A Good Story Told by a London Doctor

I am a family doctor, with a sufficiently arduous if not over-lucrative practice, chiefl, among the lower middle class whose homes abound in a south-eastern suburb of modern Babylon. Some years ago, when I was more of a struggler than I happily now am, I had by good fortune obtained a foothold as medi cal adviser in the household of a wealthy City stock broker, who dwelt in a spacious and luxuriant mansion some three miles far ther out on the Surrey hills than the then extreme limit of my regular round of visits; and the fees I received for occasional calls to Mount Aureo when Mr. Midas Contango had a touch of his chronic tormentor the gout, or his somewhat sentimental spouse quite a grand dame, however, in her own esteem-was suffering the penalties of ays tematic outrage on the digestive fit-up of her portly person, were so liberal in their extend as to form in the aggregate no inconsiderable proportion of my modest income.

After my connection at Mount Aureo had continued, to the seeming satisfaction of all concerned, for some two years, I began to receive more frequent summonses thitherward. The only daughter of the Contangor, Miss Muriel, a fine, tall, gracefully moulded damsel of seventeen, who might have stood as a sculptor's model, so perfect was her ing all this in admiration and devouring ing a marriage-at their cost-into a noble physique, had returned home for the Christmas vacation from her fashionable Brighton Contango's throat trouble was purely local, covert smile, turning to me, he said: nevertheless, it was causing serious alarm to the master and mistress of Mount Aureo dream of the Contango existence was to mate Miss Muriel to some solon of the aristocracy, them the entree to society to which by birth and breeding they were not entitled.

begun to dread that Miss Muriel's indisposition would culminate in bronchitis or a decline. The slightest cough, the least less, it is .- Now come, however; thoughronchus, raised the grim and terrible spectre having ascertained the truth about the case of phthisis, and the beautiful young lady | -my time is short, let me convince you. most anxious and minute care, but could you are tapping upon by the variation in the discover nothing to justify any fear or even sound." He turned round, and I percussed yet, despite balsamics and sedatives, ex | thorax. "You are on the left side," He able symptoms often manifested themselves | audacity. His professional-nay, I yet hope an envelopment of coatly furs. When I | faced him ! ventured to hint at this, the invariable reply did not take this care of Muriel, how long me that I had nothing to say. would she be with us?—the dear child is so delicate." And nothing I could say would ed the triumphant specialist to Mrs. Conalter their opinion.

when Miss Muriel had been coddled up at | tone can only be at once detected after imback to Brighton to continue her studies, stream of patients; but there is something Mrs Cantango was more than usually con- on the left side of your daughter's chest-nocerned about her daughter's condition. thing serious—so little, indeed, that my young The stockbroker and his good lady had friend here has been unable to find it; but overnight held an anxious discussion. I had | there it is. -And now, the examination being made my now usual though quite unneces | complete, permit us to consult as to the treatsary daily visit to Mount Aureo, and Mrs | ment, and then I must go, or I shall incur Midas Contango was, in her patronising an i | the displeasure of a noble but somewhat im vet solicitous manner, bowing me out. I patient patient of mine." "Doctor, you know we have the utmost | tion of his ruse. confidence in you; we carry out your inchild "- treating her, if I may be pardoned the a beautiful plant of English growth.'

"Well, perhaps you may be right, doctor; | cough?" but we are so very anxious, Mr. Contago and myself-you see Muriel is our only to me.' child, our sole hope. Now would you mind as to the case ?"

whom would you like, and when may we come, to have him here"

Mrs Midas Contango mentioned the name | pected to discover it." of a very fashionable and expensive London physician with a consultative practice confined almost entirely to the houses of those who had been presented at court. He was certainly not the man I should have chosen, for the faculty rather smiled at his pretensions to pre-eminent skill; and his reputation was far more that of the drawing-room | ledge enough of human nature or sufficient than professional. However, I, a humble 'savoir faire' not to be embarrassed with so if conscientious practitioner, could not small a difficulty.-Now, do you see my afford, had I so desire to decline to meet | meaning?" him; and I consented to facilitate arangements for an interview at the great man's | cally there is."

convenience. imposing equipage at the door of Mount is-your vigilance and punctilious exactiwas introduced to his patient, making the difference in resonance. The mamma heard while profuse apologies for having been the remark, as I intended her to do; she unavoidably detained by a critical case- has not the remotest idea what it meansto the treatment adopted by the attendant | thinks, the cause being known, the cure will medical gentleman.

such the celebrity certainly was-"what !' young lady we are to consult about ? That saperb girl, in such perfect condition ! Come, | with her ?" confess, madam, that you are only making fun of us. preceed, as she was meant to be, by the not science"importance of the pompous personage who was addressing her, "I admit appearances are in my daughter's favour and ing-and if we were not to take care"-A flood of tears drowned the rest of the sentence.

toms as he has interpreted them." I gave the history of the case in a few

"Well, well; there seems to be nothing serious; but we must examine the chest with the utmost exactness to decide that."

