LIBERAL CONVENTION.

A convention of the Liberals of the Constituency of Victoria and Haliburton will be held in the Academy of Music, Lindsay, on Tuesday, October 11th, at 11 a. m., to select a candidate for the House of Commons and transact other business. Delegates and alternates previously selected are qualified for this convention. Only delegates or alternates may vote, but all are cordially invited to attend the convention. The Grand Trunk and C. P. R. companies will issue return tickets to Lindsay at single fare, good to return on the day of the convention or the day following. The train to Haliburton will leave Lindsay at 4.30.

The Yellow Peril.

In the August Journal of International Arbitration and Peace, (London), we find a powerful article, written by an Englishman, from which we quote the following:

"Then, again, the civilized nations have long vied with one another in selling firearms to all impartially, irrespective of race, color or creed; and that stroke of business is beginning to bear its fruit. We, the civilized ones, have ever systematically plotted against those we deemed uncivilized. We have lost no opportunity of introducing the three B's, the Bible, the Brandy-bottle and the Bullet; and the natives have learnt to misinterpret the Bible, to get drunk on the Brandy, and to improve upon the Bullet. And whilst the conflict in the Far East is raging and new storms are brewing, what is our attitude? We look on more or less placidly. Some follow events with a sort of sporting interest, map in hand, and lay odds on the chances of the combatants. Others glorify war generally, prate of the noble qualities it elicits, and go forth armed with texts, quotations and statistics, all calculated to hypnotize conscience, and to whitewash and license the most barbaric of systems, the wholesale, premeditated, scientific slaughter of fellow-creatures. Those aid and abet murder. They proclaim the perfidious doctrine: Thou may'st commit murder, and issue the iniquitous command: Thou shalt commit murder.

"And we go a step, a very important step, further. We not only teach our neighbor to fight, but we tell them that war is inevitable, that it has always been and always will be so, and we give them such convincing proofs of the fact that they fully realize its truth. We have plainly told them that they must know how to fight, or they will be subjugated by those who do, and we have thus ourselves created the Asiatic peril. Under our guidance, hundreds of millions of Chinese and other Asiatics will inherit and adopt our conception of international relations, our disregard for the Bible, and our respect for the bullet. And our children will reap the fruits we are sowing.

"Yet we could conjure the peril; we could stop the advance. But there must be an entire change of front. Now, whenever we get into touch with native races, we find they are prepared, or preparing, for war—modern, up-to-date war. To teach them peace, instead of inciting them to war, is the duty, as is the wisest policy, of the older nations."

Borden and the Prohibitionists.

Many opponents of the liquor traffic doubt that the Liberal leaders are in favor of Prohibition, but the Toronto Star takes the opposite view; and, after quoting Mr. Borden's statement, in answer to a question recently put to him, that he would "follow the high precedent of his predecessors in the Conservative leadership," it says:

"The fact is, that what has been done for temperance in this country has been done by the Liberal party. The men who have fought the temperance battle in Canada have been nearly always Liberals. The Premier of this Province is a friend of temperance today, and is eager to do all that lies in his power for the cause. If Mr. Whitney were called in, he notoriously would do much less. The Laurier Government did not hear an order to advance in the plebiscite vote, and no set of men were in a better position to appreciate the real meaning of that vote. And now Mr. Borden tells us that neither will he outrun public opinion."

Railway Accidents.

A few days ago the Globe had an article discussing the causes of railway accidents, and concluded it as follows: "But allowance must be made for other weaknesses and failures. Long hours may cause an engineer to drop asleep for a few seconds at his post and pass a signal. A multiplicity of duties may cause a despatcher to make a mistake. Worry over domestic or business affairs may cause forgetfulness or absent-mindedness. All these matters must be taken into account when considering the duties and the salaries of men entrusted with the safety of trains. It is not always wise to subject such men to the extreme pressure of the labor market. Remuneration for their services should be sufficient to secure a superior grade of intelligence, and to make careful attention and faithful services spontaneous. The pressure of the unemployed is reaching every year to higher grades of skilled service. In spite of the unions it is felt in widening circles. It is questionable wisdom to maintain salaries at the lowest possible level in occupations in which so much depends upon the efficiency of the men."

