Why did Halton Repeal the Scott Act?

This is the question which Rev. C.
R. Morrow, of Alma, asks in a recent lecture of his on "Moral and Civil Law," and some of the facts stated in the reply are worth preserving and thinking about. He says: "Not because it was a failure. The temperance people were able to show that all the ministers of the Gospel (with perhaps four exceptions), both members of Parliament and a majority of the county council were against repeal. Three newspapers in the county wrote against and only one for repeal. No one believed there was anything like as much liquor consumed as under license. We were able to say that the Act had greatly reduced crime. Take this fact, that for twelve assizes in succession and twelve sessions of the peace, twenty-four courts in all, not one criminal sentence was pronounced. Where is the county that protects by law this nefarious traffic that can say that at no general court held during six consecutive years has a criminal sentence been pronounced.

"Then look at the other side. Eleven or more of the men who circulated the repeal petition had been fined or sentenced to jail for violation of the law.
At least twenty-seven of those signing the petition were similarly dealt with for being law-breakers. The liquor party had been beaten twice at the polls, driven from the platform, and their statements, one after another, disproved by the logic of events. And yet the Act was repealed. What was the result of repeal? There had been twelve assizes without a criminal being sentenced, but at the first assizes under license two criminals were sentenced.
Again: The convictions for assault, drunks, etc., for fifteen quarters under the Temperance Act were eighty-eight; for similar offences for the quarter ending December, 1888, the first full quarter under license, forty. The figures are worth repeating: Convictions for fifteen quarters under temperance law, eighty-eight, and for one quarter under liquor law, forty."

Beer Will be Taxed.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—The Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House have practically concluded the preparation of a revenue measure which will be passed to raise revenue sufficient to prosecute war. The members propose that the present generation shall bear the burdens of the war, and proceeding upon that theory they have prepared a bill that will raise between $100,000,000 and $120,000,000 additional revenue per year. The bill will provide for an additional tax of $1 per barrel on beer, from which $30,000,000 will be raised.
On manufactured tobacco and snuff the internal revenue will be increased from 6 to 12 cents. This is expected to raise $15,000,000 of revenue. The increase on cigars and cigarettes has not been absolutely fixed, but probably will be one dollar on all classes. From this $5,000,- 000 is expected. The proposition which the Senate placed in the tariff bill, but which was defeated, to tax all stocks and transfers of corporations, is embodied in the measure, together with practically all the schemes of internal revenue taxation of the act of 1866, which includes a stamp tax on all cheques, drafts and all instruments of business (mortgages, loans and bonds); a tax on patent and proprietary medicines and a tax on telegraph messages and express packages is also incorporated in the bill.

This scheme of taxation is estimated to raise $35,000,000. The tax on proprietary and patent medicines will be 2 cents on packages or bottles retailing at 25 cents or under, and 4 cents on those retailing above that price.
