

HE TELLS THEM TO ASK THE I.O.F.

JOHN J. BURNS CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

He Had Chronic Inflammation of the Kidneys—Says His Brother Foresters Can Tell all About it.

Darnley, P.E.I., Aug. 14 (Special).—John J. Burns, a prominent member of the I.O.F., here, whose cure of Chronic Inflammation of the Loins and Kidneys caused a sensation some time ago, reports that he is still in splendid health. "Yes," says Mr. Burns, "my cure is entirely satisfactory. I have had no trouble since I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. They drove away the disease from which I suffered for eight years.

"No, I'll never forget Dodd's Kidney Pills. The doctor could not help me. I got so bad I could scarcely walk, sit or sleep. I was about to give up entirely when an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Now I am in good health. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life."

If any one doubts Mr. Burns' story he simply refers them to his brother Foresters. They all know how he suffered and that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

EFFECTIVE IRONY.

Like ridicule, irony is often more effective than argument, and may convey suggestions and ideas in a terse and pithy manner, as when one says, "You can't always judge by appearances; the man who wears a diamond pin may be really wealthy."

A gentleman, it was once said, never inflicts pain. On which a wit remarks, "This is hard on the dentists."

Not a bad story is told of an aged clergyman who met a man loudly declaiming against foreign missions. "Why," asked the objector, "doesn't the Church look after the heathen at home?" "We do," said the clergyman, quietly, and gave the man a tract.

"So far as you saw," said counsel to a witness, "she was doing her ordinary household duty?"

"I should say so—she was talking," was the ironical reply.

"He never had but one genuine case in his life," said a lawyer of a rival, "and that was when he prosecuted his studies."

Some lawyers have had curious experiences of ironical wills. There is the not unfamiliar case of the French merchant who left a handsome legacy to a lady who had refused to marry him twenty years before, in gratitude for her kindness in not taking him at his word.

There is a good deal of pointed satire in such ironical facetiae as the following: "We are reminded you can't buy a quart of sand and be sure that it is not half sugar."

A resident in a suburban district was asked how his house had fared during a snowstorm. "Oh, badly," was the reply; "my cistern is the only dry place in it."

"What'll I do with this burglar alarm, Bill—take it along?" asks burglar number one. Second burglar: "Yes; slip it in the bag. We can get something for it."

TWO IN SUCCESSION.

Tess—Jack stole a kiss from me last night.

Jess—Gracious! What did you do about it?

Tess—Nothing. I didn't have time; he made restitution immediately.

HEART RIGHT

When He Quit Coffee.

Life Insurance Companies will not insure a man suffering from heart trouble. The reason is obvious.

This is a serious matter to the husband or father who is solicitous for the future of his dear ones. Often the heart trouble is caused by an unexpected thing and can be corrected if taken in time and properly treated. A man in Colorado writes: "I was a great coffee drinker for many years, and was not aware of the injurious effects of the habit till I became a practical invalid, suffering from heart trouble, indigestion and nervousness to an extent that made me wretchedly miserable myself and a nuisance to those who witnessed my sufferings.

"I continued to drink coffee, however, not suspecting that it was the cause of my ill-health, till, on applying for life insurance I was rejected on account of the trouble with my heart. Then I became alarmed. I found that leaving off coffee helped me quickly, so I quit it altogether and having been attracted by the advertisements of Postum Food Coffee I began its use.

"The change in my condition was remarkable, and it was not long till I was completely cured. All my ailments vanished. My digestion was completely restored, my nervousness disappeared, and, most important of all, my heart steadied down and became normal, and on a second examination I was accepted by the life insurance company. Quitting coffee and using Postum worked the cure."

There's a reason, and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville in each package.

POISON IN ICE CREAM

A BUSY DAY IN BIRMINGHAM, ENGLAND.

The Hospitals Crowded With Sufferers From Bateful Penny Ice.

For four hours on a recent Sunday afternoon and evening the Birmingham, England, hospitals were fairly besieged. A constant stream of vehicles kept arriving and discharging sick children. The little ones came in cabs and trams, in perambulators and ambulances. Many of them were suffering from violent abdominal pains, and all were afflicted with alarming sickness.