"Pardon me," interrupts mamma, "but day .- And now for treatment." will you allow me to remain in the room?" "Of course, madam," responded the favourite of fortune. "You have a sacred right to stop here. Pray, sit down." And then he directed me to commence the ex amination. I percussed with minute carefulness every part of the thorax, and, as before, could really find nothing abnormal.

"There ; you perceive that I nave tested with exactness, and the resonance is everywhere perfect." I made the remark as a my ingenzous young friend : you have almere matter of form, for I had not failed to ready the science of medicine at your fingernote that the very superior West End ends; why not acquire the art also !practitioner had not condescended to pay | Adieu !" the slightest attention to my proceedings, but was talking in low tones to Mrs Midas without learning something; but I never Contango all the time and with the most delicately impressive care, as I did in that inglorious scene in the drawplaced Miss Muriel again in position; not, ing-room of Mount Aureo, in which I was as I had done, with the arms crossed on the | so sadly let down, for a time at least, in the chest, but stiffly extended. In place of tell. estimation of Mrs. Midas and Miss Muriel ing her to count " thirteen to sixteen," he Contango. gave her a book and directed her to read a dezen lines, and then to sing the gamut, an octave and a half. The mother was watch-every letail. boarding school troubled with a slight cough, seems there is something-but extremely or other serious ailment; and I have it on In all respects save this trifling laryngeal difficult to differentiate.-Let us hear excellent authority that her husband, Visaffection, she enjoyed the excellent health wnat percussion yields." And his style was count Barrenlands, would be extremely glad of which both her parents had had possession truly enchanting. Every tap with his at times, when he has been inordinately exin their earlier days, before the indulgences fingers was given with a flourish and a travagant with his unearned increment, if which follow in wealth's wake had made them graceful sweep worthy of the most expert Lady Muriel's vigour of voice and physique profitable acquaintances of my own. It was professor of sleight of hand that ever enter- were both a little less robust. clear enough, too, to me that Miss Muriel tained a countess's guests. There was a

"There it is. Listen, my dear young friend," as he beat his digital drum, who idolised their charming child. The now on this side, then on that. "Ticktack, tick tack .- Hark! do you hear it ! There is a very appreciable difference," I States. In it he says : "It is simply frighttheir reputation for riches having obtained do not say an enormous difference-no-but ful to behold the rapid increase of almost there it is !'

"For my own part, sir,' I returned, "I est difference." "Oh! very likely; but there, neverthewas held to be in imminent danger of an early | will turn my back to the patient, and you grave. I had examined her chest with the shall again percuss. I will tell which side doubt of the correctness of my diagnosis; as equally as possible the two sides of the posure, however little, in treacherous was quite right! In a moment, however, weather would cause hoarseness and a my surprise was changed to admiratransitory cough. Indeed, these disagree | ton of the fashionable physician's smart without any apparent cause, except, as I I may more truthfully write it unprofessionjudged, the inordinate precautions taken to al-trick was obvious enough, but performed avert them. The rooms at Mount with such perfect aplomb that I was duped Aureo were always too hot; Miss even whilst taking part in it. He had turn-Muriel was overclothed, could not stir out | ed his back to the patient, to Mrs. Midas for a constitutional in the garden without a Contango and myself, but he was looking respirator, or take a drive unless hidden in | into a large mirror above the console which

What could I do? I was mute. The tables of the Contangos was: "Ah! doctor, if we | had indeed been so completely turned upon

" Madam, I must not alarm you," observtango, who was in blissful ignorance of the One day late in the April succeeding, deception; "these delicate gradations in home for four months instead of peing sent | mense practice, only by those who examine a had almost reached the door, hat in hand, When we were alone, I again expressed my

