PRICES TO MEET THE TIMES.

The Fenelon Falls Gazette.

Friday, May 24th, 1889.

TO QUEEN VICTORIA.

The Gazette wishes your Majesty many happy returns of the day.

Teachers' Convention.

The West Victoria Teachers' convention was held in this village on Wednesday and Thursday and was very well attended. On Wednesday evening there was a free entertainment in Dickson's hall, which, by the hour announced, 8 o'clock, was crammed so full that several who came later were unable to obtain admission. Mr. Henry Reazin, School Inspector, officiated as chairman, and, after music by the Fenelon Falls band, Prof. Stephens, of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, gave a brief but instructive and amusing lecture on "Sugar," illustrated by several chemical experiments, in which he was assisted by Mr. James Keith, one of his pupils, who, we hope, will yet confer celebrity on Fenelon Falls. After two exceedingly well-executed quartettes by Dr. A. and Mrs. A. Wilson, Mrs. F. McDougall and Mr. James Campbell, the comedietta "Dearest Mamma" was performed by the Fenelon Falls Dramatic Club, and the proceedings ended by the band playing and all present singing God Save the Queen.

The Log Nuisance.

This is the time of year at which Fenelon River is generally jammed full of logs, greatly to the disgust of such of our villagers as are fond of aquatic sports, but are debarred from indulging in them. It would be bad enough if the nuisance only lasted a few weeks, but far into July—at least a month after maskouge and bass fishing commences—the logs continue to come, and are a serious hindrance, not only to sport and pleasure, but to business also. From time to time litigation has in consequence arisen between steamboat owners and lumbermen, and, at the Division Court held here on the 23rd ult., Capt. Franklin Crandell, whose steamer, the Ena, was several times delayed or obstructed by Jas. M. Irwin's logs, sued Mr. Irwin for $60 damages. Owing to the difficulty of fixing the actual damage—or, more properly, loss—sustained by Capt. Crandell, the case was transferred to chambers, to be argued there, with what result we have not heard. But it makes little difference. If the plaintiff obtain the whole claim, (which is the most that can be sued for as damages in a Division Court), it will of course be some compensation for the loss sustained by him through the presence of the logs in the river; but $60 is so small a sum for any lumberman to pay for the privilege of trespassing on the rights of the rest of creation that Capt. Crandell's action is not likely to have any effect in abating the log nuisance. The importance of the lumbering business is recognized by everybody, as is also the unavoidable necessity of running logs down navigable rivers; but the lumbermen act as if they were labouring under the delusion that they owned the rivers, to the free passage of which they have no more right than other members of the community. An occasional payment of a few dollars will have no effect upon them; and if the log nuisance, which is a very serious one, is to be abated, it must be by the concerted action of all who suffer from it. If the great carrying companies in any city of the world were to so block the highways with their waggons that other vehicles could not pass, they would soon be brought to their senses; and yet they would only be doing on land what our lumbermen constantly do on water. We long ago expressed, and now repeat, the opinion that they have no more legal right to close the river against a skiff or canoe than against a steamboat, and they would probably be somewhat surprised if twenty or thirty of our villagers were to simultaneously bring actions against them, as they no doubt could do with almost a certainty of success. A navigable river is as free to all—no matter whether they travel on business or for pleasure—as the public highways, and a lumberman has no more right to obstruct the one with a drive of logs than a cattle buyer has to obstruct the other with a drove of oxen. Of course it would entail great inconvenience on the lumbermen if they could only run their logs a few at a time instead of en masse, and it would be a costly job to so divide the river that there would be one channel for the lumbermen and another for the general public; but when a wrong can only be righted at great expense, that expense should be borne by those who inflict and benefit by the wrong, unless the Government think fit to step in and shoulder the liability. The eternal principle of justice says that the Fenelon River shall be open to all from the opening of navigation to the closing thereof; the lumberman says that it shall not. The question is—which is to prevail?

New Buildings.

The time was, and not many years ago either, when there wasn't a brick building of any kind in Fenelon Falls; now we have not only churches and whole blocks of stores of the aristocratic material, but several dwelling-houses also; and to the number of the latter three more are even now being added, all on the main street.

Mr. Joseph McArthur's handsome and artistic residence, which is so far advanced as to be nearly ready for the plates, will be the largest and finest in town. It is of white brick, 30 x 36 feet, with a wing 16 x 44 feet, and the walls are to be 23 feet high. It has two large bay windows facing on Colborne street, and will be finished in the very best style. Mr. Wm. Jeffrey, of Cameron, has the stone and brickwork, Mr. Edward Haw the carpenter work, Mr. Alfred Inkpin the plastering, and Mr. Wm. Avery the painting. Along the east side of the lot a neat and substantial stone wall about two feet thick and sloping with the ground has been built by Mr. Thos. Lane, who, although an amateur mason, has done the work in a style that would be no discredit to any professional.

On the opposite side of Colborne street the Teague Bros. are hard at work on the foundation of Mr. Wm. McArthur's terrace, the white and red bricks for which are already piled at the edge of the sidewalk. The building will be 50 x 56 feet, and 23 feet high, and will contain two commodious dwellings, each with a roomy bay window. Messrs. Teague have the stone and brickwork, Mr. Haw the carpenter work, Mr. Inkpin the plastering, and Mr. Avery the painting.

