A Heroic Act.

Mr. Andrew Sutherland, station master at Fenelon Falls, has always since his arrival here been one of the most popular young men in the village, but on Saturday last he did a deed that raised him several thousand per cent. in public estimation, won the undying gratitude of a mother's and father's heart, and justly entitled him to the medal of the Royal Humane Society. While on his way to the station after dinner, having a few minutes at his disposal, he went to the platform at the back of the old sawmill to look at the boys catching suckers. Some of the lads were fishing from the piers of the little bridge (now in ruins) below the falls, but two were on the edge of the wharf built many years ago of slabs and covered with sawdust; and one of them—Tommy Archer, aged ten, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Archer, of this village—by some means missed his footing and fell into the river. Mr. Sutherland, who was looking in another direction, did not witness the accident; but, hearing cries, he turned around and saw what had happened. "Quick as lightning," as the saying is, he rushed to the spot, tore off his coat, vest and boots, and, without a moment's hesitation sprang into the river. The water is not deep close to the wharf, but the current is very strong, and swept the little fellow away so rapidly that he sank twice before Mr. Sutherland could overtake him. There was no getting back to the wharf, and, after a long struggle in the eddy below the locks, Mr. Sutherland managed to lay the boy across a log, which he pushed to the north shore, where several hands were eagerly extended to help him out. He was well nigh exhausted and Master Tommy was insensible, and for a time it was feared that he was dead; but he revived while being carried home, and before evening was out at play. Mr. Sutherland was, of course, the hero of the hour, as he well deserved to be; for the river immediately below the falls is no place even for the best swimmers, few of whom would care to brave its dangers, though tempted to do so by the hope of saving the life of a fellow creature.

The Cheese Factory.

Last week preparations for the season's work in the Fenelon Falls factory were completed, and the first consignment of milk arrived on Monday. So far, it has come in slowly, as a good many cows have not yet calved, and it is suspected that some of the patrons, tempted by the high price of butter, are withholding the delivery of milk, and will do so as long as they can without getting into trouble. But Mr. Sandford, the proprietor of the factory, in which he has about $1,000 invested, tells us that he intends to enforce the contract, which was for five years; and Mr. Haight, the manager, says that, nine years out of ten, cheese pays better than butter, and that the farmers of Mariposa are so convinced of this that the factories are in high favour with them. Mr. John Graham, of Blythe, appears to be of the same opinion, for this week he has been sending 300 lbs. of milk per day from ten cows, and expects soon to increase the amount to 400 lbs. Some of the patrons were dissatisfied with the results last year; but, as the season was as unfavourable for milk as for other farm products, the test was not a fair one, and possibly before their contract with Mr. Sandford expires they may be ready and willing to renew it. There is no doubt whatever that Mr. Haight is one of the best cheesemakers in Ontario and perhaps in the Dominion, and it will not be his or Mr. Sandford's fault if the factory, under their joint generalship, do not in the end prove as successful as any of its patrons can possibly wish.

DENTAL.—Don't fail to call on J. Neelands, dentist, at the McArthur House on Tuesday, May 21st. He will have a complete "Gas Apparatus," for extracting teeth without pain.

W. C. T. U. "AT HOME."—An "At Home" under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. will be held in Dickson's hall this (Friday) evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. Admission 10c. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

INSURANCE BUSINESS.—Mr. George Cunningham has transferred his insurance business to Mr. W. E. Ellis, druggist, who will in future attend to all his risks. Mr. Ellis has had a great deal of experience in insurance, and any parties entrusting him with their risks can rely upon having them properly attended to at lowest rates and in first-class companies.

PRESENTATION.—At a meeting of L. O. L. No. 996, held in their hall on Tuesday evening last, the 14th inst., Bro. John A. Barron, M. P., was made the recipient of a very fine life-size oil painting of Her Majesty the Queen, as a slight token of the brethren's appreciation of the noble stand he took in voting as he did on the disallowance of the Jesuit bill at the late session of parliament.

THE CROPS.—There was a splendid rain on Monday night, and another, but not so heavy, during the night of Wednesday, and almost every farmer says that the crops scarcely ever looked better at this time of year than they are looking now. The spring has been an unusually favourable one in every respect, and so far, there is every prospect of an abundant harvest. Agriculture has been under a cloud for two or three years past, and it is to be hoped that at last there is to be a change for the better.

WHO'S TO PAY?—Lindsay has issued an attractive programme of sports for the Queen's Birthday, and announces that $700 will be given away in prizes; but, as the bills have no signature, a question as to who is responsible for payment to the successful competitors naturally arises. The bills bear the Post's imprint—"only that and nothing more,"—and if it should prove that Bro. Barr is liable for that $700, there will be great consternation among his delinquent subscribers. Our village sports say they won't take their horses to Lindsay on any terms, as they have not forgotten the treatment they received at and after the Central Fair last year.

INDECENT ASSAULT.—On Monday evening John Quinn, of this village, was arrested by Constable Nevison and taken before Robert McFarland, J. P., in Jordan's hall, charged with making improper proposals to and indecently assaulting Mrs. John Sheehy in her own house on the 1st inst. Her husband was away at the time and for several days afterwards, or proceedings would have been taken earlier. Mrs. Sheehy's evidence was such as to leave no doubt as to the guilt of the prisoner, and the magistrate sentenced him to pay a fine of $5 and costs. Since the trial Quinn, who is a carter, has sold his horse, vehicles and business connection, with the intention, it is presumed, of leaving the Falls.