"Tut, tut! my dear young friend," said structions to the letter; but our dear he, testily, "you have not yet grasped the situation. - Now, here you have a girl who "Yes madam; only you will persist in coughs and has been hoarse for a long time -then how the deuce can you get over the simile, too much after the manner of a fact by telling the parents that there is no tropical orchid, instead of regarding her as | cause for it ! Very likely there is nothing the matter with her; but why does she

"That was exactly what her mother said

"There you are; and mamma was quite our asking the opinion of a famous specialist | right; there must be some cause for it. We may not be able to lay our finger upon it, for "Nothing would be more proper. Pray, we must examine and understand our patients thoroughly very often before we can arrange, contingent on his being able to make out their ailments, and then one finds the mischief, because you see, we are ex-

> "But suppose there really is nothing." "Nonsense! There always is. But even if there were not, we are equally bound to find it; for if you tell these anxious people, "I can discover nothing wrong," they will naturally put it down to your ignorance, and send for somebody else who has know-

"Theoretically there is nothing, practi-"You may put it so, if so it please you. follow. The more unintelligible the explan-"What !' said the society exquisite, for ation, the more convinced is she of its cor-

I began to understand.

cal training teach us," he zarded I. "Quite so, my dear fellow; but accept for I hope that you may be able to assure us once the tuition of a man who has not altothat ber condition is not serious; but she is gether failed in his profession. What I have club man and politician, astonished the peoalways losing her voice-always cough- taken the trouble to demonstrate to you ple of Long Branch on a recent Sunday by little, perhaps, so to speak, of the shop or of He had arranged a match with some New legal tape-but our patrons are satisfied, our York professionals, who did not turn up

All may be well. Let me hear from this as departure from slavish adherence to what gentleman, your family attendant, the symp- is miscalled principle to stand between us and success ?"

"Well" admitted I, a little sadly, "perhaps you are right." "Of course, I am, my dear young friend, I am a cynic, but I succeed. I have been, for instance, beseeched to meet you here to-

A little delicate counter-irritation was suggested and agreed on; then the tashionable physician stepped into his elegant turn-out before the door of Mount Aureo, amid the profuse thanks of Mrs. Midas Con tango, a hundred guineas richer for his half-hour's visit. As he shook hands with me, on throwing himself back among the cushions of his brougham, the famous expert smilingly whispered : "You are too modest,

One rarely takes part in a consultation obtained such valuable practical knowledge "Ah, well, now it is my turn," said he, from any meeting with a brother professional

Miss Muriel subsequently recovered her temporarily defective resonance sufficiently to gladden the hearts of her parents by makhouse. I still have the pleasure of ranking "Ah! humph!" said the oracle; "it her among my patients, but for no organic

U. S. Sunday Desecration.

Bishop Littlejohn, of the diocese of Long Island, has written a powerful letter on the subject of Sunday desecration in the United every form of Sunday desecration. I may not here go into the causes of this increase. Mr. and Mrs. Midas Contango had both cannot, with all deference, detect the slight- They are well known to all who have their eyes and ears open, and if they are allowed to work on unchecked along the existing lines of lawless and unrestricted indulgence, the American Sanday, as bound up with the best traditions and customs of our social and religious life, will, in the next twenty years, practically cease to exist in our great cities and in their far-spreading suburbs. This consideration ought to be enough to arouse all Christian people of every name from their present apathy. But there is another feature of the case which ought to tell with equal force upon all who value, as necessary to the peace and order and well being of the community, the proper enforcement of the law. Bad as are the violation and contempt not only of the religious sanctity of Sunday, but also of its domestic and social properties, and of its labour exemptions for the masses, the open, habitual and wanton defiance of the laws enacted by the State for the protection of the day is only less fraught with disaster." Commenting upon the Bishop's letter the Brooklyn "Times" says that "there can be no doubt that the open breaking of the Sunday laws breeds contempt for all law, turns the suburbs into pandemonium and tends powerfully to destroy the character of Sunday as a day of

A Radical Change Proposed. The defenders of the Established Church in England have succeeded in inducing the Government to introduce and support a measure which, if it becomes a law may, as its ultimate outcome, put in serious peril the continuance of that church as a state organization. At the present time the tithes by which the clergy are supported form a charge upon the land. Either the land owner or the tenant when Mrs Contango said with some effort: incredulity, delicately hinting at my observa- is compelled to pay so much towards the support of the Established Church, failure to pay gives the clergyman thus deprived of his income the right, through his representatives, to take possession of the land and seize upon its undisposed of products. This is not a satisfactory arrangement where resistance is made to payment of tithes, and just now in certain parts o England, and especially in Wales, the attempts to collect tithes have led to a resis tance which has been almost carried to riot. The proposed law makes tithes charge both upon personal property and land, and permits the clergyman to sue and recover as in the case of any legal debt. While this may make the work of recovery easier, the proposed change in the law such a radical one that the chances are it will increase to an immense extent the popular hostility to the Established Church. Thus, though the money, when it is necessary to forcibly collect it, may come easier, it is not unlikely that in a short time more t will not come at all.

