LECTURE.—Elder J. H. Lake, of the latter day saints, will deliver a free lecture on "The Errors of Salt Lake Mormonism" to-morrow (Saturday) evening at 8 p. m. in Twomey's hall, and will preach in the same hall on Sunday at 2 p. m. and 7 p. m. All are cordially invited. The mission of Elder Lake is, if we understand it, to disabuse his hearers' minds of the prevalent idea that the Mormons and latter day saints hold the same religious beliefs.

WE HAVE A BAND.—As will be seen by the proceedings in another column, the council on Tuesday evening acceded to the petition to grant $100 towards the establishment of a brass band, and soon after the motion was passed the ten brass instruments on exhibition in Mr. Barker's window were handed over to the "boys," who, under the leadership of Mr. Angus Fountain, played several selections on the main street. The instruments will be the property of the village, and the reeve will hold the order of the treasurer until a proper agreement between the corporation and the members of the band shall have been drawn up and signed.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Joseph Pearn, of lot 27 in the 7th con. of Fenelon, met with a serious accident last Tuesday evening while leading a bull into the stable in the basement of the barn. The ground outside is about eighteen inches higher than the floor of the stable, and as the animal stepped down one of his feet slipped and he instantly and suddenly backed out of the doorway. Mr. Pearn, who was inside, had a firm hold of the bull's halter with his right hand, and his arm was brought into such violent contact with the edge of the doorway that both small bones were broken, one of them in two places, and the flesh on the arm and first joint of the forefinger was rather badly torn. Having had several ribs broken upon different occasions, Mr. Pearn did not think much of the accident, especially as it caused very little pain, so he poured some sort of medicinal oil on the wounds, had the arm bound up in a cloth and went to bed; but by next morning the injured limb had swollen to such an extent and become so painful that in the afternoon he came to the Falls, where Dr. Graham set the broken bones, dressed the wounds and put the arm in splints. Mr. Pearn is about 70 years old, but he is a hale, hearty man yet, and will no doubt soon recover from the effects of the accident.

Entertaining Li Hung Chang.

Harold Frederic, in his latest cable letter from London to the New York Times says:

Li Hung Chang makes a perfect visitor. The English have had such extensive Asiatic experience that they have been able to avoid the errors into which the too eager Germans and French naturally fell. They have given Li a big mansion, numerous magnificent carriages, with servants in yellow livery, and have left him alone to do what he likes. He drives a great deal. For the rest, he pokes about in a wicker sedan chair wherever his fancy leads him and everywhere meets marked courtesy. But there is no desire to dictate his movements or run him this way or that. This he appreciates immensely, and does not mind saying in public that England is the friend China most of all needs and would be glad to have.

Although he talks a good deal about his age, he really has great vitality and endurance, and can stand heavy, prolonged tasks of sight seeing, if the things shown him are worth while. He takes profound interest in mechanical novelties, particularly if related to armaments, and also large engineering works. He personally intervened to alter the plan of his northern trip, by which he would have missed a sight of the Forth Bridge; and, at his instance, considerable time is to be deducted from the merely social side of this journey and added to his inspection of Lord Armstrong's great gun foundries and such big shipyards as he is to visit. The golden rule in entertaining him is rigorously to shield him from importunate busy-bodies; to show him only what, on examination, he decides he wants to see, and to leave him the utmost possible freedom in his personal life. If, in addition to this, he has a plenty of fine horses at his disposal and a good many policemen standing about to touch hats, he will love America.

Will Support the Liberals.

Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, Patron candidate in Glengarry at the last election and grand trustee of the Patrons of Industry, is reported to have said to the Montreal correspondent of the World: "Our representation in the House was reduced, owing to the Manitoba school question. Otherwise, had it not been for this side issue it would have been larger. As it is we have these: David Rogers, Frontenac; John Tolmie, Bruce; W. B. Pettit, Prince Edward, and W. Douglas, Selkirk. These men are pledged to vote for Patron principles."

"What will they do for the vote on the Speaker?"

"They will vote with the Government," replied Mr. Wilson.

The chief questions to be brought up by the Patrons, Mr. Wilson says, will be the free pass system and the compelling of the Governor-General and Lieut.-Governors to maintain their official residences on their own salary. The present membership of the order, he says, is about 200,000, chiefly in Ontario, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba. His own defeat Mr. Wilson attributes to the interference of the clergy in the Manitoba school question.

The oldest man on earth (as far as is known) is Ivan Kusmin, a native and resident of Moscow. He was born in 1757, and for many years was a coachman. A rider from Peach Bottom, Pa., met death as the result of a queer accident. He was scorching along a tow-path, mounted on a brakeless wheel. A cow suddenly stepped from the bushes into the narrow path. Unable to control his wheel by back-peddalling, the rider collided with the cow, landing upon the animal's horns, mauling his throat so that death was the result.

Paris has another clairvoyant or seer, a little boy of 9, named Paul Delpont, whose communicants are St. Joseph and St. Paul. The young seer's first feat was to announce that he had been told by St. Paul and St. Joseph that if a certain plot of ground were searched two skeletons and the long lost bells of an old church would be found. The neighbors dug, found the skeletons and bells, and marvelled.
