

He Had Been Fishing.

BUT FOR SOME REASON HE DID NOT DISPLAY A LARGE STRING.

He was an honest faced young man who had been off for a day's fishing and was returning home with a reasonably fine string and much self satisfaction. He had scarcely boarded the street car, however, when a passenger with a deep voice growled out:

"Yes; I was out fishing myself one day last week. I brought home 20 pounds. I bought 'em of a regular fisherman!"

A giggle was heard here and there among the passengers, and then a man with a squeaky voice observed:

"I've played the game myself, but it was years ago, when I was a bad man. I bought 'em from the fisherman and brought 'em down home and lied about 'em—lied in the most barefaced and shameful manner! Yes, gentlemen, that is the one regret of my life!"

The young man with the fish was red faced and uncomfortable, and as he was hitching around a man with a wart on his nose called out in a loud voice:

"Gentlemen, I don't deny that I love whiskey, but I am not a liar! I get drunk and smash things, but I reverence the truth. Before I would lie about fish I would torture myself at the stake!"

Eight or ten passengers clapped their hands in applause, and then a hatchet-faced young man rolled up his eyes and exclaimed:

"They not only lie to the public, but go home and lie to their poor, innocent wives and trusting children!"

The honest-faced young man saw that all were against him, and he decided to leave the car. As he rose up to motion to the conductor, a fat man who had been drowsing roused up and said:

"Gentlemen, I date my downfall from that one thing—from the first lie I told about fish. I hired a man to kill me a dozen with a crowbar, and then I brought 'em home and swore I caught 'em on my own hook and line. I lied about it—deliberately and maliciously lied—and Providence—"

"All off!", shouted the conductor as the car stopped.

The young man with the injured feeling got down and pulled his fish after him, and the fat man continued:

"And Providence punished me for it. Gentlemen, if I was to live my life over again, if I could only be set back 30 years, I might rob and steal and cheat and even do murder, but I would not sneak off for the day and then return at night and buy fish at the wharf and take 'em home to my confiding wife and!"

And the car rolled on, and the young man with the perch and bass and fish-pole stood in the gloaming and looked after it and clinched his hands and gritted his teeth and whispered cuss words, and an hour later a pedestrian stumbled over something on the sidewalk and got up to rub his knees and elbows and called out in amazement:

"Well, I'll be hanged if some liar hasn't stopped here to lie and gone away and left his fish behind!"

She'd Had Enough.

There was a colored baptizing at Sandy Bottom, Billville. The last convert to go under the water was an old colored woman, who all the while had been seated in a rickety buggy drawn by an ancient mule who had been through the civil war. She came up out of the water all right, but after proceeding a short distance on her way home the mule became unmanageable and upset the buggy in the middle of a deep creek. The old woman, with drenched garments, clung to a "foot log" just as the parson who had recently baptized her rode up.

He heard her swearing at the refractory mule in vigorous terms; then, taking her in his own buggy and driving to dry land, he said:

"Sister Cal'us, you hez done los' all de salvation what come ter you by de fust baptism; so you must stop right heah en be baptized over ergin."

"No, suh!" was the reply. "I ain't gwine in dat water no mo'! Didnt' dat ole mule baptize me de secon' time?"

Smart Alex.

A man being about to die summoned his four sons to his side and said:

"My sons, I will leave to John one-third of my estate, to Alex one-fifth, to James one-half and to Thomas one-fourth, and thus you will all Share Equally."

John and James and Thomas took Pencil and began figuring, but Alex took his Hat and started out.

"Where are you going?" the other three asked. "Do you not intend figuring out the Problem?"

"Not much," said Alex. "I am going for a Lawyer to break the Will."

NEWSPAPER LAW.

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning the paper does not answer the law), when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office and state the reasons for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.

2. If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.

3. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the pay.

4. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post-office. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

5. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