Vacant Lands in the Eastern States.

So great is the number of farms in the New England States left vacant by their former occupants having gone to the West or drifted to the cities that determined efforts are being made to repeople the depopulated areas. In Vermont the drain has been so heavy that it is estimated that 200,000 acres The fashionable physician drew up in his But I assured you that there is-and there of vacant farming land exists there. It is proposed to introduce a Swedish colony of in Silesia were terribly heavy, though their dict of manslaughter was returned for shoot-Aureo half an hour behind time appointed tude notwithstanding, a little convenient fifty families into the State. The Boston "Herald" says: "From a somewhat careful study of the conditions on which farming | seven years' penal servitude, to be followed is made successful in Northern New Hamp that of the Dake of Deerwood-to whose why should she have !- but she is perfectly shire, it is believed that the present diffi. | Sentences varying from eighteen months' house in Mayfair he had been summoned by happy now that the cause of her darling's culty in farming with us is not so much in the Duchess's request to give his opinion as cough has been discovered, because she the soil as in the men who till it. The economic changes account for a great deal of unsuccessful farming. In the choice of crops, in the expenditure of money for machinery, four years. The prisoners are mostly youths rectness. One may remedy, you know, a in the changed character of home living, is of 16 to 2) years of age, only twelve of them exclaimed he in grandiloquent tones, strik. difference in resonance; but how can you to be found the explanation of the fact that being above 21. ing a theatrical attitude, " is it that fine pretend to cure a person whom you per- a large number of the New England farmers sistently declare to have nothing the matter are in debt." It is very instructive for the Canadian farmer to note these confessions of "Nor what the schools and our academi- leave that for the cabbage-headed Commerclia Unionists .- [Ex.

Herman Oslrichs, the rich New York "my dear madam, why distress yourself! ed, can we wisely permit so trivial a matter show what he could do if pressed.

FOREIGN NEWS

The total receipt of the Eiffel Tower since the opening on the 15th of May to the 30th of July amount to 2 421,739 francs.

At Patti's farewell in Buenos Ayres, in the "Barber," she was called out thirty-two times, and the receipts were $23,000.

Half of the proceeds from a two days' ex hibition of the Angelus, 2,000 francs, han been sent to Mrs. Millet, just 200 france more than Millet sold the picture for.

The Congo district appears to be develop ing as a producer of tobacco. Brussels tobacconists say that its leaves are remark ably well adapted for cigars, being of excedingly good flavor and very supple.

The International Congress of Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, in Paris assembled, have passed resolutions condemning blinkers and the long whips and the bits now in use.

The tickets of admission to the Paris Exhibition used to July 31 number 10,022, of the several treasure houses in the estate, 000, as against 5,116 000 during the corres- their dimensions and their contents: "One ponding period in 1878. The highest number of admissions in a day has been 298,000. One of the most prominent men on the French turf, Baron Hirsch, was put up at the Paris Jockey Club the other day, but, stones are kept. These articles are in though his proposer and seconder were almirahs and boxes of all descriptions, popular men, he was heavily blackballed. About a dozen persons are now constantly at work among the once hidden archives of the Vatican, employed by the German, Austrian, French, and English Governments in studying the histories of their respective countries. The Sultan of Turkey wishes to reduce his weight, Prof. Schweninger of Berlin, who tendency to stoutness, will, at the request of the Sultan, instruct two Turkish physicians in his special method of treatment. Preparations are already being made in several German university towns to celeversary of the invention of the microscope large sized vaults prepared for hoarding Zacharias Janssen of Middelburg put toge- the current silver coin, and since the year ther the first microscope in 1590. The longest uninterrupted debate on re- put in and taken out by the Maharajah Mahcord was, on Aug. 1 bought to a close by the New Zealand House of Representatives.

ty-six hours, entirely given up to the discussion of a Representation bill. Yet the debate was not finished. The great bell of Hung wu, which has long lain half buried in the ground has at length been lifted by foreign machinery and hung in a pagoda built of iron by a foreign firm.

