A Change in the Cabinet.

It was officially announced in the Empire last Monday that Hon. Edgar Dewdney, Minister of the Interior in the Dominion Government, had been appointed Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia, and that Mr. T. M. Daly, of Selkirk, Manitoba, was to succeed him as head of the Department. The "Interior" is well rid of Dewdney: how the British Columbians will like him remains to be seen. Physically he is a fine looking man, and had the good fortune to marry a friend of Lady Macdonald, who good-naturedly urged her own husband to do what he could for the husband of her friend. The Indians of the Northwest, whom he told to "eat pork or die and be d--d," will no doubt rejoice secretly, if not openly, at his departure and hope for better things from his successor. Mr. Thomas Mayne Daly, the new Minister, who was sworn in on Monday, is only 40 years old and was born at Stratford, Ont. In 1881 he "hung out his shingle" as a lawyer at Brandon, Manitoba, became mayor the next year, was elected as a conservative to the Dominion Parliament in 1887, and at the last general election was returned by a greatly increased majority.

Timber and Logs.

The sale of timber limits by the Ontario Government on the 13th inst. is admitted, even by the opposition, to have been a great success. The sale was widely advertised, the limits were knocked down after keen competition to the highest bidder without respect to persons, a Yankee having as good a chance as an Ontario Grit, and the prices realized were so good that a great deal over $2,000,000 will go into the Provincial treasury. For some time past Mr. Mowat has been urged to make it a condition of the sale that the timber should be manufactured into lumber in Canada, but the condition was not imposed, and now an effort is being made to have the import duty on sawlogs reimposed. The Toronto News says:—

"The Hamilton Spectator and Montreal Gazette are strongly urging the Dominion Government to reimpose the export duty on logs. The Empire on Saturday practically tendered the same advice. If the Government were not at least open to conviction in this matter it is hardly likely three of its chief mouth-pieces would make use of the language they did make use of. The opportunity afforded by such a favorable state of mind on the part of the Ministry should not be allowed to pass unimproved. A deputation made up of representatives from Collingwood, Owen Sound, Midland, Parry Sound and points in the Algoma districts ought at once to be organized for the purpose of waiting upon Sir John Thompson and pressing for a reimposition of the duty. There can be little doubt that such a request, if put strongly enough, will be granted."

Major Sam.

We clip the following from the Empire.

"HALIFAX, Oct. 17.—Major Sam Hughes, M. P., is on a visit to the province. Mr. Hughes is interested in refrigerator cars, and was showing one at the railway headquarters in Moncton. Being a prominent Orangeman, the major naturally visited his brethren of that order. This furnishes a pretext to the Grits to start a series of cock and bull stories that the major is on a mission to induce the Orangemen to accept Sir John Thompson as Premier; but when it is remembered how great is Sir John's strength in the eastern provinces and how few Orangemen there are in Nova Scotia, the absurdity of the Grit yarn is apparent."

A day later the Globe contained a special from Halifax saying that

"Col. Sam Hughes, M. P. for North Victoria, was in the city yesterday. Last week he visited St. John, Sussex and Moncton, New Brunswick, arriving at Shubenacadie, in this Province, on Saturday night, where he spent Sunday with the Grand Master of the Order of Orangemen. To-day he left for Springhill. At all these points there are lodges of Orangemen, and most of them are recognised headquarters for that order for their respective districts. Your correspondent is informed, on what he believes to be undoubted authority, that Mr. Hughes's mission in the Provinces is to sound Orangemen in regard to the elevation of Sir John Thompson to the Premiership. This statement is based on information given by gentlemen high in the Orange Order and whose information is substantiated by a leading Conservative now visiting Halifax."

The Globe's correspondent's statement is so straight and explicit that there can be no doubt of its correctness; but as Orangism was pretty nearly all Sam's stock in trade when he commenced business as a Tory, it looks rather inconsistent for him to be advocating the claims of a Catholic to the Premiership, and, therefore, the Empire considers it incumbent upon it to ascribe his visit to Nova Scotia to some other cause. Some time ago the gallant and and versatile major had an interest in, or entirely owned, an invention for ventilating cars, which may have proved a failure, as we have heard nothing of it lately, and he appears now to have turned his attention to refrigerators, one of which he ought to keep where he can retire into it when he needs cooling off, which, judging by the Warder, is at least once a week.

Newspaper Items.

Mr. E. T. Adair, a Toronto journalist has recently purchased the Norwood Register, which Mr. J. A. Harper has been running with very fair success during about a dozen years.

On Thursday of last week the Peterborough Examiner appeared in what is called a new dress—that is, it was printed entirely from new type of the very latest and approved faces, the very smallest of it being remarkably easy to read. In an editorial calling attention to the improvement we are told that it involved an outlay of nearly $2,000, including some additions to the jobbing material; and it is to be hoped that a large increase of public patronage will repay the enterprising proprietor, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., for his liberal outlay.

