

ONE DAY AT HOME.

How Mrs. Mortimer Surprises Her Husband.

"I tell you," said young Mr. Mortimer, proudly, as he saw his wife bear away their only son on his way to bed, "you don't know how I envy you, my dear, the opportunity of being with that youngster every hour of the day and watching his little mind unfold like—a flower," he concluded tritely, but with undiminished earnestness. If matters had rested there all would have been well. But after some comment by his wife he continued.

"No time!" he observed, with a superior smile. "I often hear you say that, my dear, and I suppose you don't know the curiosity it awakens in my mind. The curiosity," continued Mrs. Mortimer, "as to what you manage to do with your time to fill it up. It is a long day from seven to seven, surely long enough to have an hour for almost everything that might fall within a woman's sphere; yet somehow you seem to miss much."

Mrs. Mortimer said nothing, but in her mind was born a resolution. The next evening after dinner Mrs. Mortimer approached her husband with a few sheets of paper. "The diary of a day, my dear," she said, as she thrust the papers into his hand. This is what he read:

"Five o'clock. Baby woke up, and would not go to sleep again. I took him down to the library so that his father should not be disturbed at such an early hour, and kept him amused until seven.

"Seven o'clock. Managed to get dressed for breakfast, but was unable to eat it with my husband owing to the fact that baby got badly scratched on a pin, which his father gave him to play with, and had to be soothed.

"Eight o'clock. Gave baby his bath and breakfast. At breakfast he upset his bowl of porridge over his clean dress, and so he had to be undressed, bathed and dressed all over again.

"Nine o'clock. Took baby out in his go-cart to market and for a little airing. Had planned to make a little informal call, but baby grew fretful, and I had to bring him home and put him to sleep.

"Eleven o'clock. Baby woke up and tried to swallow a button. Sent for the doctor, but meantime got the button out of his throat with my finger.

"Twelve o'clock. Baby spilt a bottle of ink all over the library table and the rug under it. Also over himself.

"One o'clock. Baby's third bath to-day. Luncheon. Unexpected company.

"Three o'clock. Got baby to sleep after an hour's trying.

"Four o'clock. Baby woke up feverish from his throat. Fell and bumped his head badly.

"Four thirty. Baby fell and bumped his head again in the same place. Was naturally irritated and fretful.

"Six o'clock. Dressed baby for the fifth time to-day, so that when his blissful ignorant father came home he might think a day with baby a heaven-sent privilege and a woman's time legitimate matter for perennial jest. Sworn to, signed and submitted."

SHORT AND LONG DAYS.

The day is longer or shorter as you go north or south of the equator. On Cape Horn, 56 degrees south latitude, the days in mid-winter are about nine hours long. The longest day in London is sixteen hours and a half; at Stockholm, eighteen hours and a half; at Hamburg, seventeen hours; at St. Petersburg the longest day has eighteen hours, and the shortest five; at Tornea, in Finland, the longest day has twenty-one hours and a half, and the shortest two hours and a half; at Spitzbergen the longest day is three months and a half.

THIN DIET.

No Nourishment In It.

It's not easy to keep up when coffee has so ruined the stomach that food won't digest.

A Mo. woman says: "I had been an invalid for two years from stomach trouble caused by coffee, got so bad I couldn't digest food and for quite a while I lived on milk and lime water—nothing but that—a glass of milk and lime water six times a day. In this way I managed to live, but, of course did not gain.

"It was about 5 months ago I began using Postum Food Coffee; I did not need the milk and lime water after that for I gained rapidly and I can now eat a good meal and drink from 1 to 3 cups of Postum each meal and feel fine.

"I would not go back to coffee for any reasonable pay. I like Postum better than coffee now and make Postum by directions on box and it is just fine; never found a better way to make it than on box. Now this is all true and you can easily prove it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum is a brew from field grains with all the nourishment left in. It makes red blood and rebuilds particularly well where coffee has done damage as it does to nearly all who drink it.

A 10 days' trial of Postum in place of coffee works wonders. There's a reason. Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville" in each package.

POPULAR OTTAWA MAN IN LUCK

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIM OF STONE IN THE KIDNEYS.

Mr. S. A. Cassidy, the Well-known Sportsman, Tells Why He is Grateful to the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy. Ottawa, Ont., March 21.—(Special)—Few people in the Capital are as well known and popular as Mr. "Sam" Cassidy, proprietor of the Bijou Hotel, Metcalf Street. As a hunter and fisherman of more than local reputation, he has become known to followers of the rod and gun all over the country, and many of the members of parliament who make an annual sojourn here are counted among his personal friends. The news, therefore, that he has found a complete cure for a dangerous malady will give general satisfaction. Speaking of it he says:

"My friends all know that I have been troubled for years with Stone in the Kidneys; that though I consulted the best physicians and tried nearly every remedy I could think of, I was unable to get better. "Some time ago a friend told me Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure me. As a last resort I tried them and they have cured me. I cannot imagine more severe suffering than one endures who has Stone in the Kidneys, and I feel the warmest gratitude towards Dodd's Kidney Pills."

If the disease is of the Kidneys or from the kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

"To-morrow, Marie, will be your birthday, and I want to give you some appropriate present. What shall it be?" "Whatever your kind heart may suggest, John." (Next day)—"Marie, you know how your poor back has suffered from pulling off my boots in the evening? It will not suffer any more, my love. See! I have bought you a nice bootjack, which I can use hereafter instead."

CLEANSING SEED GRAIN.

Cleaning out seeds for next year's crops will soon be in order. Cleaning seed grain should not be merely freeing as much as possible from weed seeds, but every effort should be made to retain the heaviest, plumpest and best developed kernels. Farmers who raise lots of wheat should not wait with seed wheat cleaning until the greater part of their crop is sold. A better plan is to screen out a larger quantity than is needed and then run that over a second time, adjusting the wind so as to throw over the light kernels that may not have gone over by the first operation, and to use such a screen sieve below as seems to retain only the best sized kernels. Oats should be just as thoroughly cleaned. It is more essential to get the foul seeds out of the feed grains that out of market crops. The reason for this is apparent. When market crops are sold, the weeds go with them. Not so with the feed grain. Even when they are ground some small seeds may go through unmolested only to go back on the land with the manure, where they are given the best chance to grow a vigorous weed.
