Will You Help It?

THE HOSPITAL FOR SICK CHILDREN

For it Cares for Every Sick Child in Ontario whose Parents Cannot Afford to Pay For Treatment.

The Hospital for Sick Children, College street, Toronto, appeals to the fathers and mothers of Ontario for funds to maintain the thousand sick children that it nurses within its walls every year.

The Hospital is not a local institution—but Provincial. The sick child from any place in Ontario who can't afford to pay has the same privileges as the child living in Toronto and is treated free.

The Hospital had last year in its beds and cots 761 patients, 267 of these were from 196 places outside of Toronto.

The cost is 98 cents per patient per day, and there were 129 sick little ones a day in the Hospital.

"GOOD DAY, DOCTOR."

Since its foundation the Hospital has treated 10,371 children—about 7,500 of these were unable to pay and were treated free.

Every dollar may be the translator of your kind thoughts into the Hospital kind deeds.

Everybody's dollar may be the Friend in Need to Somebody's child.

Let the money of the strong be mercy to the weak. The Hospital pays out dividends of health and happiness to suffering childhood on every dollar that is paid by the friends of little children.

If you know of any sick child in your neighborhood who is sick or crippled or has club feet send the parent's name to the Hospital.

See the example of what can be done for club-foot children. There were 14 like cases last year and hundreds in 23 years.

A Revolution of Bullets or Ballots?

A reader of the Appeal asks anxiously if the end of the times will be a revolution. The end will be a revolution, but not that revolution which is a solution or one fought at the ballot box. I cannot say. Should the capitalist class all over the United States assume the same lawless attitude as have the capitalists in Colorado, it is quite likely there will be no other course open for the working class. It will be remembered that through the force of public opinion, backed by the votes of the working class in Colorado, an eight hour law was placed on the statute books. This law was declared unconstitutional by the state supreme court. This was done at the request of the Mine Owners' Association. The workers of Colorado cheerfully acquiesced, and went to work to change the constitution. This they succeeded in doing, by a vote of over 40,000. Again, at the request of the Mine Owners' Association, the republican democratic legislature refused to enact an eight-hour law. The miners then quietly went on strike, and, through the assistance of their brothers in other districts and the funds which they had on hand they were enabled to conduct the strike successfully. So successfully, in fact, did they carry out their plans of a peaceful tie-up of the industries of the state, that the Mine Owners were forced to desperate action. They first arranged with the governor of the state, Mr. Peabody, to proclaim martial law over the mining districts. After this was done, the miners still refused to commit overt acts, and the Mine Owners were compelled to hire men to blow up mines, depots and assay offices. Then, to prevent an exposure of their nefarious schemes, the regularly elected civil officers of Teller county were forced to resign. The miners went to another county, where some of their comrades were working claims. While there, they were attacked by Gen. Bell's soldiers and one of their number, John Carley, was killed. The miners offered no resistance as they had no arms. All miners in the Cripple Creek district had been disarmed the December previous. This the soldiers knew. That's why they were so brave. The miners would have been justified in annihilating the attacking forces had they been armed. It took great moral courage to return peacefully to the military camp. But I question seriously whether the American workmen will always be as forbearing; and when he wakes up, unless he learns to use his ballot. I imagine there will be an armed revolution that will make the 1776 scrap look like thirty cents. The American people are long suffering—witness the long list of abuses they bore patiently before they struck for independence. It will be noted that in all past revolutions it was the disappearing ruling class that commenced hostilities. It was British soldiers who fired the first shot of the revolution, and it was the slave aristocracy that fired the first shot at Fort Sumpter. It is already a matter of history that the first shot in the Colorado trouble was fired by the Mine Owners' Association. Following this first act of war, comes the downfall—kingcraft fell, and so did chattel slavery. Is there any good reason why wage slavery should not follow?

The sequel to the Colorado trouble is now out. The Chicago Record-Herald published a despatch from New York, showing that Rockefeller has got control of three-fourths of all the producing mines in the United States! This means iron, lead, gold, silver and copper. He virtually owns the State of Colorado! Where Rockefeller goes, the laborers all have to bow their necks to the yoke. Rockefeller is getting all the oil properties in Kansas. Already the price of crude oil is falling, preparatory to his getting possession of the few remaining wells. In many places the producer cannot sell his products. Kansas will have a repetition of the Colorado affair. Isn't it time that the public take over the mining and oil interests, and operate them in the interests of the people? Or will the people wait until the nation is drenched in blood by the struggle between capitalists and laborers, before they wake up? Think of one man controlling all the vast mineral deposits of North America! The proposed mining combine will be capitalized at $2,500,000,000. And on this the people will pay Standard Oil dividends before they will be permitted to use what nature has given free to the race. Are you willing to keep on voting for a system that is surely centering the ownership of the nation into a dozen hands, directed by a single mind? Will you sleep while industrial tyranny is coiling about your life and the lives of your children? Wake up!—Jas. A. Wayland.

Abraham Lincoln's Prophecy.

In a speech delivered on Nov. 26th, 1864, President Lincoln said: "Yes, we may all congratulate ourselves that this cruel war is nearing its close. It has cost a vast amount of treasure and blood. The best blood of the flower of American youth has been freely offered upon our country's altar that the nation might live. It has been indeed a trying hour for the republic; but I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. "As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned and an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the republic is destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of war. God grant that my fears may prove groundless." Forty years have elapsed since the above prediction was uttered, and it is verified. In forty more, unless Socialism intervenes, a few men will make industrial slaves of all the other inhabitants of the United States.—Ex.
