

A Matter of Justice

IS THE WAY A YOUNG LADY OF NEW BRUNSWICK VIEWS IT.

Suffered From Headaches, Pain in the Side and Heart Palpitation—She Thinks Similar Sufferers Should Know How She Found a Cure.

From the Frederickton Gleaner.

Miss Alma Millar, of Upper Southampton, N. B., is a daughter of Mr. Ezra Millar, a wealthy and influential farmer, and the young lady is a general favorite among a wide circle of acquaintances, who have had occasion to congratulate her upon her complete restoration to health, after a severe and trying illness. When a correspondent of the Gleaner called upon her, and requested that the facts might be given for publication, the young lady, though not at all anxious for publicity, nevertheless gave her consent in the hope that her experience might prove beneficial to some of the many young girls whose condition of health is very similar to what hers was previous to her cure. Miss Millar stated that when her illness began her mother was unable to look after the affairs of the household and the duties largely devolved upon her. She felt herself growing weak and easily tired, but felt that she must keep up. She says: "Notwithstanding my efforts I found myself growing worse and worse. My appetite failed, my complexion became sallow and my eyes sunken in my head. I was troubled with dizziness, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart until at times I felt as though I would suffocate. I was almost constantly troubled with a pain in the side, and severe headaches. When I went up stairs I was obliged to rest. Life had become almost a burden and at last I was forced to give up and keep my bed. My friends feared I was going into consumption and one remedy after another was tried with no beneficial results until I was induced to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. In less than three weeks I was able to leave my bed and go about the house, and the use of the Pink Pills a few weeks longer completely restored my health and strength and drove away all symptoms and pains which had made my life so miserable. I feel that in bringing this matter before the public I am but doing simple justice to suffering humanity, and I hope that those afflicted as I was will give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. I might also add that other members of our family have used Pink Pills with equally good results."

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for Miss Millar, they will do for thousands of other young girls throughout the country whose condition is similar. They restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks, correct functional derangements, and create a feeling of new life and energy. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Refuse all pink colored imitations and other medicines said to be "just as good."

REAL BRILLIANCE.

I think Mr. Doolittle is an awful clever man, said Maud Littleton, in one of her confidential chats with her friend Polly Perkins.

Do you? said her friend, I don't. I think he's awfully stupid.

Oh! but he knows lots more than most men, went on Maud. For one thing, he knows when to go when he's making a call, and for another thing he never puts his foot in it, for the reason that he never says anything.

A BEAUTIFUL ADJUSTMENT.

Parke—I have a joint account in the bank with my wife now.

Lane—Good! You make an even thing of it, eh?

Yes, I put the money in and she draws it out.

An Honest Testimony.

Waited a year to see if his Neuralgia was cured before he would testify.

A remedy that won't stand the test of time is not much good. A so-called cure that won't last after the remedy has ceased being taken is of very little benefit.

If you have Neuralgia as severe as Mr. Geo. F. Johnston had, you'll not only want the pain stopped temporarily, but you'll not want to have it back again. Here's the oath Mr. Johnston took, it's well worth perusal:

"I, Geo. F. Johnston, farmer, residing in the Township of Glanford, Lot 13, on the 5th Concession, do solemnly declare that I am now cured of Neuralgia after 25 years of suffering, and that Ryckman's Kootenay Cure was the medicine that cured me.

"I was so bad at times that I had to quit work, and often had to get out of my bed at night and walk the floor. The pain would sometimes seize me suddenly in the back of the head, then draw the cords in the neck. My eyesight failed me and I greatly feared I would have an attack of heart failure. I doctored with medical men and used many so-called cures, but nothing did me good until I took Kootenay Cure. I have now been cured for over a year, and calculated quite a long while ago to give my testimonial, but wanted to see if the cure was a permanent one. I believe it is and I consider Kootenay Cure the most wonderful remedy for Neuralgia in the head."

GOLD MINE, AND HUSBANDS TO BOOT

Two American Girls Settle a Dispute About Their Claims.