L. O. L. MEETING.—At a meeting of L. O. L. No. 996, Fenelon Falls, on Tuesday last, it was "moved by Bro. J. J. Nevison, and seconded by Bro. L. Deyman, That the band be known by the style and title of 'The Fenelon Falls Brass Band,' for the following reasons: As there has been a second band started in opposition to the band that was organized by the brethren of this lodge and has always been supported by the citizens of this village; and as the opposition bandsmen have circulated in the village that this band is a private one, notwithstanding that it is and always was intended that it should play for the citizens, and has on all occasions when called on played for all churches free of charge. We consider it impossible for two bands to exist in this village, that it is necessary to maintain the band, and that we should be supported by the citizens, many of whom have suggested that we change the name to that above mentioned." The motion was carried unanimously.

A most terrific hail, wind and rain storm visited Belvidere, Ill., and vicinity Thursday afternoon, doing much damage to crops.

The town of Meddybemps, for there is a town by that name down in Maine, has had its first genuine excitement in a law suit between two of its citizens—the only case at law the town has had in a happy existence of 48 years.

An old saddle, which had been kicked around in a Nashville harness shop for several years, was ripped up the other day and found to contain $1,800 in Confederate money. If the owner of the shop could only have found the prize in March, 1865, he could have bought a breakfast and three cigars.

The trotting horse Guy, record 2.12, was sold at auction on Monday for $29,750.

Prof. Paul D'Nuce, whoever he is, says he can cause a thunderstorm and a fall of rain in any district on two hours' notice, and that he can have the shower stop in fifteen minutes or continue half a day.

A handsome young Alsatian Frenchman wearing a four-cornered hat of white linen, a white linen jacket, purple velvet knee-breeches, white stockings visible at the knees, and a pair of low shoes with silver buckles, delivers breakfast rolls in New York from a large basket.

Some Maine lumbermen, who were annoyed by a bear stealing their molasses out of the camp storeroom, put up a job on bruin. They got an empty molasses keg, filled the sides of it full of sharp pointed nails, inclined towards the bottom, poured a little molasses into it, and set the whole arrangement out in the bushes near the pig-pen. The next morning it was found some distance from the camp. The bear's head was inside. He had stuck it in and couldn't draw it out. A rifle ball ended his misery and his thieving.

The New York Fire Department has in its ranks a member who could make a bigger salary in a dime museum than at life saving, were he willing to go on exhibition. He has what is best described as a double stomach, some sort of an internal sack or pouch in addition to the regular stomach, into which he can at will direct anything that he swallows. Whatever goes into this sack he can retain there as long as he pleases and then bring up again unharmed. In this way he can swallow coins, pebbles or any small articles, and regain possession of them again at will.

Miss Jessie Benning was in the office of William Scott, a real estate agent, at Peoria, Ill., one day last week and picked up a revolver which was supposed to contain only empty shells. The young lady turned the weapon toward herself with the remark: "I wonder if I can kill myself." There happened to be one loaded shell in the revolver and this exploded, the bullet entering her head and inflicting a mortal wound. Miss Benning was eighteen years old, and Mr. Scott was a few years her senior. They were engaged, and Scott is almost heart-broken over the affair.

At Yeko, Corea, April 13, four hundred constables surrounded a house occupied by Boker and dragged him out, beating him to death. The Corean Government had imposed a tax on the townspeople which they were unable to pay, and Boker paid the entire levy, selling some of his property to do so. This act of charity aroused the suspicions of the authorities, who thought Boker sought to make himself popular in the district. They accordingly had him put to death. The townspeople en masse attacked the constables, killing many and wounding most of the survivors. The military quelled the riot.

COMMUNICATIONS.

To the Editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette.

Sir,—I want you to favor me with a short space in your valuable paper with respect to what I call a nuisance, which is getting quite prevalent on our streets, in the shape of pigs. They are playing havoc on vacant lots, yards, &c., and I just want to jog the memory of our city fathers to the fact, to see if we have not a by-law to protect our streets from such nuisances. And what is our constable paid for? I for one would like to see him enforce the pig by-law. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this short space, I remain,
Yours,
A RATEPAYER.

Fenelon Falls, May 15th, 1889.

To the Editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette.

Sir,—While going along the street I notice posters announcing sports, trotting and all kinds of amusements on the driving park grounds on the 24th of May, which I think ought to be patronized. An excursion to Lindsay by the so-called citizens' band is also advertised, which I consider rather strange, for, if I am properly informed, the citizens have never given one cent in support of that band; but I think the band that is going to stay at home ought to be styled the citizens' band, as the citizens have supported it and have money in it, and it is a band of citizens and not of outsiders, as the other is. I should suggest that the other band be called the Jesuit or Ellis band, for it is either in opposition to the principle of Orangemen at the present, or a money investment. Hoping, Mr. Editor, that you will pardon me for trespassing on your valuable space, I remain,
Yours truly,
AN OBSERVER.

Fenelon Falls, May 16th, 1889.

To the Editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette.

Sir,—I am sure both you and your readers will sympathize with me, that I am again under the necessity of honoring the Rev. Mr. McAmmond with a notice from my gilded pen, when he is so incapable of properly appreciating my efforts for his good. How very different things look when viewed from opposite standpoints! I thought I had him completely busted, and it looks as though he had exactly the same
