$30,000 For Treatment of Lolita Armour, of Chicago.

Speculation as to how large a fee Professor Lorenz, of the University of Vienna, received for operating on Lolita Armour, daughter of the Chicago millionaire, may be set at rest, says the Chicago Tribune. He received $30,000. This announcement comes from Dr. John Ridlon, one of the surgeons who assisted at the operation. The enormous fee inludes the services of Professor Lorenz's two assistants and also the ifter treatment in Chicago and Vienna when the plaster splint is renoved. The Armours will visit Pro-'essor Lorenz in Vienna in May, 1903, it is expected. Until the visit s made and the splint removed the iltimate result of the operation cannot be told, and no accurate forenonths.

"We may reasonably expect," says Dr. Ridlon, in an article in the curent number of the New York MediNo Danger.

this position the hamstring muscles were stretched by straightening the knee many times.

"The child was then clothed in smoothly fitting stocking from the ankle to the ribs, raised above the table on a pelvic rest with a low stool under the head and shoulders, and the fixation dressing applied. The leg was flexed on the knee, and the thigh on the body to a right angle and abducted to the transverse plane of the body. From below the knee to above the waist the patient was wratped in many layers of sheet wadding to the thickness of an inch, and this bound smoothly down by an ordinary unbleached muslin bandage; over this the plaster of paris was applied."

Dr. Ridlon says :-

"When the patient had been fully anaesthetized, Dr. Lorenz seized the right thigh near the knee, flexed the thigh strongly on the abdomen, and pressed firmly downward, stretching the soft parts at the back and below the joint. He then, with the leg flexed to a right angle, strongly abflucted it, sawing against the upper part of the abductor muscles of the thigh with the ulnar border of the hand until the fossae which appear above and below the upper insertion of the abductor muscles when they are put on the stretch had disappeared and the thigh could be abducted to the plane of the table upon breathing. This manner of treatwhich the patient lay. During this stretching process the pelvis was

The wenderful penetrating power of St. Jacobs Oil enables it to reach the adhesion of foreign matter which lines the bronchial tubes and which makes breathing more and more difficult. As these adhesions become inflamed and enlarged, St. Jacobs Oil causes such adhesion to break away, making expectoration easier and more free.
