Bishops have made experimental use of nearly all the titles in existence.

There are in England, according to Lodge, only seven peers of the blood royal.

Barons are styled The Right Honorable Lord, and addressed as My Lord.

All members of the families of peers have their titles of honor, varying with rank.

A Duke is styled His Grace, the Duke of, and addressed as My Lord, Duke or Your Grace.

There are five orders of nobility in England—the Duke, Marquis, Earl, Viscount and Baron.

"Your Honor" is now devoted to judges.

English judges are addressed as "Your Lordship."

The race of Baronets was created by James I. in 1611, and is found only in Great Britain.

In formal letters to a Duke it is etiquette to begin, "My Lord Duke, may it please your Grace."

A Marquis is styled The Most Honorable, the Marquis of—, and addressed as My Lord Marquis.

The speaker of a representative body was the officer chosen to address the crown on their behalf.

An Archbishop is styled The Most Reverend, His Grace, the Archbishop of Canterbury or York, etc.

The title baron was formerly very honorable, and the official was vested with many important powers.

Earl and Baron were titles created by William I. instead of the old Saxon titles Alderman or Earl and Thane.

All Catholic princes give the Pope the title of Holy Father or Venerable Father; in reply he calls them My Dearest.

A Prince of Wales is of age from his birth, and a chair is placed for him on the right of the throne in the House of Lords.

The title justice, applied to a judge, comes from England, where many judicial officers have for ages been termed justices.

THE GORILLA AT HOME.

What a Scientific Traveler Discovered in the African Jungle.

The usual pictures of the gorilla do not represent him as I have seen him, writes R. L. Garner in McClure's Magazine. He has not only a crouching habit, but he walks on all four of his legs, and has the motion of most quadrupeds, using his right arm and left leg at the same time, and alternates with the left arm and right leg. It is not exactly a walk or a trot, but a kind of ambling gait, while the chimpanzee uses his arms as crutches, but lifts one foot from the ground a little in advance of the other. They do not place the palm of the hand on the ground, but use the back of the fingers from the second joint, and at times the one I have described above seemed to touch only the back of the nails, but this was when she was scarcely moving at all.

On reaching Ste. Anne I selected a site for my cage and erected it at once. It is located in the jungle, a trifle more than a mile from any human habitation, and I named it Fort Gorilla. It is in a spot where nothing but the denizen of the bush has any cause to come. It is near a grove of plantations, on which the gorilla feasts with a gusto of a charter member of the Gourmand club. He does not care so much for the fruit, but takes out the tender heart of the young stalk which is quite succulent, and eats it with an appetite peculiar to his race.

Before my cage was quite in order to receive I had my first call from a young gorilla, who came within about ten yards, as if to see what was going on. I had my rifle in my hand, but did not fire at him, as I desired him to call again and bring friends. He didn't tarry long, but hurried off to the bush as though he had something to tell.

The third day after my cage was completed a family of ten gorillas crossed the rear of the open grounds belonging to the mission and not more than 200 yards from the house. A small native boy was within some twenty yards of them when they crossed the path in front of him. Within a few minutes I was notified of the fact and took my rifle and followed them into the bush until I lost their trail. A few hours later they were seen again by some natives not far away from the cage, but they did not call on me. The next day, however, I had a visit from a group who came within some thirty yards of the cage. The bush was so dense that I could not see them, but could easily distinguish four or five voices, which seemed to be engaged in a family broil of some kind. I suppose that they were the same family that had been seen the day before.

Nature Has Provided

A remedy for every ache and pain, and science through ceaseless activity and experiment is constantly wresting the secrets of her domain. A new and wonderful discovery has recently been made by means of which tens of thousands will be freed from pain. Nerviline, or nerve pain cure, represents in very concentrated form the most potent pain relieving substitutes known to medical science, and strange to say it is composed of substitutes solely vegetable in origin. Polson's Nerviline is the most prompt, certain, and pleasant pain remedy in the world. Sold in 10 and 25 cent bottles by druggists and all dealers in medicines.

Colorless, Emaciated, Helpless

A Complete Cure by HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is from Mr. D. M. Jordan, a retired farmer, and one of the most respected citizens of Otsego Co., N. Y.

"Fourteen years ago I had an attack of the gravel, and have since been troubled with my

Liver and Kidneys

gradually growing worse. Three years ago I got down so low that I could scarcely walk. I looked more like a corpse than a living being. I had no appetite and for five weeks I ate nothing but gruel. I was badly emaciated and had no more color than a marble statue. Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and I thought I would try it. Before I had finished the first bottle I noticed that I felt better; suffered less, the inflammation of the bladder had subsided, the color began to return to my face, and I began to feel hungry. After I had taken three bottles I could eat anything without hurting me. Why, I got so hungry that I had to eat 5 times a day. I have now fully recovered, thanks to

Hood's Sarsaparilla

I feel well and am well. All who know me marvel to see me so well." D. M. JORDAN.

The Beauty Standard.

The standard of female loveliness varies greatly in different countries and with individual tastes. Some prefer the plump and buxom type; some admire the slender and sylph-like, and some the tall and queenly maiden. But among all people of the Caucasian race, one point of beauty is always admired—a pure, clear and spotless complexion—whether the female be of the blonde, brunette, or hazel-eyed type. This first great requisite of loveliness can be assured only by a pure state of the blood, active liver, good appetite and digestion, all of which are secured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is guaranteed to accomplish all that is claimed for it, or money refunded. If you would have a clear, lovely complexion, free from eruptions, moth patches, spots and blemishes, use the "Golden Medical Discovery."

"German Syrup"

G. Gloger, Druggist, Watertown, Wis. This is the opinion of a man who keeps a drug store, sells all medicines, comes in direct contact with the patients and their families, and knows better than anyone else how remedies sell, and what true merit they have. He hears of all the failures and successes, and can therefore judge: "I know of no medicine for Coughs, Sore Throat, or Hoarseness that had done such effective work in my family as Boschee's German Syrup. Last winter a lady called to my store, who was suffering from a very severe cold. She could hardly talk, and I told her about German Syrup and that a few doses would give relief; but she had no confidence in patent medicines. I told her to take a bottle, and if the results were not satisfactory I would make no charge for it. A few days after she called and paid for it, saying that she would never be without it in future as a few doses had given her relief." @
