

SHE COULD NOT EAT.

THE STATEMENT OF A LADY WHO WAS A DYSPEPTIC.

Afflicted with Pains in the Stomach, Nausea and Vomiting—Constipation, Headaches and Other Distressing Symptoms Followed.

From Le Sorelois, Sorel, Que.,
Dyspepsia and kindred disorders of the digestive organs are becoming alarmingly prevalent among the people of all classes, and it is safe to say that there are few ill-afflicted mankind productive of more real misery than indigestion. It is said that happiness and a good digestion go hand in hand, and the statement contains more truth than has been generally admitted. It may be safely said therefore, that the medicine that will cure dyspepsia is a blessing to mankind, a promoter of human happiness, whose good work cannot be too widely known. Such is the opinion of Mrs. P. Lussier of Sorel, Que., and it is because of this that she gave the following statement to a representative of Le Sorelois. "For some time past," she said "I had been suffering from a malady that at first I could not define, but which proved to be a severe attack of dyspepsia. After each meal I felt a sensation of over fullness, even when I had eaten most sparingly. This feeling was accompanied by severe pains in the region of the stomach, and frequently by nausea, and sometimes vomiting. Constipation followed, which added to my misery. In the interval I suffered from fever and slight headache, and became generally indisposed. At times the pain in the stomach was less severe. My appetite was leaving me, I had no taste for anything and at this stage my son, Alfred, assistant manager of 'Le Sorelois' urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, at the same time urging me to read an article in that paper which related to the cure of a person similarly afflicted. I was skeptical and did not believe the pills would help me, but a few days later I re-read the article and decided that I would try this medicine and I have much reason to be glad that I did so. I took a couple of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after each meal and little by little perceived that my digestion was becoming more easy. I continued the use of the pills for a little more than a month, and have pleasure in stating that my cure is complete. At my age, 66 years, one greatly appreciates being able to enjoy one's meals, and I bless the day I began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I heartily recommend them to other sufferers.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous headache and prostration, diseases of the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, and restores pale and sallow complexions to the glow of health. They are a specific for all the troubles peculiar to the female sex, and in men cure all cases arising from worry, overwork, or excesses. Sold by all chemists and by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. There are imitations, the pills colored pink against which the public are warned. The genuine pills are put up in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Take nothing else.

Older Women Than the Queen.

The lady famed in story who was present at the ball on the eve of Waterloo, and is still living, hale and hearty, and in the truly noble age of 93, is Lady Louisa Tighe. She has a perfect memory, and remembers the incidents of the ball; the figure of Wellington; the bugle sound which called the men to arms.

It was at her father's house, the Duke of Richmond's, in Brussels, that the historic ball took place.

In 1825 she was married to the Colonel, the Hon. William Tighe. He died in 1878, but the dear old lady, one of England's noblest links with the past still lives on, and writes a most beautiful, delicate hand, as if she were still a girl of 19, instead of 90.

The woman who has probably had more political influence during the past fifty years next to the Queen is undoubtedly Mrs. Gladstone. Catherine Glynné was the daughter of Sir Stephen Glynné, the owner of the Hawarden and other large estates, and of his wife, the Hon. Mary Braybrooke. The late Sir Stephen Glynné was her brother, and Lady Littleton was her sister. Thus it is through his wife that Mr. Gladstone came into possession of the famous Hawarden Castle, in Flintshire, now well known over all the world as his residence. The marriage took place on July 25, 1839, about six months before that of her Majesty. She is now considerably over 80 years of age.

The most remarkable member of the aristocracy is probably the aged Duchess of Cleveland, famous by her own individuality, and still more famous in the person of her celebrated son, Lord Rosebery. Though the Duchess is well over 80 years of age, she is more juvenile in some things than many women fifty years younger. Her Grace always dresses in white whenever it is at all possible, and she has a perfect passion for travelling. Half her life is spent on the continent, or at the cape; in fact, she has lately gone there again on a voyage. She perfectly revels in knocking about the world.

She was first married three years after the Queen, to Archibald, Lord Dalmeny, and so became the mother of Lord Rosebery, and on the death of her husband she married a second time, thus becoming Duchess of Cleveland by her marriage to George, the fourth and last Duke. He died a few years ago. Her Grace was a daughter of Philip Henry, fourth Earl of Stanhope.

Is there any one in London, or out of it, who has not heard the name of Angelina, Baroness Burdett-Coutts?

CORN SOWING.

Is conducted by tight boots. Corn reaping is best conducted by Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe, sure, prompt and painless corn cure. Beware of imitations.

This noble woman was born on April 25, 1814, five years before the Queen, and was the daughter of Sir Francis Burdett. On the death of her grandfather's widow, Harriet, Duchess of St. Albans, who had in early life graced the stage, Miss Burdett succeeded to the vast fortune of the Coutts family, and took that name in addition to her own.

