WIGS MADE OF SPUN GLASS.

The enormous feminine demand for artificial coils and toupees is leading to a lamine in human hair. Formerly Swiss, German and Hungarian girls supplied the world of fashionable women with luxuriant tresses of all tints. But the governments of many countries are now making it illegal for a girl to sell her hair or for an agent to buy it. The supply in consequence is running short and the prices of real hair are trebling. A series of successful experiments point to spun glass as the most effective substitute for human hair. Wigs made from spun glass are wonderfully light and fine and the texture soft and beautiful. It is easy to produce any shade desired, while curls and waves can be manufactured at will to suit the fashion of the moment. The imitation is so realistic and true to life that it is impossible to detect the difference between it and real hair grown on the head.

TREE THAT REALLY WEEPS.

Among the historical curiosities to be seen at Chatsworth House, England, the residence of the Duke of Devonshire, is a willow tree that weeps, very often to the personal discomfort of those beneath it. To the casual observer it appears just an ordinary willow, but on closer inspection it is seen to be artfully artificial. It is made from a metal to closely resemble a tree, and each of its branches is covered with innumerable holes. In fact, the whole tree is a monster syringe, being connected to a water main near by. The key for turning on and off is close at hand, and many a visiting party has been enticed beneath its branches by practical jokers.

A Purely Vegetable Pill.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are compounded from roots, herbs and solid extracts of known virtue in the treatment of liver and kidney complaints and in giving tone to the system whether enfeebled by overwork or deranged through excesses in living. They require no testimonial. Their excellent qualities are well known to all those who have used them and they commend themselves to dyspeptics and those subject to biliousness who are in quest of a beneficial medicine.

An easy way to make money is to buy stocks when they are low and sell them when they are high.

Many Thanks are due from the proprietors of Weaver's Corate to friends who have written to tell of the Corate's good word in curing scrofulous humors, scald head and other skin diseases.

"Well," said he, anxious to make up their quarrel of yesterday, "aren't you curious to know what's in this parcel?" "Not very," replied his wife, indifferently. "Well, it's something for the one I love best in the world." "Ah! I suppose it's those new collars you said you needed."

They Never Knew Failure.—Careful observation of the effects of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills has shown that they act immediately on the diseased organs of the system and stimulate them to healthy action. There may be cases in which the disease has been long seated and does not easily yield to medicine, but even in such cases these Pills have been known to bring relief when all other so-called remedies have failed. These assertions can be substantiated by many who have used the Pills, and medical men speak highly of their qualities.

MIGHTY LITTLE OF A GENTLEMAN.

"I wanted to ask you," he chipped in, as the sea captain was telling a yarn—"I wanted to ask you if in your wanderings you ever came across an old salt named Hoke?" "What, Jim Hoke?" queried the captain. "Yes, Jim Hoke, a short and broad-backed man." "Did he have red hair and a cast in his eye?" "He did." "Was his left thumb gone?" "It was. You must have met him." "I certainly have. Was he anything to you?" "He was my brother, sir." "You don't say! Well, he sailed with me on my last voyage, and I must tell you, brother or no brother, that Jim Hoke was no gentleman. He was fur, fur from it." "How do you mean, captain?" "Why, when the ship went down we took the yawl. After we got short of grub and grew lops, I fell upon your brother Jim to die for the benefit of the rest of us, while we were giving him time to settle his mind and prepare for the change, what did he do but go overboard and let the sharks eat him up! You are his brother, and you look like a decent man, but I'm telling you that we put it to a vote then and there, and it was unanimously carried that Jim Hoke was a good deal of a tarnation hog and mighty little of a gentleman."

COST OF RUSSIA'S POLICE.

Enormous Sums are Spent on Police and Spies.

The "Bourse Gazette" estimates that well over a twentieth of the entire Russian budget is spent on police, and the larger part of this enormous sum—more than $50,000,000 annually—represents the cost of the political police organization, the gendarmerie and the spy department.

The budget, as published, shows only fifty-four million roubles on account of police. This is under the head of the Ministry of the Interior. This ministry, however, has also at its disposal a secret fund, derived from accumulate capital, which never appears in the budget at all, amounting to ten million roubles.

Other ministries, notably the Ministry of the Court, spend enormous sums on police and spies, apart from the expenditure of the recognized police departments. When allowance is made for the sums expended, perforce, by the towns and the village communes on police and spy purposes it is plain that the estimate of the "Bourse Gazette" is well within the mark in saying that more than five per cent. of the Russian budget is spent on police of the kind most favored in Russia—that is, not protectors of the public safety, but spies upon the public in the interests of the "government."

If the expenditure on the necessary corollary to the police system in Russia—the prison and exile organizations—were taken into account the proportion of the Russian budget devoted to repression would assume a still more formidable aspect.

THE EARLY BIRD.

Bishop Brewster is noted for his funny stories, and his latest is said to be about an old reprobate who decided to repent, and announced to everyone that whatever wrong he had done should be made right. So a man whom he had cheated out of a large sum of money went around at midnight to demand it.

"But what a.d. you come at this hour for, and wake me up? Why not wait till to-morrow?" said the old sinner, crossly.

"I came now," replied the man, "to avoid the rush."
