Eating His Words.

In his answer to an article in United Canada Sam Hughes says:—

"The files of The Warder are all extant. The hardest and most bitter articles we ever wrote have been published over and over again by our opponents and circulated not only in Victoria but in all Canada. If the Jesuit who edits United Canada will produce one article, paragraph, sentence, word or reference wherein 'Sam Hughes, M. P.' or The Warder has ever slandered a nun or blackguarded a priest, we will present that individual with our grand orange regalia, and forever after wear any garb on the 12th July he chooses to name."

In the Warder of October 4th, 1889, Sam Hughes spoke of the bishop of Kingston as "high cook-lorum Cleary," and of the priests of this county as "the gang running the soul saving and pocket-picking machines for the romish church in Victoria"; and in his next issue he called the Pope "a dotting old fellow away on the banks of the Tiber in Italy" and said "every priest is directly inspired by some one, be it from above or below; and every citizen's duty is to go to that mass of fat, and find out from the oracle how he should think and act." In 1889 Sam Hughes wanted to get a seat in Parliament, and tried to work up Orange enthusiasm in his favor by grossly insulting the Catholics. Now he has got the desired seat, and is trying to propitiate his Catholic constituents and at the same time retain the favor of the Orangemen; and to attain his double purpose is either eating his own words or is prepared to assert, (if cornered,) that he never slandered a nun or blackguarded a priest because all he ever said or wrote about the one or the other was true.

Troublous Times.

It really looks as if Fenelon Falls had fallen upon troublous times, as three "difficulties" (as the Yankees would call them) requiring the gentle hand of the law to settle them have occurred within a very few days, as per following statements:—

Mr. Henry Redner, Mr. John Bell and his son-in-law, Mr. William Duggan all live on Redner's Point near the south end of the old railway bridge that has just been pulled down to make room for a new one, and Mr. Brown, the foreman of the gang who performed the work of demolition, gave Mr. Redner a few unmercantable pieces of old timber, upon which the juvenile offspring of Messrs. Bell and Duggan are said to have laid unlawful hands. The brevity of human existence, the limited dimensions of the Gazette, and the trifling importance of a war, in which no more lethal weapons than tongues were used, combine to prevent us from going into particulars; so we skip all that occurred between the date of the alleged theft and Friday morning last, when Mr. Bell was up before Col. Deacon in Jordan's hall on a charge of assault. Mr. R. J. McLaughlin of Lindsay appeared for Mr. Redner and Mr. McSweeney for Mr. Bell; and as no blows were struck, there having been nothing but an exchange of left handed compliments, the case was dismissed. Mr. Redner thereupon laid a charge of using profane language against Mr. Bell and Mr. Duggan, and Mr. Bell laid a similar charge against Mr. Redner; and the three cases, if not adjourned, will be tried this (Friday) forenoon.

One day last week J. C. Parrish and James Miller of Fenelon went in Mr. Parrish's wagon to Digby to pick berries, of which they got about two pailsful each. On their way home they parted company at Powles's Corners, where their roads diverged, and Miller left his berries, which were in a box rather inconvenient to carry, at Mr. W. H. Powles's store and went on to Mr. Hepburn's, where he is staying. In the evening Hepburn and Miller drove to the Corners to get the berries, but Mr. Powles said they could not have them until Miller paid 60 cents he owed for goods got in the store and returned a file he had borrowed. Miller said he had cut enough wood to pay for the goods and that the file was at Gillis's; and in the wordy war that ensued he used such insulting language that Powles seized a broomstick and chased him berryless out of the shop. Next day Miller went to Lindsay and consulted Messrs. McLaughlin & McLaughlin, who promptly wrote a "threatening letter" to Mr. Powles, and he, fearing he had done wrong in retaining the berries, took them to Hepburn's and remitted to the lawyers a sum sufficient to compensate them for their services and pay Miller for his railway fare and lost time. But that didn't end the matter, for on Saturday Mr. Powles came to the Falls and laid an information against Miller, who on Monday evening was fined 50 cents and costs (total $6.10) by Robert McFarland, J. P., for using profane and indecent language. All of which goes to show that law is a good thing to keep out of, and that strong language sometimes costs a great deal more than the satisfaction of indulging in it is worth. In this case the costs were high in consequence of county constable Nevison having to run all over Fenelon to find his man, and it was probably in consideration thereof that the magistrate imposed so small a fine.

On Wednesday evening Robert McFarland, J. P., fined two boys—one from the village and one from Fenelon—the sum of $1 and costs (the total in each case amounting to $4.20) for fighting on Sunday last. As the boys are respectable and this is their first offence, and everybody here knows who they are, it is not necessary to publish their names. As far as we can learn they were about equally to blame. The country boy used such exasperating language regarding the village boy that the latter, hearing his enemy was at the Falls, hunted him up, with the avowed intention of "licking" him, which intention he would undoubtedly have carried out if he had not, unfortunately, got licked himself.

Village Council Proceedings.

Council met pursuant to adjournment; Members present J. A. Ellis, reeve, and councillors Arnold, Brandon and Golden. Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Moved by J. H. Brandon, seconded by J. Arnold, That the following accounts be paid and the reeve give his orders for the same:—C. Stewart, advertising and diphtheria notices, $2; Bell Telephone Co., messages to Bobcaygeon re diphtheria, 50c.; John Jones, L-month's salary as constable, $12.50; D. Sullivan, 4 days' work on Louise Street, $5; Rowsall & Hutchison, two receipt books, $1; Osler & Co., advice re Napane Paper Co., $25.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Brandon, seconded by Mr. Arnold, That the council now adjourn until Thursday, the 10th inst., at 3 o'clock p. m.—Carried.

