

nephew, Mr. Henry Peares, and remained until Wednesday. Mr. Real is a fine, hearty, good-looking old gentleman of 82, but would pass for several years younger, especially as he has still an abundance of not very grey hair.

Kinmount.

(Correspondence of the Gazette.)

The tea meeting on the 19th of January in aid of the Methodist parsonage fund was quite up to date. The resident ministers and reverend gentlemen from Minden and Cameron were present and gave stirring addresses. The programme was more of a serious than a comic nature, and those who prepared the entertainment deserve praise for their efforts.

The people of this village were very sorry to hear of the death of the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oswald. The case seemed very sad, as Mrs. Oswald has been very sick for some time and is still unable to leave her room.

The people of this locality are delighted with the sleighing that has come, as it gives them a chance to do their drawing, and we hope they will hurry in enough shingle and stave bolts to keep the shingle mill and stave factory running.

S. A. NOTES.—The visit of Adjutant and Mrs. Andrews, which had been announced for Friday, the 29th inst., has been postponed until further notice.

PUBLIC LIBRARY SALE.—The annual sale of periodicals will be held on Monday, February 1st, at 8 o'clock p. m. A large amount of reading matter to be disposed of to members of the library. A good attendance is requested. Terms strictly cash.

ROOMS TO LET; upstairs in McArthur's block. Apply at the Gazette Office.

TO-NIGHT.—Do not forget the skating carnival in the rink this (Friday) evening. After the bills had been printed and circulated, a slight change was made in the programme. The hockey match will not be, as advertised, between the home teams, but between the junior players from Lindsay and the juniors of Fenelon Falls.

DIPHTHERIA.—As will be seen by the proceedings of the Board of Health, which met in Dr. Wilson's on Sunday, there is a case of diphtheria in the village, but the doctor says it is of a very mild type; and, as the patient was promptly isolated, and the house from which she was removed almost before the disease declared itself was disinfected and other precautionary measures were taken, there is no practical danger of it spreading.

SNOW PLOUGH WANTED.—Several villagers have asked us what has become of the snow plough that was used last winter, for the first time, to clear the sidewalks, and was greeted with joyful acclaim the moment it made its appearance. The machine, which, though of the roughest construction, did effective service, is the private property of Constable Nevison, was drawn around by his horse and piloted by himself, without fee or reward, out of pure philanthropy; but it is not to be expected that he will continue to work for nothing, and the council should at once offer him some reasonable remuneration and have the plough in operation again as soon as possible; though perhaps it would be better to provide with one built on more scientific principles.

British Subjects Starving by the Million.

India needs our help; the famine is upon her, and, according to the estimate of the highest authorities, the lives of six millions of people are in danger—a British population greater than that of all Canada. Both the Imperial and Indian Governments are moving in the work of relief; but this is a case that cannot be left to governments alone. It appeals to humanity generally. The people of Britain have taken up the work of relief, and their example is being followed in other lands. Even the Russians are sending money and food to India. Canadians cannot turn a deaf ear to the cry of their fellow British subjects in the far East, and the means of sending effective assistance has now been provided. A Relief Fund—the first to be started in Canada—has been opened by the Montreal Star newspaper, and its publisher has headed the subscription list with a donation of five hundred dollars. Premier Laurier has written the Star a letter, in which he expresses hearty approval of the relief movement, and he contributes a handsome cheque to the fund. A joint memorial, signed by all the Protestant clergymen of Montreal, has been received by the Star expressing approval and support of the Relief Fund movement. Every subscription to the Star's Famine Fund, great or small, will be publically acknowledged.

The German Bogey.

The prevalent fear that Great Britain was being undersold by Germany, and that her trade was rapidly decaying, found expression in a pamphlet entitled "Made in Germany," which frightened even Lord Rosebery. But Mr. George W. Medley, in a reply entitled "The German Bogey," seems to have laid that ghost. He has apparently proved by elaborate and conclusive statistics that British trade is not being supplanted by the Germans, and is not in a state of decay. The Germans, he seems to admit, are superior in the scientific application of chemistry to manufactures; this, according to him, appears to be about the sum of the real danger, and there is no good reason why the British manufacturer should not learn in this department, as well as in others, to hold his own. So the sun of British commerce has not yet set, nor, apparently, is it near its setting. It was not to be expected that Great Britain would retain the monopoly of manufactures and shipping which was hers at the close of the Napoleonic wars. Rivals have since started in the race, and they have a certain advantage in not being hampered by routine or encumbered with old plant. This was the natural course of things; and protection, to which alarmists point as the only remedy, and to make way for which indeed is their chief object in sounding the alarm, could have done nothing to prevent it. The wealth of England has immensely increased; it has probably trebled since her adoption of free trade; and of the increase a large proportion has gone to the working classes, which had before been, in the manufacturing districts, on the verge of famine. This is the rock of undeniable fact on which the waves of protectionist fallacy beat in vain.

Mark Twain's Poverty.

Few of Mark Twain's many friends know of the plucky fight he is making with adversity, or how badly he has been used by fortune. In a word, Mark Twain, who a couple of years ago thought himself a rich man, is to-day worse than penniless. Since his return from Africa, a few months ago, he has been living in very modest lodgings in London, going nowhere and seeing but one or two friends, working all day and every day at a history of his trip around the world. With the proceeds of this book he hopes to be able to pay off his creditors, and to leave something for his family. His lecture trip around the world, which he undertook with the hope of retrieving his fortunes, did not turn out a financial success for him. So, over sixty years of age, in poor health, and in a strange country, America's greatest humorist is, perhaps, working harder than ever before.

Mr. Laurier has cabled, in reply to an invitation from the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, that he would not likely visit England for some time.

Archbishop Langevin seems to labor under the delusion that someone has delegated to him the task of running this country.

Reports from every part of the Northwest indicate that Saturday night was the coldest in two winters. The range was from 25 degrees below zero to 40 below.

A passenger train on the Pittsburg & Western Railway ran off Point Creek bridge, near Shipperville, and dropped 50 feet into the stream. Three men were killed, and not a passenger escaped without injury of some sort.
