

Men of Their Word.
 "I like a man who says yes or no and means it," said the old farmer to a fellow passenger in the street car. "A few weeks ago a feller come along to my place and says:
 "'Jones, I want to run a railroad across your farm.'
 "'You may want and be durned,' says I.
 "'But I'm goin' to do it,' says he.
 "'If you try it, I'll shoot,' says I.
 "'But I'm a determined man. When I says a thing, I means it.'
 "'Same here. Don't you do no foolin' around on my land.'
 "'And so you scared him off?' queried the passenger.
 "'Oh, no. So I went to bed that night to get up in the mornin' and find his old railroad a-humpin' across my cornfield. Some men would have fooled around three months about it, but that feller was a man of his word.'
 "'And did you shoot?'
 "'Yes, I shot, but the charge scattered too much, and nobody was hurt. Yes, I meant shoot, and I shot, and the feller patted me on the back and said he liked a man who could be depended on. All serene now, and the railroad is a-tootin' and a-humpin'."

His Help.
 Fresh from a stormy interview with the prima donna who wanted a higher salary the impresario went home. His wife met him with the news that the cook lady had struck and that a cold supper awaited him. Wearily he threw himself on the lounge. "My hired girls," he groaned, "will be the death of me yet."—Chicago Tribune.

Didn't Work.

No Data.
 Mrs. Whyte—Do you know anything about the people who have moved in next door?
 Mrs. Browne—No; it was dark when the furniture wagons brought their goods, and they have not hung out a washing yet.
A Gentle Dig.
 "I suppose," said Mrs. Gable, whose husband had been dead scarcely a month, "if I were to go to that 5 o'clock tea it would cause a lot of talk."
 "Naturally," replied Mrs. Spyte; "unless you should happen to lose your voice."
 Caller—What's all that noise up stairs?
 Mrs. Boardman—That faith cure doctor has a toothache.

No "Camille" in This.
 The Comedian—I thought you and Miss Poser were to be married this week. Is it postponed?
 The Heavy—Gad, sir, she actually wants her name to appear before mine in the wedding announcement.—Life.

The Old Time Dancing.
 I can't exactly understand
 The way they dance today;
 Somehow it's kinder different from
 The good old fashion way.
 They've got these highfalutin names
 An' all that sort of thing,
 An' they never do a backstep
 Or cut the pigeon wing.

Away back in the backwoods in
 The time that used to be
 There seemed to be more music an'
 More grace an' melody
 An' sunny hair an' sparklin' eyes
 An' all that sort of thing
 When I used to do the backstep
 An' cut the pigeon wing.
 I guess I'll never feel again
 Jus' like I used to feel
 While prancin' through the figgers of
 The old Virginia reel,
 Jus' swingin' my old sweetheart of
 The dear old long ago—
 An' I wore jeans an' cottonade,
 An' she wore calico—
 But her skirts jus' kep' on rustlin'
 An' all that sort of thing
 When I used to do the backstep
 An' cut the pigeon wing.
 —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

More Than He Bargained For.
 He (after discussing the new woman at some length)—I know you will agree with me on the argument I have just set forth, that a woman should be domesticated; her place is at home. Now, if you are the girl I take you for—
 She—Oh, George! This is so sudden!

She Was Posted.
 Aleck—Poor Reggy! He fell off his bicycle and his heart was shaken down into his stomach, the doctors say.
 Marie—Pooh! That's where most men's hearts are, if my experience counts for anything.

Making a Name.
 "Who is that long-haired fellow?"
 "Urich Rembrandt Briggs. He's making quite a name for himself."
 "I should think he would. If my parents had given me a name like his, I'd have started in to make one for myself at once."—Harper's Bazar.

The Melancholy Days.
 "These golden September days always make me feel peculiarly sad, Mrs. Perkins."
 "So they do me; somebody is always borrowing my catchup kettle when I want to use it myself."—Chicago Record.

NEWSPAPER LAW.

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning the paper does not answer the law), when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office and state the reasons for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.
 2. If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.
 3. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the pay.
 4. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post-office. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.
 5. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