It would be impossible to tell one-tenth of what she has done and given, not only to the London poor, but for England. Every good society, every charitable scheme, every devoted cause had in her its certain helper with her purse, word, and, until lately, voice. The Baroness has given up to a quarter of a million at once in furtherance of schemes for aiding the London poor.

The Queen created her a Baroness in her own right in 1871, and in 1881 she married Mr. W. L. Ashmead-Bartlett, who took the surname of Coutts. She still goes on at 83 with her noble work of relieving the needy, and London's wish is "Long may she yet live."

My First Bicycle Ride.

It can scarcely be called a "ride," rather might one describe it as a series of reckless acrobatic exercises. Yet such as it was, let me try to give you a full, true, and particular account thereof. Novices think it's quite easy to ride a bicycle. "You just mount—and there you are!" Nay, gentle simpleton, on the contrary, you just mount—and there you are not, for in half-a-second your balance is lost, and unless there is a brotherly, cousinly, or friendly arm near, alas and alack for you!

I learnt the French way. Well, we are taught to believe that things French are mostly good, and certainly the broad leathern belt, with a projecting leather loop at the back, gave me a kind of safe feeling. It encircled me so protectively, and seemed to augur success. But few of us are born cyclists. By the way, why did Providence not give us wheels instead of nether extremities? Would it not have saved an amount of shoe-leather and hose? Few of us, I repeat, are to the bicycle born. I certainly was not. My feet firmly planted on the pedals, my nervous hands clutching the handles like a vice, off I rushed, working from the waist downward, instead of from the ankle only. The fiery steed refused to obey my guidance, it swerved to the right, I swerved to the left; result—disaster! The hireling who held on to my belt did not flee, perhaps because he was a hireling. He reinstated me on my iron throne, and taking my courage and the machine in both hands, I dashed off again, and was plaintively reproved for "trying to scorch." I felt as though I were scorching truly, but more involuntarily. Bicycling is hot work when one is young, enthusiastic, and a beginner.

"The least touch," said my teacher, "is sufficient to turn the machine," but when I found myself running against a wall, the least touch did not prove sufficient. Vainly did I attempt to rein in the champing steed by weakly pulling up the handles. It had a distinct volition of its own. I used to believe bicycles were neuter, i.e., without life. My creed has since undergone alterations. "I hold it true with him who sings that bicycles are vicious things," and that the evil spirit has to be cast out before they become our kind and willing slaves. Browning's words buzzed through my mind, "As I ride, as I ride,"—and as a kind of complementary echo—"Great was the fall thereof." Glancing at my skirts, I perceived that they had "rucked up" to within an appreciable distance of my knees.

"Small wonder that I heard an ancient female murmur 'scandalous' just now!" thought I, and appealed to my hireling to let me get off the wheel—and this was the end of "my first bicycle ride." ALICE.

Good nature is the very air of a good mind; the sign of a large and generous soul and the peculiar soil in which virtue prospers.—Goodman.

FROM AGONY TO JOY.

Acute Sufferings From Acute Rheumatic Ailment Relieved by South American Rheumatic Cure When Hope Had Well-Nigh Gone—Mrs. W. Ferris, wife of a Well-Known Manufacturer of Gloucester, Cheerfully Tells the Story of Her Cure.

"I was for years a great sufferer from rheumatic affection in my ankles, and at times was so bad that I could not walk. I tried every known remedy and trusted with best physicians for years but no permanent relief. Although my confidence in remedies was about exhausted, I was induced to try South American Rheumatic Cure. I purchased a bottle. The very first dose gave me relief, and after taking two bottles all pain had vanished and there has been no return of it. I do cheerfully recommend this great remedy."

"The failures of life come from resting in good intentions, which are in vain unless carried out in wise action.—C. Simmons.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Adam Soper of Burk's Falls Found All Remedies For Kidney Disease of No Avail Until He Used South American Kidney Cure—To-Day He is a Well Man and Gives the Credit Where it is Due.

"For a long time I have been a great sufferer from disease of the kidneys. The pains I suffered were the severest. I had tried all kinds of remedies, but all to no avail. There is nothing in the world so sensitive as affection. It feels its own happiness too much not to tremble for its reality.

A NEW MAN.

"For years I have been troubled with nervous debility and affection of the kidneys. I have persevered in taking it, and can say that I have not felt so well for years. I do heartily recommend this great cure."

The present age has been defined as the age of unfaith; its great maxim, distrust; is great wisdom, suspicion.

the more worn the brighter Busy wives who use SAPOLIO never seem to grow old. Try a cake

A complete wreck of domestic happiness has often resulted from badly washed dishes, from an unclean kitchen, from trifles which seemed light as air. But by these things a man often judges of his wife's devotion to her family, and charges her with general neglect when he finds her careless in these particulars. Many a home owes a large part of its thrifty neatness and its consequent happiness to SAPOLIO.

Grocers often substitute cheaper goods for SAPOLIO, to make a better profit. Send back such articles, and insist on having just what you ordered.
