

Powles's Corner.

(Correspondence of the Gazette.)

Mr. O. Bowles, principal of the school here, has recently contracted diphtheria, but at the time of writing his is the only case, and he is doing well under the skillful treatment of Dr. Wilson of Fenelon Falls.

The Board of Health has appointed Mr. W. H. Powles to look after the wants of Mr. W. A. Gillis, who is at present isolated on account of diphtheria, and any others who should be so unfortunate as to take that disease.

Mrs. G. Argue of Pontypool, with one of her little boys, is visiting her sister, Mrs. James Powles.

DENTAL.—Dr. Neelands, dentist, Lindsay, will be at the McArthur House on Tuesday, Sept. 21st. He will have gas for extracting teeth. Call early and secure an appointment.

Goods must go within the next ten days, in order to make room for fall stock, at Mrs. R. McDougall's.—27.

THE MAPLE LAKE TRAGEDY.—The jury in this case found a verdict against both Thomas and Matthew Thompson, as having by kicks and blows caused the death of William H. Sawyer. The prisoners passed through the Falls on Tuesday on their way to the Lindsay gaol.

HO! FOR THE CENTRAL.—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church have issued posters announcing an excursion to Lindsay by the Crandella on Friday next, the 24th inst., the second and most attractive day of the Central Fair. The boat will leave the locks at 8.30 a. m., and returning, will leave Lindsay at 6 p. m. Fare for the round trip 25c.; children 15c.

All the trimmed hats and bonnets to be sold at half price for the next ten days at Mrs. R. McDougall's.—27.

THANKS.—Mr. James Patterson of Verulam will please accept our thanks for the basketful of fine large Duchess of Oldenburg apples that he left at the Gazette office last Friday. They were beauties, as good to eat as to look at, and had the additional recommendation of not costing anything. We are a pretty good judge of apples, and if any farmer in this vicinity thinks he has better than Mr. Patterson's he can bring us a sample and—no matter how busy we may be—we will test them carefully and give him our honest opinion as to their merits.

Don't fail to see the bargains in millinery at Mrs. R. McDougall's.—27.

DEATH OF FINOT.—Mr. Nathan Day's handsome Percheron stallion Finot died at Price's Corners, about five miles from Orillia, on Sunday, the 5th inst. He was taken ill on the previous Tuesday, a telegram was sent to Mr. Day on Wednesday, and he went up on Thursday. Of course everything possible was done to save the valuable animal, but Mr. Day says that as soon as he saw him he felt sure he would not recover, as he showed exactly the same symptoms as his predecessor Champagne, that died a few years ago. Finot was just in his prime, being only ten years old, and Mr. Day has owned him since he was three.

WOOD ALCOHOL.—As evidence of the truth of the statement made in the Gazette of the 3rd inst. that wood alcohol, now being made in this village, is a deadly poison, we quote the following news item from Jefferson, Indiana:—"Tramps purchased a pint of alcohol at a drug store here, saying it was to make liniment for a lame horse. The druggist gave them wood alcohol, and warned them twice that it was poisonous. They went to the woods and mixed it with water. Three of the party of five drank it, and died the following morning. The two tramps who declined to drink journeyed on east. The dead men were named Emerson, Rogan and Montague."

Produce taken in exchange at Mrs. R. McDougall's.—27.

AN EQUINE TRAGEDY.—A brown mare, about six years old, owned by Rev. T. P. Steel, of this village, came to a tragical end on the night of the 9th inst. He had turned her loose in the yard to eat some grass that was growing along the fences, and hearing a noise, about half past 11 o'clock, he went out and found the unfortunate animal impaled on the pickets of the carriage gate, two or three of which had penetrated her abdomen just in front of her flanks, to the depth of about a foot. Having liberated her by cutting the top cross-bar of the gate at both ends, Mr. Steel ran to the rear of the parsonage lot and through Mr. Golden's to Dr. Mason's house on Francis street; and in a very few minutes he, the doctor, Mr. Golden and Mr. Burgess were around the equine patient. She was on her feet when they returned, but soon laid down, and as her bowels were protruding and it was evident she could not recover, Dr. Mason put her out of her misery by a blow on her forehead with an axe, which killed her instantly. The gate over which she attempted to jump was new and strong, but not unusually high, and it is probable that she would have cleared it easily enough but for the fact that it was at the top of a rather steep hill, which placed her at a great disadvantage.

In Memoriam.

Lines written on the death of Mrs. C. Curtis, Sr., who departed this life on the 28th of August, 1897, at the age of 70 years.

We miss thee, dear mother,
From thy familiar place,
We do not hear thy footsteps near,
Nor see thy cheerful face.

We miss thee at church;
We feel thy absence there;
And oh, what sorrows pierce our hearts
To see thy vacant chair.

We miss the kind word spoken,
The merry laugh and smile;
We miss the fond look of thine eyes,
We miss thee all the while.

The home is sad without thee;
How desolate is each heart;
Oh, could we hear thy voice again,
What joy it would impart!

We miss thee, oh, we miss thee,
Whichever way we go!
Oh, may the seed that thou hast sown
To glorious harvest grow.

'Twas hard to give thee up;
'Twas hard to see thee go;
But it was harder far to see
Thee suffer here below.

We would not ask thee back again
To this dark world of sin,
For we know that thou art happier
With our Saviour over there.

She has left a weeping husband,
Who regarded her with care,
And kind and loving children,
Who will half the burden bear.

Loving father, cease thy weeping;
Children, wipe away all tears;
Give a life that you may meet her
In the grand hereafter years.

A faithful friend she was to all;
But in the dying hour
I did not see her smiling face,
Nor change a loving word.

A few short years shall soon roll by,
When our time on earth is o'er;
Then, dear friend, if we prove faithful,
We shall meet to part no more.

—Mrs. Joseph Curtis.

It's Not What
We Say

That makes this store a good place to trade. We but recite the fact. It is what the people find here—what they have found at this store for years in the past. The evidence is here for you as plainly as for us. Beautiful designs in all lines of Jewellery, Watches, Clocks, Silverware, China and Bric-a-brac. A cordial welcome whether you wish to buy or not. Comparison shows the prices to be better value than elsewhere. Inspection proves the stock to be unequalled in quality and quantity.