At first it was feared some new and deadly epidemic had broken out, but inquiries made proved that they were all patrons of an Italian ice-cream vendor on the Parade.

In all 45 cases were attended by the doctors. In many instances the work of the medical men had been made light by the intelligence of the police, who had promptly administered emetics, without waiting for the doctor.

Parents and friends of the sufferers became greatly excited, anticipating the worst consequences. There were some noisy scenes outside the hospital, and then an indignant crowd went off in search of the man who had sold the ice cream. He beat a hasty retreat, which was covered by the police. It was well that a good force of constables was on the scene, or the man would certainly have been handled roughly.

The remainder of the ice cream has been seized by the police. It is being kept in a frozen condition and was handed over to the analyst.

ICE CREAM FOR BABIES.

For a time the condition of some of the children was exceedingly critical and but for the prompt measures taken might have had fatal consequences.

All the sufferers were discharged from the hospital on Saturday night, though many remain under medical treatment at their homes.

A striking feature of the incident is the fact that some of the little sufferers were mites only two years old. At that age it might be thought, even the very best ice cream is liable to have an undesirable effect.

Apparently the Italian does not rely upon children for custom. One patient admitted to the hospital was a man 45 years of age, who has had to endure a fire of merciless chaff as a result of his amiable weakness for penny ices.

RARE WOODS.

Various Kinds Which Are Very Hard to Obtain.

Old and well-seasoned oak is hard to get and harder to work. There is no great quantity of old oak furniture in the market, and old pieces that would supply large enough lumber for important work are seldom found. New kiln-dried oak is uncertain, being liable to warp and crack.

Panelled articles can be made of such material with some safety, but large solid articles are likely to give a bad account of themselves at the end of a winter in a steam-heated house.

Rosewood also the best cabinet-makers distrust. This wood has a peculiar oily quality that makes it unsafe when glued. For this reason rosewood is used chiefly as a veneer. Thin sheets lose much of their oil and take glue satisfactorily.

Native walnut is no longer a favorite with the cabinetmakers. This wood was in effect exhausted a quarter of a century ago or more, and it is now as expensive as mahogany and by no means so beautiful.

Chestnut is a good deal prized, not for furniture, but for wainscoting and for doors. It is sometimes put up in the rough with good effect, and sometimes oiled and polished, when it is remarkably beautiful considering the cost.

Gulf cypress is used with great effect in like fashion, and when filled and oiled it makes one of the most beautiful woods for inexpensive interior decoration.

Cherry was the old substitute for mahogany, and is still a favorite wood with the furniture makers. It is, however, not easily obtained in a properly seasoned condition, for proper seasoning makes it expensive.

The fact is that with cherry, as with oak and mahogany, the seasoning is an important element of cost. The cabinetmaker who must sink his capital for two or three years in wood that is undergoing the process of seasoning finds it hard to compete with those who use kiln-dried material.

Mahogany is the favorite wood with the best cabinetmakers. There is a vast amount of seasoned mahogany to be had from ruinous old articles made in the last century when the rage for mahogany was well developed; and while the new mahogany is less beautiful than the old, purchasers of furniture seem to have learned that it is worth while to have the new wood well seasoned.

Floating islands, the largest being about three-quarters of a mile in area, form an interesting feature of a lake in Mindanao.

Sunlight Soap will not injure your blankets or harden them. It will make them soft, white and fleecy.

HOW TO THROW A HORSE.

To Thoroughly Take the Conceit Out of Him.

To thoroughly take the conceit out of a horse, there is no better way than to throw him. It certainly requires pluck and determination to throw a horse single handed, but if done, your horse is virtually conquered for good and all. To do this put a good strong halter on your horse, take a strap with a ring in it and buckle it round the horse's off foreleg below the fetlock joint; take a rope eight feet long and tie it to this strap; place a surcingle round the horse's body; take up your position on the right side of the horse, bring the rope over the horse's back from the off side; take hold of the rope, and pull his foot to his body; take a firm hold of this foot, holding it in that position, then take hold of the horse's halter with the left hand, pull his head to you, and press against his body with your elbow, using the words "Lie down."

