Retirement of Mr. Meredith.

The rumor that the Hon. W. R. Meredith, leader of the Ontario Opposition, was about to retire from politics proved true, and he has been appointed to the position of Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, a position for which his character and abilities eminently fit him. What the Conservatives will do without him remains to be seen, as he was by long odds their best man, and of those spoken of as likely to succeed him there is not one fit to fill his shoes.
Although the position of Chief Justice, with a salary of $6,000 a year, is a snug as well as an honorable one, it is hardly probable that Mr. Meredith would have resigned the leadership of the Opposition if he had seen any probability of reaching the goal towards which he has been struggling for many years, and as—certainly in this case—"actions speak louder than words," we look upon his retirement as an admission of his belief in the impregnability of Sir Oliver Mowat's position. But, whatever his motive, he allowed himself to be wafted from the stormy sea of politics into still waters. May he float in peace.

A Chinese Boodler.

Sheng, the Taotai (whatever that is) of Tien-Tsui, recently bought 300,000 discarded rifles from Germany, for which he paid two taels each and charged the Chinese Government nine taels—an offence for which he ought to have had the cat-o'-nine-tails, though it is said that Li-Hung Chang, the official before whom he was brought, only slapped his face. As a tael is about $1.50, Sheng cleared over $3,000,000 by the transaction, besides what he made out of a lot of useless cartridges that he also bought. We have long been aware that the heathen Chinese was greatly addicted to petty dishonesty, but we did not know that he was as well versed in the art and mystery of boodling as if he had taken a degree of rascality at the capital city of the Dominion of Canada. To be sure, Sheng charged his Government only a little over four times what he paid for the rifles; but there were so many of them that he could afford to be moderate: if he had been under the necessity of making the same amount out of a much smaller transaction, he might have felt it incumbrant upon him to obtain the fourteen prices once charged for printing at Ottawa. According to Sam Hughes, one religion is as good as another if you only think so, and, really, as far as it helps one to get rich in a hurry is concerned, there seems to be very little to choose between Christianity and the religion of the followers of Confucius.

Fire Protection.

On Saturday last the hand fire-engine sent to the Falls on approval by the Canada Rubber Co. of St. Catharines was tried on the main street, and, as it was found to be not much better than the one already owned by the corporation and greatly inferior to Mr. Sand-ford's force pump, the council very wisely decided not to buy it; but the company's representative was consoled for his disappointment by an order for 400 feet of new hose, the purchase of which was authorized by a motion in council at the special meeting held on Monday evening. Added to what is already owned by the village and by Mr. Sandford, there will be enough to reach to the corner of Colborne and Bond streets, or 1,100 feet in any other direction; and, as the powerful force-pump in the red mill has just been put into perfect working order and supplied with 1,000 feet of new hose purchased from the Toronto Rubber Co., the centre, or business portion, of the village is well protected from fire. But ratepayers outside of the favored circle think they ought to have a certain amount of protection also, and the least that can be done for them is to make the engine—which will throw a good-sized stream a considerable distance—less of a "man-killer" by thoroughly repairing it and replacing the cylinder that is worn out with a new one. How to convey water (for fire-quenching purposes) to houses remote from the river or a creek is still a vexed question; but we think now, as we did years ago, that the simplest, most effective and cheapest plan is to have a number of water-carts, each capable of holding about a ton, kept under a shed near the river, with whatever device will fill them in the fewest possible number of seconds.