More Work for Electricity.

An American newspaper of Socialist proclivities says:

"A Hungarian has invented a machine to wash clothes by electrified water. It is claimed to remove spots and dirt, and three hundred garments held by the machine are washed in fifteen minutes. Under the present system this invention is a calamity to the working class. It will throw thousands of hard working wash-women out of employment. Like all other inventions, it will simply be another instrument in the hands of the capitalist class to exploit the workers. Under Socialism it would be a blessing to humanity, because such a machine would be a collective necessity, and consequently it would be collectively owned and managed. The central aim of our future industrial state will be to decrease work and increase the product of work."

Millinery Opening.

The opening display, on Sept. 22nd, 23rd and 24th, at Miss M. Washburn's millinery establishment, was in every way up to the usual standard of excellence. The rooms were decorated with a pretty arrangement of autumn foliage, intermingled with drapings of pink and emerald green. This color scheme was carried into the window, where a number of the choicest hats were on view. The newest styles and excellent taste, combined with reasonable prices, emphasize the fact that there is no need to go outside of Fenelon Falls to obtain satisfactory headwear. There is a great variety and choice of trimmings in all the newest materials and colors.

The small high-crowned picture hat begins to take a foremost place in the high class lines. A beautiful model on this order is made of black moire silk with same shade panne velvet finishing edge of brim. The crown had three circles of blown glass beads, two Prince of Wales tips standing from crown at the right side and finished with a knot and drape of panne velvet. A very effective hat was a castor beaver with collar crown of pleated satin ribbon encircled with velvet girdle of same shade. A large shaded champagne plume caught in front and drooping over the left underbrim finished this pretty model. A chic little toque had a mink brim faced with white tuck and shirred chiffon, the top gracefully draped with sage green velvet. Two heads with knots of velvet completed this style. In this display there was an exquisite French sailor of white chiffon velvet with pipings of emerald green, the crown being encircled with folds of white satin ribbon, the only trimming being a large shaded green bird with wide spread wings. The stock of ready-to-wear and children's hats is also complete.

Powles' Corner.

(Correspondence of the Gazette.)

Nothing unusual has transpired in this community since the last issue of the Gazette. The political atmosphere has not changed. There is an idea prevailing that there should be a Farmers' Association organized here in western Ontario. There are many such organizations which will no doubt have a tendency to purify both political parties.

The Methodists here intend to have a fowl supper on the 17th of October. Due notice will be given as to who will preach the anniversary sermons on the 16th.

Mrs. R. Dopking, of Moscow, and Miss P. Jackson, of Enterprise, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Wagar.

Boys spending their time in the church shed during the time of service should be prohibited, and then if anything goes wrong in the shed no person can be blamed. A reform of this nature should be attended to at once, and any boys found playing around the shed during the time of meeting should be punished.

Mr. William Waffle and Mr. Thomas Stephens, of Cobocook, drove to the Falls on Wednesday behind Mr. Waffle's team of Antem mares, which Mr. Stephens is training for him. They are three years old, bright bays, well matched in every respect, as quiet as lambs, and very fast travellers.

Both charges having been proven, English was fined $3 and costs for each offence, making a total of $13 80.

A HANDSOME BIRD.—In the window of Dr. Gould's drug store there is a large and very handsome loon, which was killed near Birch Island, in Balsam Lake, about two months ago, by Mr. Alvin Gould, and stuffed and mounted by Mr. E. Elcome, taxidermist, of Peterborough. It weighed 12½ pounds when alive, and is, we think, the largest bird of the species we ever saw.

CORRECTION.—It appears that our statement in last week's Gazette with reference to the Moffatt-Hughes assault
