

The Boy From Town.

Last night a boy came here from town
To stay a week or so,
Because his maw is all run down
And needs a rest, you know.
His name is Cecil, and he's eight,
And he can't skin the cat—
His maw she calls him "Pet"; I'd hate
To have a name like that.

He wears a collar and a tie
And can't hang by his toes;
I guess that I would nearly die
If I had on his clo's;
He can't ride bareback, and to-day,
When we slid on the straw,
He ast if roosters help to lay
The eggs I pick for maw.

When our old gander hissed he run
As though he thought he'd bite,
And he ain't ever shot a gun
Or had a homemade kite;
He never milked a cow and he
Can't even dive or swim—
I'd hate to think that he was me,
I'm glad that I ain't him.

He thinks it's lots of fun to pump
And see the water spurt,
But won't climb in the barn, and jump,
For fear of gettin' hurt.
His clo's are offie nice and fine,
His hair's all over curls,
His hands ain't half as big as mine,
He ought to play with girls.

A little while ago when we
Were foolin' in the shed
He suddenly got mad at me,
Because I bumped his head.
There's lots of things that he can't do,
He think's that sheep'll bite,
And he's afraid of ganders, too;
But he can fight all right.

Mr. Smith's Warning.

"Look here, what are you doing there?"
The man who asked the question seemed excited, but the man to whom it was addressed was not disturbed in the least. He was dumping a load of rubbish on a vacant plot of ground. "This was perfectly apparent to the questioner, too, so that the question was clearly unnecessary as a means of obtaining information. The idea must have impressed itself upon the man at work, for he went on with his task. The other man became more excited at this non-attention, and asked the question again in a louder tone than before.

Then the workman replied, "I am unloading some rubbish, sir."
"But don't you see that sign?" demanded the angry man, pointing to a notice on a post not ten feet away.
"Yes, sir."

"What does it say?"
"It says, 'Place no rubbish here by order of John Smith,'" read the man.
"Well, sir," the angry man went on, "I am John Smith, the owner of that ground!"

"Glad to know you, sir."
"None of your impudence, sir, or I will have you arrested! Now, I wish to know why you dump rubbish on my laud when there is a notice distinctly forbidding it?"

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Smith, but that notice does not forbid me from dumping rubbish here."
"It doesn't, eh? What does it say, then, I'd like to know, sir?"

"Well, Mr. Smith, I've read it to you once, but I will read it again if you wish. It says, 'Place no rubbish here by order of John Smith,' and I have placed none here by order of John Smith. I work for a man named Robinson."

At this the man mounted his cart and drove away, leaving Mr. Smith very thoughtful.
The next day the sign was properly punctuated.

No Chance For Him.

"Just one," he pleaded.
"Only one?" she asked coyly.
"Only one," he said.
"You will be satisfied with just one little one?"

"Yes," he answered, drawing her closer.
But at this she broke away.
"In that case," she said coldly, "you are utterly lacking in the modern accumulative spirit that brings prosperity, and I do not feel that my future would be safe in your hands."

He Had Proof.

"Say, ma!"
"Well?"
"There are seven liars in our class at school."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that, dear. You might be mistaken."
"No, I ain't. Yesterday the teacher said all of us that never told a lie should hold up our hands."

"And there were seven there who didn't hold up their hands?"
"No. There were seven that did."

"But can you keep house?" he asked doubtfully, for he was above all things a practical man.
"If you get a house and put it in my name," she replied promptly, "I'll keep it all right enough."

Matters being thus satisfactorily settled, their engagement was announced.

NEWSPAPER LAW.

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning the paper does not answer the law), when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office and state the reasons for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.
2. If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.
3. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the pay.
4. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post-office. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.
5. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