According to prophecy, this bell was never

It had caused a continuous sitting of seven-to be lifted until China had entered upon a new career of prosperity. There is now in forbidden circulation on the Continent a book containing the letters of the Crown Prince Rudolph and Marie Vetsera, the cause and companion of his death. From these it is seen that Rudolph was so much in love with the girl that he offered to renounce all his titles and digni-ties for the sake of marrying her. Considerable friction has arisen at the Paris exhibition through the attempt of the jury which awards prizes to sit in judgment on the product of the factories at Sevres, Gobelin, and Beauvais. They all refuse to be judged or examined or reported upon, and | hoarding gold at the rate of £40,000 to £50,the contest between them and the jury has | 000 a year, and on the death of two native

The well-known detection of a crime, in "Diplomacy," through the perfume of a woman's glove was reproduced by a recent occurrence in Paris. A man who found his room robbed of all his jewlery perceived a peculiar perfume, and a few days later noticed it again when passing two welldressed women in the street. They were arrested and found to be the thieves.

careful in drinking cider, if they would avoid | payment—a payment of £150,000—he said: typhoid fever. French cider is made, as a "At any moment." Hoards are only drawn rule, with stagnant water, the microbes in on in extreme cases, and it is such calamities which do not perish during the fermentation. as war or the great famine in Madras or The fever germs thrive upon the juice of the Bombay that will bring them out. Daring apple. In proof of this theory Dr. Clivier | these famines bullion or ornaments were offers the fact that typhoid fever is more taken out of the hoards and sent to the prevailent in Normandy, the great cidermaking district, than in any other part of France.

It is possible that the widowed Crown Princess of Austria may yet become Empress. The Archduke Francis, the heir presumptive to the throne, and the eldest son of the Emperor's second brotner, the Archduke Charles Louis, is devoted to her and wants to marry her. A great obstacle to his wish, however, is the fact that he is an epileptic and extremely weak minded. The Archduke Charles Louis has formally renounced his rights, to the frantic rage of his third wife, who is twenty-two years his junior.

A committee of "scientists and philosophers," Italian and foreign, has met at Milan with the object of instituting a new "National Church." Their first step has been to draw up a catechism, and to invite adherents through a manifesto addressed to parents, students, and public officers. The manifesto declares that its promulgators wish to found "a free church in a free State, unfettered by the ideas, prejudices, Manitoba. or dogmas of other creeds, and having for its sole guide the book of nature, with the ternal truths taught therein.

The sentences imposed upon the miners who have been tried in Breslau for serious breach of the peace during the recent strikes offences had been unusually serious. The Court sentenced Henkel, the ringleader, to himself, and is now in Pembroke goal. by seven years' deprivation of all rights. hard labor to five years' panal servitude were passed upon nine of the accused, while thirty. Toronto. six others were condemned to terms of imprisonment ranging from twelve months to

Our esteemed contemporary, the Vienna "Gambrinus," publishes a table of European breweries and their output for the year 1887. the unsatisfactory conditions of American | The whole number of breweries in Europe was "Now," continued this consummate reader farming. The United States journals do | 50,831, and the production of beer and ale "Well," replied Mrs Contango, im of Society's intelligence, "I admit this is not blind their eyes to the facts, or talk glib- amounted to about 4.580,000,000 gallons. ly about a sixty million market. They The taxes collected from this sea of beer amounted to about $130,000,000. The malt used weighed 740,000 tons, and the hops 110,000 tons. Germany alone contained 26. long ?" 143 breweries, producing 1,188,000,000 gallons, while Austro-Hungary had only 1,979 breweries, producing 354,000,000 gallons. gratis is a good working rule-smelling a swimming three miles out to sea and back. The figures relating to the production per capita show that the smallest quantity, one litre per head, the litre being a little more "But," airly remarked the famous doctor, patients made happy, our reputations advanc- in time, so Mr. Oelrichs swam out alone to than a quart, is in Bosnia and Roumania. "The Girl I Left Behind Me."]-[Detroit Greece shows 21 litrez, Russia 43 5, France 31 Free Press.