Dropping in, on Tuesday, to pay the Lindsay Post a fraternal visit, we found that great changes had been made by the new proprietors. Formerly the Post occupied two flats or floors, all the type being up stairs, but Messrs. Wilson & Wilson have decided, we think wisely, to have everything on the same level, and, in order to afford sufficient room, a considerable addition was built to the rear end of the ground floor. By the new arrangement there is not only a considerable saving of rent, but no time is lost running up and down stairs, and the foreman can see at a glance all that is going on and whether the junior and senior devils are attending to business or are fighting broadsword combats with the column rules.

The W. C. T. U.

To the women, the Christian women, of our village, those of you who, for one reason or another, stand aloof from temperance work, as such, have you ever seriously asked yourselves the question, "Why am I not engaged in the work known as that of the Women's Christian Temperance Union?" Well, if you have not done so yet, please take a short portion of your valuable time now to ask yourself this important question. Will the answer you give yourself bear scrutiny? I mean the scrutiny of heaven! Have you considered the awful responsibility of a talent unused? Can you estimate the value of that talent? Can you bear the responsibility that must rest upon you with the non-use of such talent? Consider for a moment that you alone can use that committed to you; you cannot place it upon other shoulders; not another individual can do your work but yourself; not a soul in the wide, wide world but yourself will be called to account for the work you should have done. Is it not worth while, mothers, wives, daughters, sisters, friends, to look at this matter? You must look at it in the light of eternity, for it is God alone who has placed the responsibility upon you. Think of it. How will you meet it in the time (it may not be far distant) when your opportunity is gone by? When, perchance, some one will throw back upon you the awful reflection that you failed in your duty in this great matter. There is not one woman in this day who will fail to see, if she will only allow herself to look around, that it will require all the talent and energy of all the Christian community to put away from our midst this soul and body destroying curse, the liquor traffic; and shall the Christian woman stand aloof? Come and help us in our endeavors, as a company of women, banded together to help, by educating public opinion, by prayer, by united effort in every laudable way to aid in this much needed work. You cannot possibly say you have no interest, for that you cannot possibly help having if you are a Christian in the true sense of the name—for Christ came to destroy the works of evil. You cannot truthfully say you have no influence, for there is no person living but has, and women, above all others, ought to wield that influence for good. May your eyes be open to the importance of this matter, so that you may do the duty which is laid upon you, the duty of the hour.

Not Our Story.

The exchange from which we clip the following is mistaken in crediting the first story to the Gazette, though it is one of which any paper might justly be proud:—

A story to the effect that a horse had its shoes torn off by lightning owes its origin to the Fenelon Falls Gazette. It is further stated that the shoes were found lying miles apart. Lightning has been known to play some remarkable tricks at times. A drummer at the hotel a few days ago told a story to the effect that he was driving a rig through a town up west when the electricity struck the bit in the horse's mouth and knocked out several of the brute's teeth. The current then leaped from buckle to buckle tearing them off their moorings and hurling them through the windows on either side of the street. The traveller was hauled before the beak of the place and made to pay handsomely for the damage. The horse which he was driving being uninjured, with the exception of the loss of the molars, his story about the lightning had no weight with the presiding magistrate.

Personals.

Mr. W. R. Madill was at Toronto this week.

Mrs. Irvine Junkin of Bebaygeon has been at the Falls on a visit to her son, Mr. W. T. Junkin, since Tuesday last.

Mr. M. W. Robson of Lindsay was at the Falls yesterday visiting his brother, Mr. Thos. Robson, and other relatives.

Mr. M. Ryan, of the Red Store, returned to the Falls on Wednesday, after spending a few days with his family at Camden East.

Mr. Edward Fitzgerald, who holds a responsible position in a drug store in Buffalo, was at the Falls from Friday until Wednesday, when he left to visit relatives at Parry Harbor, but he will be here again before he returns to Buffalo.

THE RINK.—A meeting of persons in favor of the erection of a skating and curling rink was held in Jordan's hall on Monday evening last, and it was decided to build a rink this fall on the market square. The following gentlemen were chosen as directors:—Henry Austin, Thos. Austin, S. Nevison, W. R. Madill, Thomas Robson, Joseph Heard, James Arnold, J. H. Brandon and R. M. Mason. The directors then elected Mr. Thomas Robson president, Mr. Madill vice-president and Mr. Arnold secretary-treasurer.

THE ECLIPSE.—The weather yesterday was very favorable for observations of the partial eclipse of the sun, and any time between about 11.30 a. m. and 3 p. m. numbers of our villagers might have been seen out of doors gazing at the "glorious orb of day," with one eye closed and a piece of smoked glass before the other. As only a little more than one-half of the moon crossed the upper part of the sun, so small a portion of the latter was obscured that the slight diminution of its light would have been attributed to a cloud, and the eclipse would have been noticed but for few if it had not been duly advertised by the astronomers.

ACCIDENT.—Last Friday evening Walter Hopkins, about 17 years old, third son of Mr. Thomas Hopkins, of Verulam, met with a serious accident while riding a horse along the road near his father's place. He had mounted without either saddle or bridle, and while pulling on the halter shank to restrain the horse, which seemed dis-
