

Deeming.

PROOF THAT THE NOTORIOUS MURDERER LIVED IN THE NORTH-WEST.

WINNIPEG, April 16.—The report that Deeming, who is now on trial in Australia for murdering his wife, had at one time been a resident in the North-west, going by the name of Williams, and had departed suddenly, taking with him considerable amount of property belonging to other people, is confirmed by Mr. Hewgill, public school inspector of Moosomin, who writes: I noticed an item to the effect that Mr. Deeming (the murderer), under the name of Williams, had resided in the Territories. In the spring of 1884 a man named Williams arrived here, and, after hanging around for a time, rented a small office from me and started business as a watchmaker. After a few months he suddenly decamped, taking with him all the watches he had in for repairs, including a valuable gold watch belonging to a gentleman near Wapeila. He was of a taciturn, morose and unsociable disposition. Doubtless this was the Williams referred to in your paper.

A Terrible Affair.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN KILLED IN A CRUSH AT A RAILWAY STATION.

LONDON, April 18.—A terrible catastrophe took place at Hampstead Heath this evening, by which two women and six children were killed and thirteen other persons were seriously injured. Hampstead, which is a favorite holiday resort about four miles from London, was visited by thousands of excursionists to-day, and as the day closed there was a great rush of people to catch the trains to return home. In the crush somebody fell at the foot of a staircase at the railway station, and in a moment the hundreds of persons above were thrown into a struggling mass. The police at once closed the doors and set to work to extricate the dead and injured. Four of the dead have been identified as Emily Hamilton, aged 55; Annie Anglin, aged 40; John Connor, aged 9, and Thomas Longford, aged 14. The other bodies are those of boys from 12 to 15 years old. Many were injured.

Thinner Than Tissue Paper.

An active competition has for a long time past been carried on among the English iron masters as to the degree of thinness to which cold iron could be rolled. In one case the sheets have been rolled to an average thickness or thinness of the eighteen-hundredth part of an inch—in other words, eighteen hundred sheets of this iron, piled one upon the other, would measure only one inch in thickness. And this marvellous fineness of work may be more readily understood when the fact is borne in mind that the great number of 1,200 sheets of the thinnest tissue paper measures a slight fraction over an inch. It also appears that these wonderful iron sheets were perfectly smooth and easy to write upon, notwithstanding the fact of their being porous when held up in a strong light.—The Age of Steel.

Oiver Curtis Perry, the Lyons, N. Y., train robber, gives his keepers in prison no end of trouble. He shows especial animosity towards Deputy Collins, who arrested him. When food is given him he fires the crockery in which it is served at Collins, and the other day he was about to douse the deputy with some slops, when Collins drew his revolver. This had the desired effect.

Fred Larsen, a young man 21 years old, highly esteemed by all his neighbors, met a tragic death near Webster last Saturday. He was at work with a threshing crew near his farm, when a couple of vicious dogs began fighting. A man named Olsen undertook to part the animals with the handle of a pitchfork. An effort was made by one of the crew to take the tool from Olsen to avoid the danger. He drew it violently back. Larsen, who had been sitting in the rear of Olsen, started to get up, and one of the tines of the fork struck him just above the ball of the right eye, penetrating the brain, death resulting immediately.
