The Blake Demonstration.

The Hon. Edward Blake was accorded a splendid and enthusiastic reception on Monday evening in the Toronto Horticultural pavilion, which was crowded with distinguished men of both sides of politics and all denominations of Christians. The pavilion was beautifully decorated, a portrait of Mr. Blake forming the centre of the draping, and the motto "Home Rule, not Rome Rule" surmounted the whole, and was intended to "allay the feeling of fear which might fill the breast of any extreme Ulster sympathiser who might have strayed into the hall." Senator Smith occupied the chair, and on one side of him sat Archbishop Walsh and on the other Rev. Dr. Burns of Hamilton. Mr. Blake, who was vociferously cheered when he took the floor, spoke for about an hour, and in the course of his speech, which was frequently interrupted by the applause of his hearers, said that the Liberal party were practically unanimous on the question of home rule and that the great majority of the Conservative party were favorable. He gave a clear and comprehensive sketch of Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule Bill, and pointed out that there was nothing that the most loyal or the strongest supporters of justice to the minority had to fear from its clauses. Speeches were delivered by many prominent gentlemen; amongst them Dr. Bergen, M. P., who spoke briefly, but with much vigor. He said that in a paper supposed to be the organ of the Conservative party, to which he belonged—a paper published in this city—he had seen a dastardly article on Hon. Edward Blake, and, despite sore domestic affliction, had felt it his duty not only as a member of the Conservative party, but as a citizen, to come and enter an emphatic protest against such language. (Loud cheers.) In doing so he only echoed the sentiments of every honest Conservative and of every public man who valued the endorsement of his own conscience.

Butter.

The "travelling dairies" are still going their rounds and are admittedly doing a great deal of good. The great inducement offered to farmers and farmers' wives to improve the quality of their butter is that they will get a much better price for it than can be obtained for the trash—little better than axle grease—which too many of them now make. But at one of the meetings a mechanic got up and asked what he was to do if the price of his butter was nearly doubled, and an esteemed contemporary, whom we have generally considered as unusually level-headed, thinks the question was a very sensible one and intimates that the professor who was running the dairy was unable to answer it. It appears to us that the mechanic and our esteemed contemporary took an entirely wrong view of the subject and that the former was needlessly alarmed, as there will be bad, and consequently cheap, butter for many years to come; and when farmers' wives learn better methods and all butter is good, the law of supply and demand will regulate the price as it does at present, and good butter will then be as cheap as bad is now. But as long as a little is good and a great deal bad, the former will be eagerly bought at high prices, and that is what the travelling professors try to impress upon their hearers.

This Policy is Ruin to Northern Ontario.

The Toronto News (Conservative) says:—

Northern papers, without distinction of party, are still crying out against the Dominion Government for continuing a policy under which Ontario's forest wealth is being applied to the upbuilding of Michigan towns.

Well may these journals denounce the conduct of the Ministry in this matter. Allowing logs to be freely towed across Georgian Bay for the purpose of being cut up in American mills is a most serious thing for the towns and villages on the Canadian side of the water. The loss of employment which our people sustain as a result of the manufacture of the lumber in Michigan instead of Ontario is a great enough evil in itself. In Midland, for example, not a single board was cut during the past summer, and as a consequence there is now depression and despair where formerly there was hope and prosperity. But even this loss is the smallest of the injuries inflicted upon Canada by reason of a most foolish policy. Formerly, when Canadian logs were cut in our mills, the laborers who cut down the trees and the teamsters who hauled the logs to the mills or streams were all engaged in Canada, and the camp supplies were purchased from our own dealers. Now the supplies and laborers both come from the American side, and a source of profitable employment to farmers and farm laborers in Northern Ontario and a valuable trade enjoyed by Toronto, Owen Sound and Collingwood has been cut off.

Surely it is not necessary to continue the outcry against the present state of things. If the Dominion Government desires to make good the claim that the Conservative is the national party of Canada, the export duty on saw logs will at once be reimposed and Yankee limit holders thus forced to cut their Canadian logs in Canadian saw mills.

The "Monetary Times."

Every little while the Toronto Monetary Times gives evidence of its intention to maintain its undisputed quarter-century reputation of being the leading journal of its class. The business man at his club, Board of Trade, hotel, or on the steamship, finds, in the reading room, that journal's elegant and comprehensive commercial Portfolio, and who doesn't carry in his vest pocket the useful book slate with its valuable "Dozen Don'ts"? Accompanying a recent issue was a finely engraved portrait of the General Manager of the Bank of Montreal, and now comes a Special Fall Edition in very beautifully designed covers of brown and gold. Here is found a fair sample, only on a more extended scale, of what is provided each week for the merchant or manufacturer who aims to be well informed on all trade topics. The Monetary Times has proved itself to be a most powerful educational factor in the business world.

Correspondence of the Gazette.

Mr. N. Day had a very narrow escape from having his barns and out buildings destroyed by fire about two weeks ago. Mr. Day and his two sons were engaged in drawing in one evening till quite late, and the unloader accidentally knocked the lantern over and spilt the oil over the straw, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that the fire was extinguished.

Mr. James Fell of Somerville has two teams at work plowing on the farm he purchased here recently.

Threshing, harvesting and ploughing are all the rage at present.

Mr. B. Marshall of Lindsay has been spending a few days here visiting friends and relatives and has returned home.

Mrs. J. Hall of Beaverton has been visiting her sister, Mrs. N. Day, and has returned home.

The many friends of Mr. W. Perrin, son of Mr. Joseph Perrin, will regret to learn of his illness of inflammation of the lungs, but we are looking forward to see Wesley around again, as he is under the care of Dr. Graham of Fenelon Falls.

Mr. John Byres, who lives in this locality, was an exhibitor at the Industrial Fair at Toronto. Mr. Byres is one of Fenelon's enterprising farmers.

THE FALL SHOW.—The annual fall show of the Fenelon Agricultural Society commenced yesterday in the park south of the river and will end to-day. This afternoon there will be, in addition to the usual horse races, the novel attraction of a bicycle race, in which there will probably be several competitors. Mr. Sam Hughes, M. P. for North Victoria, is advertised to appear in the ring, and the sight of him in his glory is alone worth the price of admission.

DR. BRYSON.—We direct attention to Dr. W. G. Bryson's advertisement on the next page, by which it will be seen that he can be consulted at the Simpson House, Lindsay, all next week by those who are troubled with any of the diseases of which he makes a specialty. Very few of our readers need to be reminded that the doctor was for several years a resident of this village; and all of his old acquaintances who have occasion to go to Lindsay while he is there, and have not too much business to attend to, will no doubt call at the Simpson House and see him.

THE CANADIAN HORTICULTURIST.—This publication is growing in interest and value to Canadian fruit growers and gardeners. The October number is enlarged to forty pages. Woolverton, Grimsby, Ont., for sample copy.

THE SKATING RINK.—A meeting in the interests of the proposed skating rink was held in Jordau's hall on Mon-
