Football Casualties.

The football season is over, and the list of dead and seriously injured has been made up. In the United States there were six men killed and five others so seriously injured that they are not expected to recover. The list of dead, crippled and maimed in this past season is greater than that of any previous year. In Ontario, so far as we know, no one has died from injuries received on the gridiron, though many have been seriously injured. The Canadian game is not so rough as the American, though, in all conscience, it is rough enough.
An effort should be made in both Canada and the United States to change the rules so that the game shall be less dangerous to life and limb. Some such attempt has been made in the United States, but without success, if we may judge by the result of this season's games.

Among those who have suffered serious injuries during his football course, Vernon White, of Attleboro', Mass., stands unique. Here is his record:

- 1895—Left leg broken above knee joint.
- 1895—Left collarbone broken.
- 1895—Right ankle sprained.
- 1896—Nose broken twice.
- 1896—Back severely wrenched.
- 1897—Three fingers on left hand broken.
- 1897—Ankle broken.
- 1898—Rib broken.
- 1898—Wrist broken.
- 1899—Left leg fractured and splintered.
- 1900—Head severely injured.
- 1900—Two ribs broken.
- 1900—Legs temporarily paralyzed, resulting from kick.
- 1900—The ribs previously fractured were re-broken.

Still he says, "Football is a great game, however, and I would rather play it than eat a Thanksgiving dinner every day."

When such are the sentiments of a man who has had nearly every bone in his body broken, we can hardly expect to see very much improvement in the game. It is but fair to say however, that in the larger universities, where the men are properly trained and coached, there were no fatalities. It was only among the footballers of the smaller colleges that the fatal accidents occurred.—Kingston News.

Wolves Attack a Funeral Party.

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 5.—Since the beginning of the winter the wolves have made nightly visits to the little settlements in this neighborhood. Friday the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Adolphe Hauon, two miles from Rosseau, died. The funeral was set for Saturday, and when the hour arrived the parents and half a dozen neighbors carried the casket to the burying ground near by. Just as the body was being lowered into the grave, a pack of wolves rushed from the underbrush around the cemetery and came within fifty feet of the funeral party, snarling, and now and then advancing a few feet.

The leader of the pack, a gigantic wolf, finally made a dash into the party of mourners, and bit Axel Johnson on the left leg. This attack emboldened the rest of the animals, and they came to the aid of their leader. For a few minutes a battle royal raged, the mourners striving to protect themselves, and at the same time to prevent the wolves from reaching the coffin. After several of the men and one of the women had been bitten by the wolves a fire was started around the grave, near the edge of which the little party hovered, and this prevented a further attack.

The mourners remained on guard until a party of settlers appeared with rifles and drove the wolves off.

Describes the "Long Toms."

Private Frank McMillen, of this city, who is a member of the Strathcona Horse, in his last letter to his aunt, Miss Blythe, of 9 Hanover street, gives his experience with some of the "Long Toms" which are still being operated by the Boers. It was in the latter part of October that they were camped at Kruger's Post, where the Boers began to shell them with two Long Toms and a "Silent Sue." He writes:

"A Long Tom shell weighs about 94 lbs., and is about the size of a cook stove. After they landed about four or five in the camp without doing any damage, we got an order to take our horses behind a donga, and I was just putting the bit in my horse's mouth when we heard a big fellow singing, and we all ran for a waggon about 10 feet away. Before we got there it had gone right amongst our horses and was close enough to us to make us feel the wind of it. When the smoke and dust had cleared away I found only part of my horse. The other part was scattered all over the shop. He got it right in the out box, and one leg was gone altogether and a piece of segment had gone into his brain and blown it out. Another horse got his front legs taken clean off, and in the South African camp three men were killed and five wounded. One poor fellow was blown all to pieces. He heard the shell coming and hid behind the saddle, but the saddle and he both went up in the air, and both came down in little bits. The roads were so bad that for days our transport could not come up with us, and we had to go hungry and without cover. We all expected to get home before Christmas, but there is a rumour going around that we have to stay another three months."—Montreal Star.

Winston Churchill.

The Globe says:—"The War as I Saw It" is the title of the principal lecture which Winston Churchill, M.
P., will give during his brief stay on this side of the Atlantic. Mr. Churchill arrived in New York on Saturday, and will shortly visit Canada, spending Christmas with their Excellencies Lord and Lady Minto. At the age of 26 he is the veteran of four wars, the author of six books and a member of Parliament. Lord Roberts in Africa and Lord Kitchener in Egypt both have borne testimony to his ability, and no higher compliment could have been paid any military lecturer than that which was paid him by Lord Wolseley, who acted as chairman at his first lecture in London, England. Mr.
Churchill gives his first lecture in Canada at Windsor Hall, Montreal, on December 26th. He will speak in Ottawa the following night, and will visit Toronto, Hamilton, London, Kingston, St. Thomas. It is expected that Colonel Otter will introduce him at his lecture in Toronto."

It is stated that the squadrons of the British navy in the English channel and the Mediterranean are deficient in cruisers.

From a careful review of the list of Liberals just elected in Quebec it is found that 16 of the 64 so far returned are English-speaking.

Ottawa Military men are talking of giving a concert in aid of Private Malloy of Morrisburg, who lost his eyesight during one of the engagements in South Africa.

There are persistent rumors in Protoria that the natives in the Lydenburg and Zoutbansberg district have risen against the Boers, and the news is enroberated by natives coming from different districts.

The Yukon's imports of machinery and merchandise last summer exceeded thirty thousand tons, over 65 per cent. of which entered from Canadian ports. The gold export records show that $14,255,500 was taken out of the country during that period.