The majority of horses can be thrown in this way in less than a minute, while others, of course, might fight longer. As soon as the animal has been thrown, take the rope that is underneath him, bring it under the surcingle and pass it through the ring of the halter, and back under the surcingle again, and thus you have the rope in position to bring his head over his shoulder. Make him put his head on the ground, and if he makes any attempt to get up, pull his head up immediately, which will prevent him from rising. This will give him thoroughly to understand that you are master. Once a horse realizes your power over him, he will do almost anything a horse can do.

The Most Popular Pill.—The pill is the most popular of all forms of medicine, and of pills the most popular are Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they do what it is asserted they can do, and are not put forward on any fictitious claims to excellence. They are compact and portable, they are easily taken, they do not nauseate nor grip, and they give relief in the most stubborn cases.

Father—"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Dick; you are now in your twenty-fifth year, and you haven't earned a penny yet. At your age I had already married a woman with ten thousand dollars."

It is Known Everywhere.—There is not a city, town or hamlet in Canada where Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is not known—wherever introduced it made a foothold for itself and maintained it. Some merchants may suggest some other remedy as equally beneficial. Such recommendations should be received with doubt. There is only one Electric Oil, and that is Dr. Thomas' Take nothing else.

NOT DESIGNED FOR LOVERS.

He—"I am sure Cupid had nothing to do with the alphabet."

She—"What gives you that impression?"

He—"If he had been doing it he would have placed U and I much nearer each other."

Wash greasy dishes, pots or pans with Lever's Dry Soap a powder. It will remove the grease with the greatest ease.

Ethel (to her dearest friend)—"I put my foot in it so dreadfully when Edwin proposed. I meant to say, 'This is so sudden!' you know, but I was so flustered that instead I exclaimed, 'At last!'"

Signs of Danger.—Have you lost your appetite? Have you a coated tongue? Have you any unpleasant taste in the mouth? Does your head ache and have you dizziness? If so, your stomach is out of order and you need medicine. But you do not like medicine. He that prefers sickness to medicine must suffer, but under the circumstances the wise man would procure a box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills and speedily get himself in health, and strive to keep so.

NO WONDER.

"Julia!" yelled the poet, "why don't you keep that kid quiet? Whats the matter with it?"

"I'm sure I don't know," replied his patient wife; "I'm singing one of your lullabies to the little darling."

EXACT OBEDIENCE.

Native servants in India have the generally desirable though sometimes inconvenient virtue of the Chinese—doing exactly as they are told. The trouble is that they seldom use judgment.

Lord Roberts, during a campaign in India, had ordered his man to prepare his bath at a certain hour. One day a fierce engagement was going on, but the servant made his way through a storm of bullets, and appeared at the commander's side. "Sahib," said he, "your bath is ready."

Even a better story comes from an unknown soldier, who was awakened, one morning, by feeling the servant of a brother officer pulling at his foot.

"Sahib," whispered the man, "sahib, what am I to do? My master told me to wake him at half past six, but he did not go to bed till seven."

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, numbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

TWO FATHERS.

Bishop Wilson of Calcutta, whose speeches are often quoted, had the happy faculty of saying the right thing at all times.

On one occasion two young people whose father were famous for their diverse and peculiar views on Biblical subjects came to see the bishop. "Ah," said he as he greeted one, "your father wrote a great work on the Apocalypse. I congratulate you on being the daughter of such a man."

Then, turning to his other guest, he said: "And your father forbore to write about the Apocalypse—a wise forbearance. You are to be congratulated on having so wise a father."

The Daughter—"I wonder if he will love me as much after we are married?" The Mother—"Never mind. You will not care then whether he does or not so long as you are married."

Superfluous Hair Permanently Removed

While traveling in Mexico I discovered a drug which removes hair from face, arms, neck, or any part of the body instantly and permanently. It will send to any one afflicted without any expense but a postage stamp. Don't judge my treatment by unsuccessful attempts of others. I have suffered for years with this affliction and now my life's work is to help others from this humiliating trouble. My treatment is easy and accomplished at home, and I will forget $500 if it fails to remove hair. Don't suffer longer. Relief is now yours for the asking. Write now, lest you forget my address.
