ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion. About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely. I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever. I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation. Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost. INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

The Liberal Candidate.

Mr. Louis F. Heyd, the Liberal candidate for East Victoria in the coming Provincial election, held his first regular meeting on Wednesday evening in Dickson's hall, which was well filled from the platform to the door. Mr. James Dickson, President of the Liberal association, occupied the chair, and, after a brief introductory speech, gave place to Mr. Heyd, who commenced by expressing regret that Mr. Carnegie was unable to attend and at the absence of a friend and supporter of his who had promised to be present but who failed to put in an appearance. It would take a good stenographer and several columns of fine type to do justice to Mr. Heyd's address, which, notwithstanding his rapid utterance, riveted the attention of his hearers for nearly two hours, and at its conclusion we heard more than one of them say, significantly, "he'll do," an opinion from which no one can dissent. The Liberal candidate is just what a candidate ought to be; he is brimful of facts and figures, has what phrenologists call the "organ of language" largely developed, and possesses a voice that can be easily heard by persons sitting at the far end of the largest hall. Mr. John D. Naylor, of Fenelon, who is a supporter of Mr. Carnegie, had been invited by the chairman to take a seat upon the platform, and put a few questions to Mr. Heyd, who answered them all to the satisfaction of the audience. Some choice musical selections by the village orchestra enlivened the proceedings, which were concluded by the usual cheers and a verse of the national anthem. Mr. Heyd, accompanied by Mr. Dickson and driven by Mr. E. R. Edwards, is now on the first of the three tours he intends to make throughout the riding, and we feel sure that even those of his hearers who will not vote for him will be compelled to admit that he is just the right kind of man to send to Parliament, and that when he goes there the constituency will have every reason to feel proud of him.

Farmers' Institute Work.

Mr. Simpson Rennie, of Toronto, in speaking of his recent trip through New Brunswick in connection with the Farmers' Institute work of that Province, says that the meetings were generally well attended, and a lively interest taken in the discussions. Mr. Rennie also attended the Nova Scotia Dairy-men's meeting at Amherst, on the 23rd, 24th and 25th of January, and the meeting of the New Brunswick Farmers' and Dairy-men's Association at Fredericton, on the 28th, 29th and 30th, delivering addresses on the "Cultivation of Corn, Field Roots and Potatoes" and "The Requirements of the Beef Markets." At both of these meetings the delegates and others present appeared to take a great interest in the proceedings. "Judging from what I could see when travelling through the country," continued Mr. Rennie, "very much more should be done in the breeding and feeding of both cattle and hogs, but, before very much is done, a better class of animals should be introduced. Sheep raising should be more extensively gone into, especially where the land is dry and rolling. Dairying is carried on somewhat extensively and with fair success, but in some localities the isolated condition of the patrons is found to be a great drawback to the industry. From my observations, thousands of acres of land are only yielding small returns for want of underdraining, but when these things are better understood, considering the intelligence of the people, we may look for great things in the near future."

A Growing Question.

Under the above heading the Toronto Star says:

"It might not be amiss if the attitude of Premier Ross on the question of public and municipal ownership were adopted by some of his ministers. Premier Ross, without having so far committed himself to the principle, meets it with an enquiring mind, and recognizes the force of reason that moves in it. Unless we are entirely mistaken in the signs of the times, and in the soundness of the principle, the question of municipal ownership and the larger question of Governmental ownership will grow in force until they become, more than anything else, the issues on which parties will divide. This, we think, will be particularly the case in Provincial politics, where decisive issues are scarce, and where the rights of municipalities can be asserted with an effect not hitherto done. Viewing the matter in this light, we are pleased to see the attitude of Premier Ross, and commend it to the other members of his Cabinet."

The feeling in favor of public and municipal ownership is growing in every country in which there are "public utilities" to own, and public ownership is the principle plank in the Socialists' platform. The masses are getting tired of being exploited for the benefit of a few, and almost every day we see in print some indication of an addition to the ranks of those who believe that it is "time for a change" in this respect. The soundness of the principle of public ownership cannot be disputed, and in course of time it will be the rule, instead of the exception, as it now is.

Ruskin on Women and War.

