

Death of Lord Salisbury.

Robert Talbot Gascoyne-Cecil, third Marquis of Salisbury and ex-Premier of England, died peacefully at his residence, Hatfield House, Herts, at 9.05 o'clock last Saturday night, surrounded by all his family except one of his sons, Lord Edward Cecil. He was born at Hatfield on February 3rd, 1830, and in 1857 married Georgina, daughter of the late Hon. Sir Edward Hall Alderson, a Baron of the Exchequer, by whom he had five sons and five daughters, all but one of whom (a daughter) survive him. One of the Associated Press despatches says:

"Much human interest attaches to the earlier years of Lord Salisbury. When a youth he visited Australia, and local tradition at Bendigo is to the effect that he tried placer mining there. His marriage, contrary to the wishes of his father, forced him to depend on his own resources, and he and his wife were constant contributors to the Saturday Review. He entered Parliament fifty years ago as Lord Robert Cecil, and his early career there and his speeches were marked by the sharp epigrammatic style of the reviewer, which was somewhat modified on his first appointment to office as Secretary for India in 1866, but has always been more or less a characteristic. He resigned in the following year, but was again appointed to that office in 1874, under Disraeli. It was in 1876-7, as special Ambassador to a conference on the eastern question at Constantinople, that he first took a prominent part in reference to foreign affairs."

Lord Salisbury was first called to form a ministry in 1885, and since then his name has been "as familiar in our mouths as household words." The Globe says:

"Death has removed in the person of Lord Salisbury the last of the 'Queen's Ministers.' The news of his demise suggests that a regime has passed away. Lord Salisbury never filled in the public mind so distinct a place as Palmerston, or Peel, or Disraeli, or Gladstone. There was an element of aloofness about him that prevented him ever becoming a popular hero. Although finely epigrammatic and weighty, his speaking did not possess the qualities that make for popularity. He had, moreover, been so long in the House of Lords that the authority of the leadership always seemed divided, and as the public attention will always be chiefly bestowed on the Commons, the leader of that body attracted a large share of the interest that would otherwise doubtless have been bestowed on Lord Salisbury. When, therefore, he retired from office a year ago, he seemed to disappear at once and completely from public observation."

The Village Debentures.

It appears probable that, after all, the village debentures will be guaranteed by the county, which will reduce the interest to be paid on the borrowed money and cost the county not a cent. On Monday Messrs. McFarland, Brandon and Solicitor McDiarmid waited on the Verulam township council at Bobcaygeon, and on Wednesday Messrs. McFarland and Gould interviewed the Fenelon township council at Cambray, and succeeded in having the resolutions below passed without a dissenting vote.

Moved by J. P. Palmer, seconded by E. Mark, and Resolved, That this council, having heard the deputation from the Fenelon Falls Board of Water Light and Power Commissioners, hereby expresses its approval of the guaranteeing of the debentures of the said village by the county of Victoria.

Moved by J. Brooks, seconded by W. Devitt, That the resolution passed at the last session of council, viewing with displeasure the county guaranteeing the bonds of Fenelon Falls in the purchase of the water power from Messrs. McDougall Brandon and Austin, be and is hereby rescinded, and that, instead, this council look upon the scheme with a deal of satisfaction, tending as it does towards municipal ownership, and that our county representatives be instructed to support the measure as heretofore.—Carried.

A Burglar Alarm.

On Monday morning the village was full of rumors of attempted burglaries on Saturday and Sunday nights; but, as far as we can learn, nothing was done that can reasonably be attributed to professional thieves. On Saturday night a couple of men (or boys) peeped through the window of Mr. Burgoyne's office at the rear end of the store, and, later, they or some others were seen loitering behind the Bank, which is in the same block. On the strength of these incidents, Constable Brock and his deputy, Mr. Tom Scott, armed with rifles, patrolled the main street during the greater part of the night; and were aided and abetted by two members of the Bank staff, one of whom, a new comer, "held up" Dr. Graham, who was returning from visiting a patient in the country, and asked him to wait (which he did) until the others came up and identified him. However, too much zeal on the part of officials is better than too little; and we think that the constables are to be commended for acting promptly the moment they thought there was any necessity for it. About 2 a. m. on Monday somebody tried to force open the front door of Mrs. J. Twomey's residence on Louisa street, which so alarmed the venerable lady that she went over to Mr. Richard Mitchell's; and during the same night Mr. Joseph McFarland's stable was twice entered, but nothing was stolen. The first idea that there had been burglars in the village was soon exploded, and the opinion now is that a tramp was prowling around; but, if so, he has not since been seen. In this connection we may remark that persons who have money in their houses will be wise to deposit it in the Bank, which will be responsible for its safe keeping; and any burglar who attempts to rob that institution will meet with so warm a reception that he'll sincerely wish he hadn't. Besides, in the almost impossible event of the Bank being robbed, the loss would fall upon the Bank itself, and not upon the persons who had money deposited therein.

