PERRY PYROTECHNICS

Toronto Accords Full Honors to Modest King's Prizeman.

150,000 People Cheer the Winner of the Blue Ribbon of the Rifle World—50,000 Attend the Tattoo on the University Lawn—The Presentations—Five Hurt in Accident—Perry Expresses Heartfelt Thanks.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The warmth and magnitude of the reception extended by the military, and those in the more peaceful walks of civil life in Toronto, to Private Sam Perry, King's Prizeman, will live in the memory of all who saw or participated. Crowds! It seemed as if there was not a soul in the city but who had flocked to the route of parade or to the park to see and do honor to a slim khaki-clad youth who, perched upon a gaily decorated gun carriage, was the most modest figure in the whole procession. Even the well-bronzed skin could not hide the blushes as he bowed acknowledgments to the throng who cheered, or as he leaned over to grasp a hand here and there of some one more deeply stirred to enthusiasm.

Streets Lined Six Deep.

From the Union Depot, where the streets were densely packed, up York to King and up Yonge to College and thence to the Queen's Park the sidewalks were lined from three to six deep with all sorts and conditions of Toronto people. And up through the park driveways it was the same.

The scenes on the university lawn were inspiring to a degree. No more beautiful place is there in the city for such an event than the lawn. With the university in the background and the broad spacious stretch of grass, and the shades of trees on the other three flanks, there was all the staging necessary for a spectacular performance. And when, added to this, and shown, first in the flickering light of oil torches, and then in the glare of the red fire pyrotechnics and the gay showers from the rockets, was the eager, but good-natured mass of women and men and children, crushing and craning, cheering and chattering then there were scenes indeed to make one marvel at the unrestrained manner in which Toronto gives the lie to the old adage that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country."

Crush in the Park.

A very conservative estimate placed the number present at 50,000; one well-known officer, as he stood on the platform and allowed his gaze to wander over the very sea of heads to north, to south, to east and to west, put himself on record as counting 150,000.

The police arrangements had been well mapped out, and there was a nicely roped-off enclosure for the tattoo program, a platform for the ceremonies erected on the lawn just south of the main entrance to varsity, and a reserved space in which invited guests were given chairs to see the tattoo and witness the presentations.

The tattoo was carried out successfully, and there was a fine display of fireworks. Then an attempt was made to carry out the real and important portions of the evening's program. But it was soon evident that any proceedings on the platform were but an empty vision for the few in the front row; the thousands formed but a surging mass, orderly but uncontrollable.

Perry Didn't Speak.

And so the speech-making was soon abandoned. Even Private Perry was given no chance to return his thanks for the reception he had just received. The presentations almost hurled at him and the proceedings announced to have terminated, and Perry had just mounted a table to show himself in answer to popular request, while the crowds were filing away, when the entire platform collapsed. It is an act of providence that no one was killed, and the accident created consternation for a while. As it was, five persons were hurt one seriously. The injured are: Chas. Goodhand, 40 Wellington avenue, left leg broken; Edward McLarity, 992 Bathurst street, aged 14, left shinbone badly bruised; Herman J. Johnston, 807 Palmerston avenue, right leg badly sprained; Harry Lawkins, Davisville, aged 15, left instep bruised; Frank England, aged 16, left leg badly cut and bruised.

The accident occurred at the conclusion of the ceremonies on the stand and was caused by the rush of the crowd to see and shake hands with Private Perry.

At the Station.

Pte. Perry had been received by Col. Otter and the members of the garrison committee at the Don Station, while Acting-Mayor Ward and members of the City Council were driving up to the station entrance. The train was only five minutes late arriving. What happened on the station platform can be readily imagined. Joseph Price, an uncle, and members of his family, were there to greet the young rifleman. His father had accepted an invitation to accompany the aldermanic party. While waiting for the troops to arrange themselves outside, a short delay occurred, during which time Perry held an informal reception. Among the officers present were Col. Otter, Lieut.-Cols. Stimson, Macdonald, Bruce and Merritt, Capt. Montgomery, Major Henderson, Capt. Grier, Major Sankey, Lieut. Young, Lieut. Linton and Capt. Moss. On his arrival, Ald. Ward and other members of the City Council were introduced. Perry wore the khaki uniform patterned after the mounted rifle style and issued by the Dominion Rifle Association to the Bisley team.

On his way up from Montreal Perry was greeted at nearly all the way stations by cheering groups, and at Peterboro quite a demonstration was given.

The members of the local regiments did themselves proud in the large turnouts recorded.

Cheered the Whole Way.

As Perry was drawn through the long lane of spectators along the whole route, the plaudits that were showered upon him were inspiring to listen to.

Tribute From the Garrison.

Captain Montgomery of the Grenadiers stepped forward when the temporary stand was reached and read the address from the garrison.

Col. Otter then made the presentation of a cabinet of silverware, shaking hands with the recipient and expressing pleasure at the ceremony.

Col. the Hon. J. M. Gibson, as president of the Dominion Rifle Association, then spoke, expressing his pleasure at taking part in the demonstration. He concluded by saying Perry had immortalized himself.

On behalf of the Ontario Rifle Association, its president, E. B. Osler, M.P., offered congratulations on his having won the blue ribbon of the rifle world over.

Toronto's Gift.

Ald. Ward, on behalf of the city, then presented a handsome grandfather's clock.

Col. Stimson followed, presenting a gold watch on behalf of the Grenadiers.

Col. Merritt, for the Bodyguards, presented a hunting outfit, as the G. G. B. G. is the senior militia corps in Canada, and as such wished to show their appreciation. The presentation of a pair of seal rings from "F" Company, Grenadiers, was then made.

Then the accident occurred and the formal proceedings were over.

After the conclusion of the formal ceremonial in the Queen's Park, the hero of the celebration was entertained by his old comrades of the Grenadiers in their Sergeants' Mess room.

Perry's Thanks.

The King's prizeman, who throughout the rather trying circumstances bore himself and his laurels with becoming modesty, said he could hardly express how much he had felt the reception accorded him in his native city. It had been overwhelming.

"I am not accustomed to put my sentiments into words," he said, "but I desire to express my thanks to all who have shared in the demonstration. It has far exceeded anything I anticipated, and I feel deeply honored at all that has been done."