Camping Out.

A party consisting of Mrs. Hand, Miss Healey, Miss Cameron, Miss Rutherford, Miss Roberts, Miss Hand, Miss Edith Hand and Messrs. J. D. Cameron, D. R. Weir, J. W. Brion, M. D., W. B. Jordan, Chas. Burgoyne, R. E. DeLury, James Keith, Joseph Robson and Clair McArthur are camping out on Ball Island, Balsam Lake, where all but two of them have been since Monday morning. On Wednesday they were visited by Mr. & Mrs. Burgoyne, Mrs. J. H. Brandon and daughter, Miss Jennings of Rochester, Miss Emily Hand and "us," all of whom went up on the little steam yacht Nobby, of which Mr. Burgoyne is owner, captain and man at the wheel, while Mr. Edward Avery officiates in the double capacity of engineer and coal heaver. The Islanders were having a glorious time, as the weather was delightful and the fishing excellent, and while we were there a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Carnegie of Indian Point, for supplying them with a pail of milk per diem and

refusing pay therefor, was carried unanimously. If the weather keep fine the (3)campers out will not return until to-morrow week, and they are daily expecting to be joined by the Rev. Carl Smith, Vernon Smith and J. R. Hand.

Personals.

Mr. Harry Robson is spending his holidays with relatives at Beaverton.

Mr. George Lamb, Jr., of Onemee, is visiting his relatives at Fenelon Falls. Master Norman C. Maynard of Bowmanville is visiting his relatives at the Falls.

Mr. Edward Fitzgerald is visiting his brother, Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, at Parry Harbor.

Miss Jennings of Rochester, N. Y., is at the Falls visiting her old school-mate, Mrs. John H. Brandon.

Miss Ida Burgess left last week to visit her sister and other relatives in the "fair" city of Chicago.

Mrs. John Finney of South Dakota and her sister, Mrs. Woods of South Monaghan, are visiting friends in and near Fenelon Falls.

Miss Annie McCallum, eldest daughter of Mr. Robert McCallum of this village, has returned home, after a residence of about a year in Chicago.

Mrs. Jackson Hayes of Michigan and her sister, Miss Sarah Prescott of Toronto, are both visiting their parents in the township of Fenelon.

Mr. Thomas Robson left on Wednesday for a visit to his relatives and friends in the North of England, and we shall not see him again until some time in November.

Miss Lengeman of Rochester, N. Y., who has been visiting the past three weeks at Mr. W. T. Junkin's, left for home last Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Junkin and Miss Lily Wilson, who will remain for about a fortnight.

Mr. William Cameron left on Tuesday for Orillia, near Seattle, in the State of Washington, where his brothers have a flourishing general business. Mrs. Cameron and the baby will follow him under the escort of her brother-in-law, Mr. James Cameron, Jr., who is still at the Falls.

Mr. Joseph Heard's first letter to his family since, after a rough and unpleasant passage, he reached England was received by Tuesday's mail. It was written in London, but he was on the point of leaving for Devonshire. He found that death had cut off many of his old acquaintances in the big city, and will no doubt miss many once familiar faces in the country as well.

NOTICE.—Rev. W. J. Creighton of Bobcaygeon will conduct the services at St. Peter's church, Fenelon Falls, and St. Peter's church, Verulam, on Sunday next.

Monster Sale

of Boots and Shoes. Balance of summer stock selling regardless of cost. Thousands of dollars' worth to be sold at less than cost to market them. Don't miss the opportunity of a lifetime.

JOHNSTON & SISSON,

The Monster Shoe Store,
Lindsay.

DENTAL.—Don't fail to call on J. Neelands the dentist at the McArthur House on Tuesday, August 15th. Call early in the day if possible. Teeth extracted with vitalized air and local anaesthetics.

A GOOD JOB.—If any of the Lindsay masons want to see a good job of work, let them trot out to Mr. Eli Worsley's in Fenelon, where Mr. J. Sloan and Mr. W. Hamilton are building a stone wall. They needn't take a back seat for anybody in their line on business.

WALKS AND ROADS.—A few days ago Mr. Wise was patching up the village sidewalks, and now Mr. Jackett is depositing loads of gravel here and there on the roads, where they will do the most good. Some new sidewalks are to be built before long by Mr. Wise, who has taken the contract at 25 cents per rod—low enough, in all conscience.

TO-MORROW.—It is expected that there will be a big day in town to-morrow, and no end of temporary restaurants and refreshment booths are now springing into existence. Preparations are being made for the erection of representations of the walls and gates of Derry, which will be finished some time this evening, but we have not heard whether the "noble thirteen" who are to act the part of the historical 'Prentices have yet been selected or not.

ANOTHER PRODIGY.—About four months ago Major Sam Hughes solemnly announced his conviction that his own "twelve-year old boy and nine-year-old girl" had more common sense than all the councillors and clergymen in Lindsay combined; and now Sam's brother, James L. Hughes, not to be outdone, comes out and tells the world that he's got a prodigy too. He has been to the Chicago Fair, and in talking of it said: "It is worth going merely to see the buildings. I thoroughly