Ferrozone is a blood builder, nerve strengthener and brain invigorator. Sold by W. H. Robson.

VOCAL.—Madame Doon Cochrane, of Detroit, rendered two vocal solos in St. Andrew's church last Sunday evening, and surprised the congregation by the strength and beauty of her voice. Mrs. Cochrane possesses a very powerful and highly trained soprano; and, as her enunciation is first class and she sings with great feeling, she cannot fail to please even a critical audience.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. D. C. Trew, of Lindsay, has been appointed one of the Government expert judges of poultry, and we hope to see him here on the second day of our fall show. He is one of the most experienced "hen men" in the Province, and will, we feel quite confident, give his decisions uninfluenced by anything but the merits of the birds he is called upon to judge.

CORRECTION.—In the school board proceedings published our last issue there was an error. It was stated that Mr. P. J. Knox had been engaged as teacher of the south ward school at a salary of $325; but it should have read $350. He received the last named sum for teaching the school in Verulam, where he would no doubt have been re-engaged; but he of course greatly prefers to live at the Falls, which is his home.

Why Nerviline Cures

Rheumatism. The remarkable strength and marvellous soothing property of Nerviline—nerve pain cure—renders it almost infallible in Rheumatism: Five times stronger than any other, its penetrating power enables it to reach the source of pain and drive out the disease. Nerviline is more penetrating, stronger, and more highly pain-subduing in its action than any medicine heretofore devised for the relief of man's infirmities. Druggists sell it everywhere. Sold by W. H. Robson.

A GOOD SWIMMER.—A few days ago one of Mr. Nathan Day's sheep swam across the lake, from his farm to Sturgeon Point, a distance of about two miles. It was chased into the water by dogs, which worried some of the other sheep, and were shot at, but escaped unhurt. We knew that sheep, like all four-legged animals, could swim, but had no idea that one of them could cross Sturgeon lake, until Mr. Day's performed the feat, and, we fancy, "beat the record."

FELL INTO A KILN.—On Friday morning Mr. Joseph Pogue, who is tenant of the old Naylor farm, close to the Falls, found one of his team, a bay mare, dead, with her neck broken, in an old lime kiln that has been on the farm for many years. Mr. Pogue always intended to fill it up, some day or another; and now, no doubt wishes he had done so. The mare was thirteen years old and blind of an eye; but, at the present price of horseflesh, she was worth a good bit of money.

ANOTHER BIKE ACCIDENT.—On Thursday of last week a young man named Frank Carr, from Port Huron, was at the Falls and left in the evening on his bicycle, from which he was thrown, near Moffat's hill, with such violence that one of his shoulders was badly hurt, if not dislocated. Constable Brock, who was on his way home from the country, saw him just after the accident and offered to assist him; but he said he thought he could get as far as Bobcaygeon without help, and Mr. Brock left him at the roadside.

THAT STAGE ITEM.—The Minden Echo says: "We notice a paragraph in the columns of an esteemed cotemporary, The Fenelon Falls Gazette, in which it is stated that a new stage has been started between Minden and Kinmount, but no one here has seen anything of it yet." We obtained the information given in the paragraph referred to from residents of Minden, and saw the new stage waggon, which was made here by Mr. Gainer, who said that it was for Mr. Moon, and was to run between Minden and Kinmount. Possibly there has been some cause of delay or Mr. Moon may have changed his mind; but we certainly had good reasons for saying what we did.
