A Victory for Pedlars.

TORONTO LOSES THE APPEAL TO THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The Privy Council to day handed out judgment in the appeal of the city of Toronto against the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada in the Virgo case. The appeal is dismissed with costs. Their lordships' conclusion is that it was not the intention of the act to give municipal corporations power to enact prohibitory legislation under the authority conferred upon them to pass certain regulations.

The by-law which has been quashed by the Privy Council, in dismissing the appeal of the city against the judgment of the Supreme Court, was passed by the city council on October 26th, 1891. The object of the by-law was to prevent hawkers and pedlars from plying their calling on the busiest sections of King, Queen, Yonge and Dundas streets and Spadina avenue. The Pedlars' Association believed that the city had no right to interfere with the common law rights of the pedlars, and that the by-law was an unjust discrimination against them; so Mr. Vergo, a city pedlar, was selected to commence litigation with a view of quashing the by-law. The motion was argued before Chief Justice Galt in September, 1892, and he decided in favor of the city. The pedlars carried the case to the Court of Appeal, and were again worsted. They then took it to the Supreme Court of Canada, which delivered judgment in favor of the pedlars. Against this verdict the city appealed to the Privy Council, and, as stated in the cablegram above published, the pedlars have been sustained. The costs of the case, which the city will now have to pay, will amount to about $8,000, and in addition to that the city may now have to defend probably 200 cases of claims for damages to pedlars by reason of the restrictions placed on their business for the past three years, while several who were fined for infractions of the by-law and who were committed to trial for non-payment of the fines imposed, will also sue the city for special damages on that account.

A Canadian Puma.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says: Mr. A. E. Kennedy, foreman carpenter for Mr. M. Boyd, was commissioned the other day to have a cage built for the accommodation of a puma that had just arrived from British Columbia. It is a cub that was caught on the island of Vancouver and arrived here in good order and very much alive, as Mr. Kennedy discovered when transferring the varmint to his new abode. The puma, cougar, catamount or panther is one of the largest of the American Felidae, rivalled only by the jaguar. It is sometimes called the American lion, though it is allied more to the leopard. The fur is thick and close and of a reddish brown, lighter on the sides, and white on the breast. It has a rather unpleasant penchant for gore, and sneaking up a tree to drop down on the back of a person's neck is a little practical joke much affected by this amiable animal. It is said to be easily tamed, and when tame a very gentle creature, purring like a cat, and showing equal love of attention. Mr. Kennedy is of opinion that the latter assertion is all fudge, at any rate his taste for purring gentle creatures does not run in the direction of young pumas with claws like patent hay forks.

Ontario's Crops.

TORONTO, November 16.—A crop bulletin issued by the Ontario Agricultural Department reports a falling off in the hay crop of 1895 to the extent of 1,700,000 tons below 1894, representing a loss greater than the value of the entire wheat crop of the province. There has been a shortage of straw also. The corn crop, however, has been extraordinarily large, and, in many cases, will help to make up for the loss of coarser fodder. The grain crops have turned out better than was at one time anticipated, all being well up to the average. Fall wheat has turned out fair; spring wheat above the average; corn, away above the average; barley, fair in quantity; oats, an extraordinary crop; peas, fair; potatoes, an exceptionally large crop; roots, fair; clover seed, almost a failure; buckwheat, almost a failure; beans, very good.

Puzzles the Doctors.

A CONNECTICUT BOY WHO IS GROWING A QUARTER OF AN INCH A DAY.

A boy in Bridgeport, Conn., is now lying in bed, weakened and emaciated, as a result of having grown one foot and three inches within a period of less than eight weeks. On August 15th, when he took his sudden start and began to grow, he was exactly five feet in height. He was six feet three inches tall on the 15th of this month. This is a phenomenal growth, amounting, as it does, to a quarter of an inch per day. The boy is still growing, and his case is exciting the attention of the medical profession. If he continues to grow at the present rate he will be ten feet high on April 15. He is growing at the rate of more than seven feet a year. Nearly every week he adds two inches to his height. This, however, is not the strangest phase of the case of Patrick Casey, as the boy is named. One side of his body is growing faster than the other, and his hair is growing so rapidly that it has to be cut twice every week. The left side of his body is now two inches longer than the right side. His left leg is one and three-quarter inches longer than his right leg, which was not the case last summer. His left arm is a quarter of an inch longer than his right arm. The physician who has been attending "Patsy" explains this by saying that one side of the boy's body is receiving an insufficient supply of blood, and that a part of his heart has lodged in his brain, thereby causing him to lose the power of speech.

A Power Project.

A despatch from Trenton says that work has been commenced there on the electric power transmission plant, which is, in point of distance, the most important transmission of electrical energy so far undertaken in Canada. The valuable water power on the Trent river at Trenton will be used for the purpose of generating electrical energy, by which power, light and heat will be supplied throughout the town of Trenton, and also in Belleville, 12 miles distant. At the latter city the electric current will be used to operate the waterworks and to furnish power for all classes of motor service, and it is expected that the Belleville street railway will receive power from the same source. The initial installation will have a capacity of 500 horse power, the system used for transmitting the energy being known as the three phase alternating system. The Canadian General Electric Company have been awarded the contract for the entire installation.—Peterboro' Times.

A New White Elephant.

NEW YORK, November 16.—Kedah is the name of a white elephant which arrived with other rare animals a few days ago on the steamer Nestor. It is claimed that, with the exception of the sacred white elephant kept in the stables of the King of Siam, in Bangkok, Kedah is the only specimen of the kind in captivity. Kedah is three and a half feet high. He is about a year and a half old, and well developed for his age. Kedah was walking in the forests of Sumatra less than six months ago. He looked like a fat man in a white duck suit crawling on all fours. In Sumatra the white elephant is not worshipped as he is in Siam, so the natives who spied him tied him up with ropes and brought him to Mr. Gaylord, the animal dealer, who gave them many rufers for their prize.

Death of a Hermit.

"Bill" Smith, the hermit of the North Woods, was found dead in his bed on Sunday night by some people who had driven from Bloomingdale to see him. For forty years Smith has lived alone with his dogs on the "Oregon Road," the most lonely of Adirondack trails. He was a giant in stature, measuring six feet six inches in height, and had a wonderful growth of hair and beard, the former reaching to the floor when he stood up. He taught himself to read, and was quite a student of the bible, but had never seen the inside of a church. He was sixty-nine years of age, and was buried near the log cabin he built thirty-eight years ago.—Brockville Recorder.

McCallum, the only Fashionable Tailor in town, has just received his fall stock of cloths, which are being sold at prices to suit the times.
