A Terrible Indictment.

The people have heard so frequently, and read so often, scathing and strong arraignments of the drink trade, which produces and sustains intemperance and its brood of curses, that they have become almost impervious to impressions of the enormity of the evil, and the shocking sin of their complicity in it. The truth of the most superlative of these indictments is seldom questioned, and by common consent men may exhaust their eloquence and their invective upon the traffic without arousing antagonism, so long as they are careful to do it in the abstract, and not to interfere concretely in the operations of the trade or its manipulation by practical politicians.

Bishop Foster, the learned leader of the Methodists of the United States, in referring to the complicity of Christians in this guilty traffic, delivered himself of this telling but truthful denunciation:

"Think, for a moment, that this Christendom has authorized by law and sanction of state the creation of this frightful pest gang; that it has provided for its creation; that it is here not in opposition to, but of, her will; that by formal and deliberate legislation, brought about by Christian votes, she has opened, in all her town and cities, slaughter-houses of men, women and children, and of all virtue, and employs a million minions to do this dreadful work; that she has done this, and continues to do it, with her eyes open, and with full knowledge and purpose; that she has prepared and planned and deliberated in Government chambers for the production of these desperate classes; that her employed and licensed minions do this for pay. Nations which license murder for pay will be murdered for plunder; nations which fatten the wild beasts of passion will be devoured by the wild beasts of rapine and ruin. The rum hole must be closed, or the rum hell will engulf Christendom."

—Templar.

The Heir Apparent of Newfoundland.

A Mr. Reid is he. "About six years ago," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "he made up his mind to relieve Mr. Chamberlain of any further responsibility in connection with the land of 'historic misfortune.'"

By a fluke Mr. Reid obtained a contract to build an Island railroad, receiving a bonus of $15,000 per mile, and 2,500,000 acres of land, to be selected at any time within five years, or, "as soon after as convenient." No mistakes, it is to be supposed, will be made in selecting; due deliberation ought to secure choice bits. Mr. Reid has already "cleaned up" $2,000,000 on the railroad, and has mineral lands galore—the richest in the world, so some say; he has "taken over" the telegraph system; he has bought the dry dock; he is owner of the gigantic coal fields; he will run a line of seven steamers round the island and an electric line at St. John's; he has in hand the materials for a monstrous additional fortune in some hundreds of square miles of lumber and pulp wood territory; he means to secure all the English-Canadian traffic over his railroad; and, if there is anything else his nibs may want, he has only to ask for it. Let who will be king, Mr. Reid is Mr. Reid, and ambition need soar no higher.

And all this piling up of natural opportunities in the hands of one enterprising energetic man is done through all-pervading ignorance of two facts—equality of right to the bounties of nature, and national ownership of values created by the presence of men—such as the values of mineral and lumber land and the value of the right of way and sites. These two facts Single Tax is steadily bringing to light. Had we been more diligent, the graspings of Mr. Reid would have been impossible. Reids, Rockefellers and Astors flourish through the ignorance of the masses.—Single Tax.

Peace is Not to be Despised.

It is creditable to the patriotism of the young men of the United States that so many of them are willing to go to war, and it is creditable to the common sense of some young men that so many of them would sooner stay at home. The volunteers who do their thinking after they have gone to camp, and before they have been sworn in as regulars in the service of Uncle Sam, are having a hard time. They are not allowed to withdraw gracefully. The buttons are cut from their uniforms, and they retreat from camp to the tune of the "Rogue's March," while the national guardsmen who do enlist hit their recreant comrades with stale eggs and chunks of United States territory. The fact seems to be that the United States has had trouble enough raising volunteers to meet the figures of President McKinley's modest demand for troops. This circumstance proves, not the cowardice, but the common sense of the young men of the Republic. Military and naval glory is not to be despised; for without strength on sea and land a nation soon sinks, like China, to be a mere geographical expression. The United States would not have to look twice for soldiers if her own shores were in danger, but the Americans are mostly sensible men and brethren who would sooner stay at home, comfortably attending to their own business, than go abroad to enjoy the martial exercise of endangering other people's shores.—Telegram.