At the beginning of the school term last fall in Iowa, Miss Jennie Renfrow and Miss Alice Howard, life-long chums and country school teachers, decided that it would take too long to accumulate a fortune teaching school, and they determined to set out in search of gold. The young women decided to prospect the Rainy Lake region in search of the precious metal. About Oct. 1 they passed through Duluth for Tower, Minn., on their way to Rainy Lake City. Arriving at Tower they concluded that they would canoe up the river. They wanted to examine the formation of the rock in the country adjacent to Tower. It became necessary for the young women to take a most important step here. They could not travel in the rough way they had decided on in their present dress.

Then, again, they wanted to lose their identity as women. At Duluth they had purchased all the necessary supplies, as well as two suits of clothes. A pair of scissors was brought into play first, and each turned barber for the other. Soon their hair was clipped close to the head. Woman's garb was packed away, and sweaters, coats, and trousers were donned in their place. Miss Alice and Miss Jennie say they were a little nervous at first after finding themselves rigged out in men's attire, but they soon became accustomed to it. As soon as the change was effected they started on their voyage up the river.

On the second day the canoe struck a rock with sufficient force to knock a hole in it. Alice jumped to her feet with and in an instant the canoe was overturned and all that it contained went to the bottom of the river, twenty feet below. The only thing saved were a fishline and a box of matches that Jennie had in her pocket.

They recovered the canoe, patched it up as best they could, and managed to keep it afloat until they reached Rainy Lake City, three days later. For the rest of the trip they lived on fish and water, mostly water. Not even a potato was saved from the provisions. On their arrival at Rainy Lake City they bought a new lot of supplies, rifles, and ammunition. They then struck off into the country in search of gold. Before snow began to fall they had discovered what they believed to be paying qualities on a location near this place. There was no Bell City at that time, however. They bought a sheet-iron stove and other things to make their little house as comfortable as possible and then spent the winter in hunting all kinds of game in the wilds of northern Ontario. They were known to the few prospectors who had met them as the "Bliss boys." While waiting until the time should come in the spring when they could develop their property the young women wrote to the crown land office at Ottawa, applying for a patent. They received notice that a patent could not be granted, as a "caution" had been filed against the location by two men, James Rankin and F. E. Williams. Before the notice was received the young women had discovered that they were the possessors of a valuable claim. They had uncovered a vein of gold-bearing rock that showed free gold all through it, and the formation was perfect.

A few days after the notice was received two men came along and introduced themselves as Rankin and Williams. They notified the young women that they were trespassing; that the property belonged to themselves, or to the two young women who applied for a patent. The girls excused themselves for a moment and held a consultation. They decided to make

A CLEAN BREAST OF IT to the young men. Williams and Rankin were invited to stay and have dinner, and during the meal the girls told all.

The young men stayed until dusk, and then returned to Mine Center. They were back the next day, however, and every day thereafter saw them trudging forth between Mine Center and the claim that the girls were holding down. One evening, as the boys were about to take their leave, Frank and Alice announced to the other two that they were engaged. Jennie, hiding her face on Jim's shoulder, told the others that they had concluded some time before that the best way to settle matters was by getting married. Then the girls insisted that the ceremony should take place on the glorious Fourth, and when it was announced here the camp decided to celebrate. Alice and Jennie made a hurried trip to Fort Frances after the engagement was announced, where they procured everything necessary for a woman's toilet. As Bell City does not as yet boast of a photographer it is impossible to obtain pictures of the young couple. The brides elect, however, are perfect types of American womanhood, and will make happy homes for their husbands. The mine has been named "Wedding Bells," and as soon as the knot is tied a trip will be made to Ottawa, and the tangle there will be straightened out.

A CRITICAL MOMENT.

Arctic Explorer, recounting adventures of his last expedition.—We certainly could have reached the pole had not our dogs given out at the critical moment.

Fair listener, breathlessly.—Why, I thought the Eskimo dogs were perfectly tireless creatures!

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.
