MASONIC EXCURSION.—Do not forget the Freemason's excursion to Chemong Park on Tuesday, the 25th inst. The Crandella will leave the Fenelon Falls wharf at 7.30 a. m.; returning, will leave the park at 4.30 p. m. calling at Sturgeon Point going and coming. Fare for the round trip 25 cents—the cheapest excursion, so far, of the season.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—At Cobocook, on Tuesday last, a boy fell from the bracket of the slide (which is undergoing repairs) into the eddy, and Mr. J. H. Harvey promptly jumped in after him. Our informant says that if help had not been at hand they would both have been drowned, and, as it was, they had a narrow escape. Mr. Harvey's heroic conduct in thus risking his own life to save the life of another justly entitles him, in our opinion, to the Royal Humane Society's medal.

SORRY TO HEAR IT.—We are sorry to hear that at Kinmount, on the 12th of July, Bro. Delomere of the Minden Echo was thrown from the back of the horse on which he was doing the King William act and somewhat seriously injured. Fortunately no bones were broken; but he tells us in last week's Echo, (the proofs of which he was apparently unable to read) that Dr. Frost spent over an hour dressing his wounds and putting the best face he could upon him to enable him to appear before his friends.

A SUCCESS.—The Methodist musical tournament at Sturgeon Point on Wednesday last was a great success, so many people arriving by boat from Lindsay that the Crandella had to make two trips, while the Esturion and the Dominion's barge were crowded to their utmost capacity. The Maple Leaf and barge ran from here to the Point under the auspices of the village band, and a good many went; but there would probably have been double the number if the fare had been lower and the tournament—with which all who heard it were delighted—had been properly advertised.

A shower of a million half-inch toads is reported about Grand Falls. The roads are covered with them. It is thought they were swept up the river by a waterspout that occurred a few days ago.

Snow five feet in depth is not usually seen in mid-summer in our Canadian climate, yet workmen removing cinders from the pit in front of the Union depot at Brockville, unearthed it on Saturday morning. The snow was packed just as solid as in mid-winter.

It is an old saying that there is never a minute of the day without a grey horse on London Bridge. But certainly not once in a generation does a horse of any color spring over the parapet of that structure and dive into the river. This happened the other day when a horse harnessed to a dog cart bolted, breaking both shafts and clearing himself of the trapping, took the leap. The beast was but little the worse for the plunge and injured nobody. This is all the more remarkable, seeing that the crush of traffic under the bridge is usually second only to that upon it.

One day last week a number of steers were being weighed on the scales, and one of the number got very wild and made a dash for freedom. The animal no doubt feeling dry, started for the Queen's Hotel, went in an open door into a sitting room, then into a dining room, making things lively around the tables, and then out on the street again, coming in contact with the well of the hotel, tearing up the platform, miraculously escaping taking a header into the well, then took a northward course, almost running over R. Osborne, and finally ran down the street past F. G. Tremayne's residence into the river and in J. R. Bourchier's field.—Sutton Herald.

Sir George Humphrey has (says the Hospital) investigated the life-histories of centenarians in England with the view of ascertaining the causes and circumstances of longevity. As one reads of the habits and life of these men and women who attain the age of a hundred years or more, one is struck by the fact that they are almost invariably lean people, of spare habit, and of great moderation in eating and drinking. Of thirty-seven, three took no animal food, four took very little, twenty a little, nineteen a moderate amount, and only one acknowledged taking much meat. With regard to alcohol, the returns are much the same, and abstemiousness is found to be the rule of life of these centenarians.

Six persons were killed by the heat in Chicago on Friday.

No rain has fallen on the south side of Wolfe Island since April 16.

Miss Willa Frith, aged 14, was stung by an infuriated honey bee at Princeton, Ont., on Saturday and died in convulsions in 15 minutes.

Saturday's storm caused a number of fatalities in Ontario, and reports of barns burned by lightning have been received from many sections.

Objections having been made to the sending of leather bound bibles with gilt edges to the south seas as a needless luxury in the mission field, it is announced that the strong binding is necessary on account of the humidity of the climate, and that the gilt edges are not so much an ornament as "an armor plating against the attacks of cockroaches and the white ant."

A Sun's special from Chicago says: Miss Marcella Berg, the woman trainer at Hugenback's circus in Midway Plaisance, was fiercely attacked by a half-wild tiger on July 13. Before the enraged beast could be torn from the body of his victim, the woman was severely bitten and blood was streaming from three ugly wounds in her right thigh. The exciting encounter took place in the arena before a large audience. Five women fainted at the sight. Miss Berg was seriously wounded, and after an exciting contest between the wild animal and three trainers, she was rescued from the cage. She is now in a hospital.

The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade says: The harvest began on Thursday on the southern slope, and is now in progress in Sussex. It will commence on July 17 in parts of Kent, Essex and Hampshire. On the best lands a crop of good quality, condition and weight is expected, but the plant is too thin in ground for a big yield. It is expected that the yield generally will be fifteen per cent under the average. The average price of English wheat is still a long way on the wrong side of 30 shillings. There is a prospect of a short crop in the North, but this has not exerted any appreciable influence on the market.
