A Well-Fitting Suit of Clothes

Induces a man with confidence, and preposes others in his favor—which is important. When rich, a man may indulge his eccentricities, and appear in the shabbiest attire without losing "caste," but not so the young man who is just making his way in the world: it's ruinous to his chances to wear ill-fitting clothes.

Barron vs. Hughes.

About 70 of the Conservatives of North Victoria met in Jordan's hall, Fenelon Falls, on Tuesday last for the purpose of choosing a man to oppose Mr. Barron in the election, a few months hence, for the House of Commons, and their choice fell upon Mr. Sam. Hughes of the Lindsay Warder. Mr. Wood, of Kirkfield, and Mr. Hugh McDougall, of this village, were also nominated, but at the final ballot Mr. Hughes got nearly half the total number of votes given. We need not say that a Conservative candidate more satisfactory to the Reformers could hardly have been selected, and if he be not sent home on polling day with (as the saying is) a "flea in his ear," you may set us down as the most mistaken prophet who ever said so—and so is going to happen. Of course we have already been reminded that North Victoria is a Conservative riding, and that, if it had not been for the determination to get rid of Hector Cameron, Mr. Barron would not have been elected; but that doesn't shake our conviction that he will continue to be our representative as long as the parties of the other part can only get Mr. Hughes to oppose him. "If the Conservatives unite on Sam," said one of them to us on Wednesday, he will be elected." Possibly; but they will not unite on him, for already we have had the strongest assurances from several members of the party that they would vote for Mr. Barron or would not vote for Mr. Hughes. Everybody admits that it would be impossible to have a more active, energetic and faithful representative in the House of Commons than the one we are so fortunate as to call our own, and when Sam Hughes and his coadjutors go out to the back country they will find—possibly to their surprise—that there are hundreds of Conservatives who will scout the idea of voting against John A. Barron. They have found out what it is to have a "real live" member; and although Sam. Hughes is lively enough, in all conscience, it is not in a taking way. Up on what grounds the electors will be asked to throw Mr. Barron overboard and accept Sam Hughes in his place we really cannot conceive. Naturally, the bigoted Conservatives object to the riding being represented by a Reformer; but the great majority of the electors care very little for party, or, at any rate, not enough to induce them to oust a representative who has proved himself to be "the right man in the right place" simply because his political views may differ from theirs. Sam Hughes, as everybody knows, is exceedingly ambitious, and has, moreover, just the kind of gifts that he could turn to his own pecuniary advantage if he could only secure a seat in Parliament. Noisy, unscrupulous and self-assertive, it would probably not be long before he would be considered worthy of a timber limit or some other valuable reward for his services; and that, no doubt, is what he is after. But we do not think his hour has come. The electors of North Victoria are so well satisfied with Mr. Barron that we doubt whether anybody could beat him, and we feel quite sure that Sam Hughes can't. The editor and proprietor of the Warder has no doubt many admirers amongst those coarse enough to like his style of language and ignorant enough to mistake mere assertion for proof; but, terrible as some think him in print, he doesn't amount to a great deal on a platform, and he won't make much of a show against Mr. Barron when they meet during the canvass.

An Impudent Piece of Rascality.

The Globe of the 26th says:— Sir John's followers in South Victoria promise to subsidise a local railway if the electors return a Tory. The game of bribing the people with their own money is about the only course left to the Government. No one, except an irresponsible talker like Mr. Larke of Oshawa, can stand up before a farmer's meeting and argue with a straight face that the N. P. has benefited agriculture. Victoria is one of the finest counties in the Province, yet even there farm lands have depreciated in value since 1879, and the general condition of the farming community has deteriorated. Every farmer whether Grit or Tory knows that a system which leaves him a prey to combines and augments the cost of producing and of living, without adding a cent to the market price of his crops, is simply a fraud as far as he is concerned. Accordingly the argument to the pocket is invoked, and he is asked to accept a railroad bonus as compensation for the direct and indirect loss which he sustains from a high tariff. Aside from this immoral character, the bargain is a bad one. It would take a large subsidy indeed of other people's money to recoup the farmers of Victoria for the drain on their resources arising from onerous taxation and the exclusion of their coarser wares from the United States market. To offer to bribe them with a bonus that in the last analysis is taken out of their own taxes, is an impudent piece of rascality.

Fined For Buying Liquor.

By an amendment of the Crooks Act—made, we suppose, with the intention of protecting hotel keepers from temptation—any person who buys or attempts to buy liquor during illegal days or hours is liable to a penalty of from two to ten dollars, and Mr. Inspector Short is evidently determined that the amendment shall have full force and effect throughout the territory under his charge. On Monday, the 10th inst., our three village hotel-keepers were fined by Col. Deacon for selling intoxicants on Sunday, Oct. 26th, and as it appeared that—Leary, of Lindsay, and George Brokenshire, of Fenelon Falls, were the parties who bought it, Mr. Short promptly summoned both of them. Leary went to Col. Deacon, "confessed judgment" and paid his fine, and on the 16th the Colonel and Mr. Short came to the Falls to try Brokenshire, who, however, had "skipped" before their arrival. Notwithstanding his absence, the case was proceeded with, and, there being no defence, he was convicted and fined $10 and costs, which he will have to pay if he return to the village. The amendment to the law is a wise one, as there is no doubt that a good deal of the drinking during illegal hours is not so much the result of hotel-keeper's love of gain as of the persistency with which liquor is begged by those who have a craving for it. But the fact that the receiver of the intoxicant is now in as much danger of the pecuniary penalty as the giver, will have a great tendency to prevent violations of the law, and Mr. Inspector Short's enforcement of the amendment therefore has the warmest commendation of all who are opposed to the liquor traffic.

