

was torn up and the floating bridge was not finished, but the heavy freight was brought by train to the foot of Francis street, where the teamsters could get at it. The planking of the floating bridge was finished either late on Wednesday or early Thursday morning, and Mr. Robert Magee was the first to drive over it.

ACCIDENT.—A little after 10 o'clock on Saturday night a son and daughter of Mr. John Junkin of lot 21, con. 4, Verulam, left the Falls for home, and stopped at Mr. Joseph Welsh's, at the boundary, for a parcel. While they were sitting in their buggy talking to Mrs. Welsh (who is their aunt), two other buggies, the owners of which were racing their horses, came along and passed one on each side of Mr. Junkin's buggy, which was struck, upset and badly broken, and the occupants thrown out. Neither of them was badly injured, but Miss Junkin suffered so much from fright and shock that Dr. Wilson had to be sent for to attend her, and she was not able to go home until Monday. The young men who caused the accident are known, and the one whose buggy collided with Mr. Junkin's will have to pay all damages, in addition to which both of them should be prosecuted for furious driving and fined as heavily as the law allows.
