MAGNIFICENT SCENIC PRODUCTION OF

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" never grows old. There runs through it a vein of pathos peculiarly touching and sweet. It speaks the universal language of the heart. It reflects, like a prism, the innermost phases of human emotion. It is more than as play; it is a moral classic. It argues for two of the greatest themes that can engage the mindhuman liberty, and immortality of the soul. It as so pure that its touch alone is chastening. Like the kiss of a child, it conquers by the very innocence of its breath. In the character of Eva. it is unique. Who does not cherish in memory some sweet, angelic child who seemed to touch this earth only as a transient visitor who passed away with the dew of childhood's morning-too good, too pure, for us? "Was there ever a child like Eva? Yes, but her name is written on gravestones." This good old play is unique because it Is the only one that portrays that character. The scenery is excellent. In the river scene, one sees the floating cakes of ice slowly moving down stream. One can see, in the splendid perspective of this scene, several miles up the frozen river, and the undulating snow-clad hills on either ende lie like drowsy sentine's in the soggy winter day. The plantation scene represents a typical Southern home, with its mansions, its log cabins and its cotton-field It is the sunny. sunny South. has, perhaps, taxed the skill of the artist as the mechanic more than any other spectacle (which the stage can boast. Indeed, it is not flat tery to say that the "Beautifui Gates Ajar," 1 depicted by this company is one of the most en trancing spectacles ever seen. The scene open with a mass of clouds, through a rift of which is seen a passing group of angels bearing Uncl Tom to heaven. A large "gloria" of iridescen splendor is brightly twinkling in front. The clouds disperse, revealing Uncle Tom with angu escort before the golden gates, on either side d
