

Never idle.
"You're always intimating that woman has too much idle curiosity," she complained.
"Idle curiosity!" he repeated. "Idle! Nonsense! It's the most active thing about her!"

Hopeless.
"His philosophy sustained him until he fell in love."
"But he will get over that."
"No, he won't. He didn't fall in love until he was sixty-five."

A Great Temptation.
"I had been talking for two hours with the governor of a certain state as we rode on a train together," said the old politician, "when conversation slackened off and I fell asleep. I had been sleeping about a quarter of an hour when he nudged me and said: 'Joe, for heaven's sake, wake up!'"
"What's the matter?" I asked as I sat up.
"You are wearing a fine gold watch, and your wallet is sticking out of your breast pocket."
"Well, what of it?"
"What of it? Why, man, it's all I can do to remember that I'm a governor instead of a pickpocket! If you fall asleep again, I can't answer for myself."

Utter Irreverence.
"Remember," said the man of ideals, "that George Washington succeeded brilliantly, and he never told a lie."
"Well," said Senator Sorghum reflectively, "maybe he never told a lie, and then again maybe that is one of those stories that a man circulates now and then in order to make a good impression among his constituents."—Washington Star.

No Cause For Anxiety.
She—My trousseau is already beginning to show wear.
He (startled)—But we've only been married a month.
She—Now, don't you worry about it at all, dearest. I can make it as good as new for $500 or $600.—Harper's Bazar.

Her "Mental" Criticism.
He—You see, I have a sort of power of clairvoyance, so to speak—that is, I can always tell what people are thinking of me.
She (in great confusion)—Oh—er—indeed! But I—I—don't always seriously mean what I happen to think!

Dreams.
"Oh," exclaimed the poet, "if my dreams would only come true!"
"Which assertion makes it evident," remarked the business man, "that you never eat any lobster salad just before going to bed."—Indianapolis Sun.

A Good Boy.
Mamma—Teacher tells me you were very naughty in school yesterday. Why did you not tell me yourself?
Tommy—Why—er—you always told me not to tell tales out of school.—Philadelphia Press.

Hooked.
Mrs. Newlywed—The night you proposed you acted like a fish out of water.
Mr. Newlywed—I was and very cleverly landed too!—Puck.

Beyond Control.
"Can't you put him to sleep, John?"
"No; it would take 'Yeung Corbett' to put this kid to sleep."—New York Journal.

Knew Her.
"Bigson says he has had his house refurnished during his wife's absence."
"As a surprise to her?"
"No; as a shock."
Nothing New.
"I hear the new women, after appropriating the rest of our apparel, are now going to wear high hats."
"Heavens, man! Don't you ever go to the theater?"

A Fair Certainty.
"Can I go to-day and bathe, mamma?"
"Don't bother me."
"But, can I?"
"Well, yes, then. But if you go and get drowned, don't venture to come and show me your face again."—Judy.

Correct Information.
"Uncle Allen, do you think there will be any pipes or cigars in heaven?"
"I think it very doubtful, my boy. It would seem more natural to go to the other place if you wanted to smoke."—Chicago Tribune.

Home like.

Weary—Ah, ma'am, dis reminds me of me old happy home!
Mrs. Grimm—How's that?
Weary—Me wife uster allus meet me at de door wit' a roll-in' pin, jest like youse."—New York Journal.

WHAT HE MUST KNOW.

Questions Asked Aspirant For Dairy Supervisor In Australia.

The following are the questions propounded to all applicants for the office of dairy supervisor in Australia: The examiner is Robert Crowe, government dairy expert:

1. Supposing a person engaged in dairying were not successful, what recommendations would you make and how should they be carried out to insure profitable results?
2. State the various operations of butter making, beginning with the cow and mentioning twelve processes at least, in the order in which they come, and give their relative importance.
3. Name the four greatest considerations toward securing a good flavored butter.
4. How would you determine the proper time to add rennet to milk for cheesemaking?
5. In the process of cheesemaking at what stage should the whey be run off and how determined?

DIVISION B.—DAIRY SCIENCE.

Time, two hours.
Examiner, H. W. Potts, F. C. S., government instructor in dairy science.

1. Describe the Babcock method of estimating butter fat in milk and skim-milk.
2. What method would you adopt in factory practice of collecting composite samples of milk?
3. Describe the preparation of a starter from pure lactic ferment or pure culture.
4. What is the meaning of the following terms: Fermentation, specific gravity, pasteurization, sterilization, percentage?
5. How would you determine the percentage of lactic acid in a given sample of cream or whey?

DIVISION C.—SANITATION AS APPLIED TO DAIRYING.

Time, two hours.
Examiner, W. Perrin Norris, M. D., P. P. H.

1. Name and shortly describe the diseases which render the keeping or sale of the milk of cows suffering therefrom an illegal act.
  2. Indicate with the aid of sketch plans the proper relative positions, from a sanitary standpoint, of yards and buildings on a dairy farm, including the usual accompanying buildings. The plan of the main buildings should show important details.
  3. State the requirements and write a list of directions providing for cleanliness in the operations of milking.
  4. Supposing anthrax to have been discovered in a byre or cowshed, state in detail the measures you should adopt to effect thorough disinfection of the premises.
  5. Describe with the help of sketches a proper system of internal and external drainage for a cowshed and state how the byre fluids may be disposed of safely and utilized profitably.
- It is a good thing to read over the foregoing questions for the purpose of gaining an idea of the necessary scope of dairy knowledge—what there is that should be known. A young man who had attended the short course for three months at the Wisconsin Agricultural college once said to us, "I never knew before how much there is to be known which I ought to know about so common a thing as keeping cows."
Every one of those questions relate to a condition of affairs which may happen at any moment on any dairy farm.

Homemade Milk Cooler.

cover keeps out the heat. A wooden faucet or plug can be used for drawing off the water when desired. This is designed particularly for small cans holding eight and a half or ten quarts, but may be adapted for forty and fifty quart cans.—New England Homestead.

Value of Regular Feeding.

The regularity of feeding has a great deal to do in obtaining the best results. The cow that is fed regularly will always give the best satisfaction in the milk pail. If you are not regular in feeding your cows, they will not be regular in giving milk. A cow regularly fed does not worry over her feeding, as she expects her feed at a certain time, while the other cow gets her food sometimes at one time and sometimes another, consequently she will not rest easy and does not give good results from her feed.—Roscoe White.

NEWSPAPER LAW.

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning the paper does not answer the law), when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office and state the reasons for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.
2. If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.
3. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the pay.
4. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post-office. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.
5. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
