He joined the church, an' he used to pray that his heart might be kept from sin. The stumblin'est prayin', but heads an' hearts used to bow when he'd begin.

So they lived in that way, the same from day With plenty of time for drivin' work and a little time for play. An' growin' around 'em the sweetest girls and the liveliest, manliest boys,
Till the old gray heads of the two old folks was crowned with the homeliest joys.

Eh? Come to my story? Well, that's all. They're livin' just like I said. Only two of the girls is married an' one of the boys is dead: An' they're honest an' decent an' happy an' the very best Christians I know. Though I reckon in brilliant company they'd be

The Poy Who Helps Mother.

As I went down the street to-day I saw a little lad Whose face was just the kind of face To make a person glad. It was so plump and rosy-cheeked, So cheerful and so bright, It made me think of apple-time, And filled me with delight.

While blithe as blackbird's song His merry, mellow whistle rang "O, that's the kind of lad 1 like!" I thought as I passed by; "These busy, cheery, whistling boys Make grand men by and by."

I saw him busily at work,

Just then a playmate came along, And leaned across the gate-A plan that promised lots of fun And frolic to relate.

"The boys are waiting for us now,
So hurry up!" he cried.

My little whistler shook his head,
And "Can't come," he replied.

"Can't come! why not, I'd like to know? What hinders?" asked the other.

"Why. don't you see," came the reply.
"I'm busy helping mother.
She's lots to do, and so I like
To help her all I can; So I've no time for fun just now,"

Said this dear little man. "I like to hear you talk like that," I told the little lad:

"Help mother all you can, and make Her kind heart light and glad." It does me good to think of him, And know that there are others Who, like this manly little bey. Take hold and help their mothers.

The Grave of a Little Child.

There's a spot on the hillside far away, Where in summer the grass grows green; Where, beneath a rustling elm-tree's shade,
A moss-covered stone is seen.
'Tis a quiet and unfrequented spot,
A solitude long and wild;
Yet somebody's hopes are buried there—

'Tis the grave of a little child.

In winter, alas! that mossy stone Is hid 'neath a shroud of snow, But around it in springtime, fresh and sweet The daisies and violets grow, And o'er it the summer breezes waft With a fragrance soft and mild. And the autumn's dead leaves quickly strew

That grave of a little child. And every year there's a redbreast comes
When the month of May is nigh,
And builds her nest in this quiet spot
'Mid the elm-tree's branches high;

With her melody sweet by the hour she trills As if by the scene beguiled; Perhaps, who knows? 'tis an angel comes To the grave of that little child.

Yes, somebody's hopes lie buried there; Some mother is weeping in vain; For, though years may come and years may go, 'Twill never come back again. Yes, blessed are those who die in youth, The pure and the undefiled;

THE GREATEST YET.

Some roads to heaven perhaps run through

That grave of a little child.

From all quarters applications for space at the forthcoming great Industrial Fair to be held at Toronto from the 7th to the 19th of September are being sent in by every mail. It is now an assured fact that Canada's Great Fair will this fall outrival any of its predecessors. Never before were there so many entries from the United States, and on no former occasion has such widespread interest been manifested in its success. Notwithstanding the fact that new buildings have been erected and old ones entries have been received to almost fill them. A few weeks ago a marvellous and almost miraculous cure was made known to Canadians through the medium of the Hamilton newspapers. It was stated that Mr. John Marshall, a well-known resident of Hamilton, by the aid of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, had been snatched from the very jaws of death, placed upon his feet and enabled to mingle with his fellow citizens with more than renewed health and strength and even brighter spirits than he had experi- did ten years ago," said he, cheerfully. to female weakness, loss of appetite, inability enced for years before. Mrs. Marshall showed a letter received that day from New York State, in which was a query similar to many that had previously been received by Mr. Marshall, "Write me if it is a fact or only an advertisement."

"Here's a bundle of letters," said Mrs. Marshall, showing about a hundred letters tied together, "that my husband has received during the past two weeks, and I can tell you he is only too glad to answer all the letters cheerfully and readily, for he is anxious to give all the information he can to others suffering as he did." A firm step here was heard at the gate and in a moment a sturdy healthy-looking man of middle age with glowing black side whiskers and ruddy, pleasant features stepped into the room. It was Mr. Marshall, who gave no indication of ever having been a sick man, suffering from ataxy. When the reporter's mission was explained, Mr. Marshall's face lighted up Pink Pills are offered by the proprietors as a with a smile, which caused a responsive one

Mr. Marshall offered to make an affidavit to the truth of the above story, but the reporter considered that wholly unnecessary. He carried conviction to the inquirer's mind by every word and action, and there was no gainsaying the fact that the cure was one of the most marvellous in the ninetcenth century. All the neighbors bore testimony to the genuineness of the cure. None of them ever expected to see Mr. Marshall on his feet again and regarded his restoration to health as nothing short of marvellous.

Inquiries among the city druggists disclosed the fact that an extraordinary demand had arisen for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and that the claims made for them by the proprietors are borne out by numerous cures.