Mr. Joseph Heard, hardware merchant and tinsmith, is putting an addition partly behind and partly to the north of the building he erected a few years ago. It measures 24 x 67 feet, and is 24 feet high; but the roof is to be 40 x 67 feet, as it will also cover the workshop, which is to be veneered with brick on the end and south side, to look uniform with the building, and also as a protection against fire. The addition, which will cost at least $1,000, is to contain three large rooms and a hall on the ground floor, and the second story will be used as a store-room. The foundation was built by Mr. Thos. Lavis, the brickwork will be done by the Teague Bros., the carpenter work by Mr. Haw, the plastering by Mr. Inkpin, and the painting by Mr. Avery.

Personals.

Mrs. A. W. Campbell, of Dallas, Texas, second daughter of Mr. Alex'r Clark, arrived last Saturday, accompanied by her two little boys, on a visit to her relatives. She will probably remain in Canada about three months, most of the time at the Falls.

Messrs. George M. Furby and H. H. Burnham, of Port Hope, Charles Clark, of Iowa, and Joseph S. Smith, of New York, passed through the Falls by train on Monday afternoon. They were going to Rock Lake, on the Madawaska, after salmon-trout, and we wish them lots of sport.

Messrs. John D. Smith, G. H. G. McVity and G. S. Williams, of Port Hope, and Messrs. E. D. Orje and T. B. Dean, of Lindsay, were here on Monday.

Mr. George Ingles, of the Lindsay sash and door factory, was at the Falls last Tuesday looking for lumber, and probably found no difficulty in getting all he required.

Mr. Samuel Swanton is preparing to move from Fenelon Falls to Toronto, as he believes he can manage his business more conveniently by living in the city; but he will be here nearly as frequently as at present. He will leave in about a month, and has rented his handsome residence on Francis street to Mr. John H. Brandon.

"AT HOME."—The W. O. T. C. "Home" in Dickson's hall last Friday night was not so numerously attended as it ought to have been, but those who were present spent a very pleasant evening in social converse or at different games. The tea was excellent.

QUICK WORK.—On Tuesday last, in Austin Bros.' slaughter house, Mr. Chas. Wise dressed a sheep in 2 1/2 minutes, and Mr. A. McConaghy dressed a good-sized steer in 13 minutes. They both think they can make still better time, and will try to do so if any one beats their present records.

S. S. CONVENTION.—The 13th annual Presbyterian Sabbath School convention will be held in Lindsay on Wednesday next, the 29th inst., and all Sabbath School workers are cordially invited to attend. The first session will be from 10 a. m. to 12 o'clock, the second from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m., and the third will commence at 7 in the evening.

GOSPEL MEETINGS.—Yesterday evening the first of a series of gospel meetings was held in Ingram's hall, and conducted by a gentleman who is advertised simply as "A Blind Evangelist." The meetings will be continued as long as they prove attractive, and it is probable that the Evangelist will visit Kilmount, having received an invitation to do so from several of the residents of that village.

POISONED.—While Mr. Fred McGeorge was working in the cemetery last Saturday, with his coat off and his shirt-sleeves rolled up, he incautiously handled some poison ivy, and the result is that his left arm is in a sad state from wrist to elbow. There is a great deal of the poisonous weed in this vicinity; and, while some persons can scarcely look at it without being affected, others can pull it up by the roots with perfect impunity.

MILL ACCIDENT.—In Greene & Ellis's mill, on Monday afternoon, Mr. Wm. Luce, one of the employees, had the first and second fingers of his left hand cut almost off and the third badly mauled by a circular saw with which they came in contact while he was reaching for a shovel. Dr. Wilson amputated the two fingers above the second joint and dressed the other, and the patient is doing as well as can be expected so soon after the accident.

ALL ABOUT HENS.—Mr. Joseph Pearn and Mr. David Miller are farmers in the township of Fenelon, and, being neighbours, ought to be friends, but Mr. Miller's hens hatched trouble between them by climbing or flying over, or crawling under, the line fence and scratching up Mr. Pearn's grain. When Mr. Pearn and his son went to expostulate, they were not only told derisively to build a henproof fence, but Mr. Miller used insulting and exasperating language, and, picking up a stick, expressed the conviction that it would be an easy job for him to convert the parties of the other part into corpses. Therefore Mr. Pearn had him up before Robert McFarland, J. P., on the 16th inst., and, the offence being proved, he was fined $2 and costs, amounting in all to $5 90, or enough to buy fifty-nine dozen eggs eggs at present prices.

DEAD DRUNK.—About 2 o'clock last Saturday morning Constable Nevison was aroused and told that a woman was asleep in a buggy near the mechanics' institute; and, upon dressing himself and proceeding to the spot indicated, he found that he had been correctly informed. The woman, who appeared to be somewhat under the influence of liquor, was a Mrs. Morrison, and she told the constable that she had driven from Minden on Friday with a man named James Black, who, after they started on their journey home, discovered that he had not got his hat and went back to look for it, but had not returned to her. After a brief search the constable found Black lying dead drunk near the stable of Twomey's hotel, and he and Mrs. Morrison were placed in two cells in the lock-up, and the horse and buggy were taken to Edwards's livery stable. On Saturday forenoon the convivial pair appeared perforce before Robert McFarland, J. P., who dismissed the woman but fined Black $2 and costs, the latter amounting to $4 76.

Sea lions are so plentiful on the coast of Carolina this year as to be a nuisance, especially to fishermen, while their barking aggravates the farmers for two miles inland.

Four thousand Icelanders emigrated last year, leaving whole districts barren of population. The Icelander is just getting the news that there are other countries not quite as rigorous as his, but he is slow to believe it.
