much time or expense, as his information could be obtained, no doubt, from the same source as the last. If he will but do what we suggest, we promise all lovers of filthy scandal a rare treat. Or, if that would be too much trouble for him, perhaps he may be prevailed upon to copy this letter into his next issue, under the same heading of "Fenelon Falls news," and in his largest type.

Yours truly,

REPROOF.