The Slaughter of Deer.

A good deal is being said just now in the Toronto papers about the wholesale slaughter of deer, the carcasses of which are sent to the city in such numbers that venison is cheaper than beef, and measures to put a stop to it are talked of. All that is needed is to enforce the existing law, which limits the number of deer that each huntsman or party of huntsmen may kill during the season; but how to enforce the law is the rub. It would be rather expensive and troublesome work to follow the back track of every large consignment of deer received in the city, and find out when and where and by whose hands the animals came to their death, regarding all of which points it would probably be very difficult to obtain evidence. But it is quite evident that, unless "put hunting" can by some means be stopped, the deer within the confines of civilisation will soon be exterminated, and to prevent such a result of the disregard of the game laws neither trouble nor expense should be spared.

LECTURE ON FORESTRY.—There was rather a slim attendance on Tuesday evening in Ingram's hall at the Forester's entertainment, which consisted chiefly of a lecture by N. L. Patterson, High Chief Ranger of the Province of Ontario. Mr. Patterson is a good speaker, but his subject was of very little interest to any but members, or those who think of becoming members, of the Order of Foresters, and therefore, although the lecture was free, only a few went to hear it.

DIVISION COURT.—Next Tuesday will be Division Court day in Fenelon Falls. Parties to suits will do well to be present when the Court opens at 10 o'clock, as there is no certainty as to which case will be disposed of first.

A TERRIBLE MISTAKE is often made by letting a Cold or Cough run too long. Reid Spruce & Wild Cherry Cough Balsam stops it at once. Try it—at Ellis's Drug Store.

HAMILTON'S IMPLEMENTS.—Mr. Joseph Heard has been appointed agent, in place of Mr. J. R. Graham, resigned, for the sale of the agricultural implements manufactured by Mr. Peter Hamilton, of Peterborough. Mr. Heard will probably build a spacious store-house for the reception of the implements, and put in a larger stock than has hitherto been kept in this village.

FOUND A NICKEL MISE.—A lucky find; but the Farmers and owners of Stock who feed Dr. Kendall's Condition Powders are on the right road to wealth. For sale only at Ellis's Drug Store.

A BIG TURNIP.—Mr. Thomas Austin had at his store a turnip that weighed 24 lbs.—nearly half a bushel. It is of the greystone variety, and was raised by Mr. Robert Wilkinson, of Verulam, who says he has any number almost as large. While we were looking at it, somebody in the store remarked that Mr. Thomas Newhouse had told him he had one that weighed 28 lbs. Now then, who can beat that!

PHOTOGRAPHS VERY CHEAP.—During the month of November we will make Cased size Photographs for $1.00 per dozen up; Cabinet size $2.50 per dozen up, and all other sizes at reduced rates, at Fowler & Co.'s, Lindsay.—36-3w.

SOUTH VICTORIA.—The election to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons for South Victoria will take place on Wednesday, December 10th, and the nominations will be held on the 3rd—Wednesday of next week. How Mr. Fairbairn and his friends feel, we do not know; but the supporters of Mr. Lowmbrugh are confident of victory, and we think the event will show that their confidence was not misplaced.

ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning a lad named Thomas Stephens employed in Mr. Henry Austin's store, met with a serious accident. Attempting to mount the delivery wagon while it was in motion, he was thrown backwards from the front wheel, and his head struck the frozen ground with such violence that he is still under the care of Dr. Graham, who is of the opinion that his skull was very slightly fractured.

WINTER.—Evidently, winter is close at hand. Last Monday there was so much snow on the ground that two or three farmers came to the village in sleighs, and already there has been ice thick enough for boys to enjoy the fun of skating. To-day, (Thursday,) appearances indicate that there will be more snow before long. But it is time for winter to put in an appearance, as Christmas Day will be here in less than a calendar month.

TWO AT A SHOT.—On the 7th inst., while Mr. Warren Schell, of Somerville, was out hunting in the township of Anson, was in the act of skinning a deer, he heard a slight noise, and, looking around, saw a buck and a doe standing side by side about eight rods distant. Dropping his knife and picking up his rifle, he took a quick aim and fired and both deer dropped, the bullet having gone through the neck of one and the head of the other. Mr. Schell, like Nimrod of old, is a mighty hunter; and when he and his rifle go out together for a walk through the woods, we bet he finds anything wearing fur or feathers that crosses their path.

THE DELINEATOR.—We have before us a copy of The Delineator, a monthly magazine of fashion, culture and fine arts, published in Toronto. Each issue contains illustrations and descriptions of current and incoming styles for ladies, misses and children, articles on the newest dress fabrics and novelties in trimmings, and representations of the latest ideas in millinery, lingerie and fancy work. In addition there are papers by practical writers on household and its proper maintenance, and a selection of entertaining and instructive reading on many subjects. Every family, particularly where there are young ladies, should subscribe. One dollar a year.
