Tariff Matters.

The N. P. has been acting queerly of late. "I'm going to support a Government," cried Mr. Rufus Stephenson in 1880, "that has raised the price of wheat from 79c. to $1.40." The N. P. was then in a good humor. Its adherents declared that all they had to do was to walk up to the counter and ask for what they wanted: But all at once, from some cause which the Mail and Empire doggedly refuses to explain, it went on strike and the price gradually fell, bringing the selling value of farm property down with it, till it stood at a miserable 50c. in Ontario and 40c. or less in Manitoba. Quite recently the old talisman returned to work amid the rejoicings of the Government newspapers, and we were requested to make room for a miracle. But it had no sooner buckled to and lifted the price to the neighborhood of a dollar than it sulked again, and to-day's quotation is lower than the lowest recorded during the Mackenzie-Cartwright regime. Even the Mail and Empire seems to have had its confidence shaken, while the Tory farmer must half suspect that his idol has turned Grit. The N. P. duty on live hogs is a cent and a half per pound; the new American duty 20 per cent. ad valorem. The fundamental principles of protection, therefore, demand that hogs should be dearer in Toronto than at Chicago, yet in its weekly review (26th inst.) of the live stock markets our contemporary has to acknowledge that the exact reverse is the case. The best hogs fetched $4.40 per 100 pounds at Toronto; at Chicago $4.90. The N. P. protects cattle and sheep 20 per cent., which is also the American duty. Hence prices should be as high here as at Chicago. They are lower by a good deal. Export cattle at Toronto fetch 41c. to 43c., with a few picked lots at 5c. per pound. At Chicago there was a better average and the top price was $5.25. Export sheep at Toronto sold at 31c. to 31c., at Buffalo 33 to 4c.; spring lambs at Toronto $2 50 to $3.25 each, with one quotation as high as $5.121, at Buffalo $3.50 to $6. In both countries the duty on barley is 30 per cent. But instead of prices being equal, the Ontario farmer has to be content with 50c. where the farmer in New York State gets 65c. A western tariff-reformer challenges any high-tariff man in the United States to show that the so-called protection to agriculture benefits the farmer. "Let him come among the farmers out here with such a yarn," he says, " and he will be like a monkey on a pole, with a schoolhouse full of boys on one side and a brick yard on the other, his whole energy devoted to dodging intractable facts. If protection to the farmer does him no good in the United States, how can any person argue in the light of the figures just quoted that it benefits him here? But if it does not enhance the price of what he has to sell it assuredly enhances the price of what he has to buy. Every ton of pig-iron that goes into his implements costs him over 40 per cent. extra. The Ontario implement makers get all their iron from the States. Nova Scotia is not benefited by the taxation levied on them, which is ultimately paid by the farmer. To be sure, the revenue benefits, but what shall be said of a policy that adds so enormously to the cost of coal, iron and steel in an age like this? Last year coal oil was imported to the value of $420,000. The duty was $466,000, or over 100 per cent. Barb wire, wire nails, wall paper, hats, harness, cotton, and almost everything else the farmer uses and consumes, are artificially exalted in price, and of course every cent added to the cost of raising crops, reaping them and shipping them to market is just so much filched from the return for his labor and capital .- Globe.