Mr. George T. Angell, editor of and chief writer in "Our Dumb Animals," the organ of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is opposed—as all real Christians are—to any war that is not purely in self defence; and in the last issue of that publication quotes the words of John Ruskin, who, at the close of a lecture on war, said to the ladies present: "Only by your command, or by your permission, can any war take place among us. And the real final reason for all the poverty, misery and rage of battle through Europe is simply that you women, however good and religious, however self-sacrificing for those whom you love, are too selfish and too thoughtless to take pains for any creature out of your immediate circles. Let every Christian woman who has conscience toward God vow that she will mourn for His killed creatures. Let every lady in the happy classes of civilized Europe simply vow that, while any cruel war proceeds, she will wear black—a mute's black—with no jewel, no ornament, and tell you again no war would last a week."

In the same number of "Our Dumb Animals" is an article from the "Fortnightly Review," giving a frightful picture of the agonies suffered by the human victims of "glorious" war, and with regard to the sufferings of the wretched animals pressed into service, Mr. Angell says:

"We see from a published report of Captain T. T. Pitman, of the British army, that up to November 1st of last year over three hundred thousand horses have been used up by British soldiers in the South African war. Those horses have died on battlefields and by terrible marches, and many of them have been torn by vultures before they were dead, with no one to tell of their sufferings or plead their cause. If any man thinks we say too much about war in this paper, let him reflect on the sufferings of over three hundred thousand horses in this infernal South African war."

SIMS—BELL.

Shortly after noon yesterday Rev. Dr. Langford officiated at a wedding of unusual interest. In the presence of nearly forty guests he united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Margaret Edythe Bell, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bell, Murdock street, and Dr. S. J. Sims, of Fenelon Falls. The ceremony was performed in the bay window of the drawing room, which had been converted into a bower of palms and floral decorations. The bride was attired in a becoming travelling suit of brown Venetian cloth, with turquoise silk waist, trimmed with applique and black velvet, while she carried the conventional bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Annie Bell, of Toronto, who was dressed in a pink silk waist with touches of black velvet, and a black skirt. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was ably supported by Mr. W. H. Robson of Fenelon Falls. The customary wedding dejeuner followed, after which Dr. and Mrs. Sims drove to the Canadian Pacific Railway depot, where, amid showers of rice, they took the train for Toronto and other points. The presents are numerous and beautiful, which testified to the popularity of the bride. Among the guests from outside points were Mr. Scott Sims, of Fenelon Falls, and Dr. and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlan, Miss Pearl McLaughlan and Miss Graves, all of Meaford.

Powles' Corner.

(Correspondence of the Gazette.)

It is now about three weeks since you have heard anything from Powles' Corner, a rural district that always takes the lead in thorough-bred stock of all kinds. We have a lot of up-to-date farmers, some of them having made over $500 from their cows alone, and about $400 out of hogs, besides having some fat cattle to sell.

During the past three or four years the farmers in this community have spent many thousands of dollars in erecting new buildings and improving buildings that were put up many years ago and were found to be inconvenient and not up to the requirements of the present day. And another good feature of this community is that we have a lot of good looking girls who are also good cooks.

One little simple song I sing

To brides just newly wed:

Just make the best of everything,

Especially of bread.

The prohibition question is to a certain extent occupying the mind of Premier G. W. Ross, and no doubt he will try to please the temperance people and the liquor men too. It would be better for Ross to do the right thing now, or sooner or later he will meet with a crushing defeat.

Mr. Alex. McGee is very busy these times drawing the material for a large barn that he intends to build next summer. The dimensions will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 36 x 84 feet, and there will be a stone foundation under the whole building. Alex. is purchasing his shingles from Mr. Isaac Naylor.

There will be a basket social in the school house on the evening of Friday, March 14th. The proceeds will be in aid of the church funds. A very nice programme will be prepared, and a resolution has been passed that no basket is to be sold for more than one dollar. A good time is expected.

The Rev. Mr. Garbutt has closed the special meetings that were being held here, and some have resolved to lead a better life. After the earnest appeals to the young people, we cannot see why so many refused to accept offered mercy. "Now is the accepted time," etc.