Switzerland 40, Danmark 63, Germany 73, Upper Austria 116, Lower Austri a 121, Belgium 150, Wurtemburg 218, and the king dom of Bavaria leads all competitors with 248 litres, or nearly 651 gallons for every man, woman, and child in the country.

TREASURE ORAMBERS OF INDIA.

Vast Hoa: ds of Money Hidden Away by Native Princes.

In the courts of the native princes of India hoarding takes place on a vast scale, says "Chambers's Journal." The maharajah of Burdwan died lately and left a large hoard. It proves that anterior to 1835 there was much hoarding when it is stated that the maharajah had withdrawn from his store £230,000 of silver, which was in the form of Sikka rupees, none of which have been coined since 1825. A letter was submitted to the royal commission on the subject of the maharajah's hoard, A descriptinn was givlarge room, measuring about 48 feet in length, 14 feet 6 inches in breadth, and 13 feet 9 inches in height, where gold and silver ornaments and conaments set with precious and also some gold plates and cups, thalees and katorahs, as well as washing bowls, jugs, etc. Two other rooms contain silver domestic utensils, forks, spoons, etc., and, strange to say, English dinner and breakfast sets, all of silver. Two of these rooms were under lock and the doors bricked up. There are four other rooms, one containing ornaments of gold, silver and precious stones, gold ornaments and throne; cured Prince Bismarck of his too pronounced two others containing the reserve treasury, which included the estate collections and government securities and debentures, while the other is thus described: "The fourth room measures about 22 feet 6 inches in length, 15 feet in breadth, and 12 feet 3 brate next year the three hundredth anni inches in height, where there are two 1267 B. C. some money was from time to time tab Chund Bahadoor for the expenses of an emergent and extraordinary nature, such as the late Maharajah Aftab Chund Bahadoor's marriage, Lala Bun Behari Kapur's marriage, and buying landed proper ties. When he died one lac was left in one of the vaults." In another department the ornaments belonging to different gods of the family were kept, and silver thalees, sapalas, etc., for the religious purposes, the room being locked and sealed. It was the custom of the of the Burdwan Raj family to confide the custody of these valuables to the maharanee for the time being, but the vaults were never inspected save in the presence of the maharajah. When sums were withdrawn only relations and trustworthy servants were admitted into the room and vault. Treasures and dewans used to be present outside the room or apartment, where the sum drawn was sent out (female guards being placed in the passage) tor the purpose of weighing, counting, and bagging it before it was sent to the mint. Other instances of hoarding were given by an efficer of the Indian postoffice in 1886, who stated that a native prince was then finally gone for settlement to Premier Tirard. princes recently it was believed that they had left £4 000,000 each. One of these princes took a loan of £300,000 from the government of India in 1887, when he must have been in possession of a large hoard himself; for it is a point of honor with a family not to break into a hoard, which is treated with the sacredness of a family picture. When the prince in question had to make a payment to the government of India for a purpose in which he was interested, Dr. Olivier of Havre, advises people to be and was asked when he could make the Bombay mint, to England, or pledged with the native banker or money-lender. But, unless under special circumstances, the gold and silver of which the hoards are composed are drawn in without any intention of returning to circulation again.

WIRELETS.

Dr. Brodeur, the Montreal physician, is experimenting with the Brown-Siquard

It is understood that the Holy Office proposes making the regulations governing mixed marriages much stricter in Canada.

Mr. J. C. Aitkens, who has been making a tour of the North-West Provinces, thinks that the total crop will be about nine million La Minerve denounces the Liberals of Manitoba for their proposed crusade against the Separate schools and dual language in An octagon cave has been discovered on the farm of Mr. Lasher, near Bath, Oat., in which is a spring of mineral water said to be similar to the celebrated deep well at Eiward McLaughlin, against whom a ver-

ing R. Ferguson at Madawaska, surrended

A writ has been issued against Mr. W. F. Johnston, superintendent of the Massey Manufacturing Company, charging him with the seduction of Miss Emma Taylor, of

The trial of Marshall C. Twitchell, the young man charged with burglariously entering Mrs. Martin's house in Kingston under peculiar circumstances, has been fixed for September 16.

He Had Been There.

Young wife (to tramp at kitchen window) -" Now, my poor man, here's a nice, little turn over for you which I've just taken out Tramp (suspiciously) -- "Bln married Y. W. (blushing)-"Two weeks, but-"

"Cookin' school, ain't it?" he faltered, down at the gate.

"Yes." Exit tramp down the road, whistling